CAPTURE TWO IN 3-DAY SIEGE

SENATOR ASSAILS VICE PRESIDENT'S ACTION

ASHURST BRANDS DAWES' CONDUCT IN CHAMBER AS 'UNSEEMLY AND UNTIMELY'

Smouldering Resentment Upper House Feels Over "Dressing Down" it Received at Hands of Evanston Financier Comes to Surface Few Minutes After Session Opens.

ARIZONA MEMBER LAUNCHES ATTACK WITH "HELL AND MARIA" IN CHAIR

Criticism is Directed, Not at Vice President's Speech in Which he Denounced Rules, But at Illinois Man's Action in Interrupting Swearing in of New Senators.

By GEORGE H. HOLMES

WASHINGTON, March 5.—The smouldering resentment the senate feels over the "dressing down" it received at the hands of Vice President Charles G. Dawes came to the surface today a few minutes after it met.

With General Dawes himself in the chair, Senator Ashurst, Democrat of Arizona, succeeded in getting into the record his opinion of General Dawes' action yesterday as "unseemly and untimely."

Ashurst's criticism was directed, not at the speech of the vice president in which he denounced senate rules, but at the General's action in interrupting the swearing in of new senators to "shoo" everyone out of the chamber for the Coolidge inaugural ceremonies.

Recess Stops Criticism.

Republican leaders succeeded in shutting off any extended criticism of General Dawes by obtaining a recess until 2 p. m. in order to notify President Coolidge that the new senate is in session and ready for business. However, it may only be delayed as several senators, among them Reed, Democrat of Missouri, endeavored to get the floor during the brief opening session.

When the senate convened at noon, Senator Hale, Republican of Maine, and Senator Reed, Democrat of Missouri, both demanded recognition from the chair. After a moment's hesitation, Vice-President Dawes recognized the Maine senator.

Hale said he had noticed in the press certain criticisms of the vice-president for not returning to the senate yesterday after the conclusion of the Coolidge ceremonies, in order to preside. Hale said he took the blame for this and wanted to explain to the senate how it happened.

Senator Hale Explains.

"After the president concluded his speech" said Hale, "the President and Mrs. Coolidge and the Vice President and Mrs. Dawes left the stand and started down toward the car. The vice president said to me, 'I must return to the senate to preside, how do I get there?' I informed him that he was not to return to the senate, but was to go to the White House to review the parade. It was a misunder-

WASHINGTON, March 5.—A harmony slate, headed by Senator Charles Curtis, of Kansas, as majority floor leader, was elected today at a Republican caucus in the senate.

Other officers named were Senator James E. Watson of Indiana, as assistant leader, and Senator James W. Wadsworth of New York, as secretary of the conference.

The caucus also endorsed Senator George H. Moses, Republican, of New Hampshire, as president pro tem, to succeed Senator Albert Cummins, of Iowa; George Sanderson, of Chicago, as sergeant at-arms.

FIRE DESTROYS STOLEN AUTO

Mrs. Katherine Alley's Coupe is Found in Ruins.

A Ford coupe, identified as the property of Mrs. Katherine Alley of Moore street, was destroyed by fire on the Salem-Lisbon road, near Eagleton's Glenn, five miles north of Lisbon, shortly before last midnight.

The machine, parked in front of the Alley home, is believed to have been stolen about 9 o'clock. The theft was not discovered until this morning, when county authorities called local police to inform them of the destruction of the car, carrying a license believed to have been issued in East Liverpool. Police were about to launch an investigation when Mrs. Alley notified them of the theft.

A Jewett sedan, belonging to John Manor, Avondale street, which was stolen while parked in front of a Fourth street theatre, Tuesday evening, was recovered near the Patterson foundry, East Sixth street, yesterday afternoon, where it had been abandoned. It was not damaged.

CHICAGO, March 5. — Despite resistance from packers, the hog market continued its rise today, hitting a top of $13.60. This is an advance of 35 cents over yesterday's top and is the highest paid at the local stock yards in years. There was a sharp demand from shippers, but packers resisted the advance by remaining dormant in the early part of the day.

Good fat steers sold stronger and the plainer kinds were steady. Cows and heifers moved actively and bulls were quoted strong. The calf market was on a firm basis at previous rates. Stockers and feeders sold steady to strong.

Lambs were quoted a little higher in the early session.

FORMER ENVOY

WASHINGTON, March 5.—Frank B. U. S. Attorney Takes Charge of Kansas City Liquor Probe

KANSAS CITY, Mo., March 5.—U. S. District Attorney C. C. Madison today took personal charge of the Kansas City, Mo., liquor scandal with the announcement that he had information that Kansas City was one of the western clearing points for a vast national liquor smuggling ring.

Madison declared today's carload seizure from Biloxi, Miss., was in line with government information that the enforcement forces had made it too hot for the rum fleet off New York and that Biloxi has become the new port of entry for Bermuda, Cuban and Mexican liquor with key shipping points in apportioned territory over the country of which Kansas City is the middle western depot.

The shooting occurred during a family quarrel and was the result of alleged tale-telling by the murdered girl. Stella's husband, Coy Sterchi, and Gladys' mother witnessed the affair.

"My husband has been in jail for some time," the little dwarf told officers. "Stella has been going there telling him tales about men visiting our home and I just killed her, that's all."

Germany's First President Laid to Rest In Heidelberg

Widow Swoons as First Shovelful of Earth is Placed on Coffin of Former Saddle Maker.

BY S. D. WEYER.

HEIDELBERG, Germany, Mar. 5—Friederich Ebert, first President of a republic that rose on the ruins of Empire, was laid to rest today in the old university town where he spent his boyhood days.

Today's ceremony was the simple conclusion of Germany's tribute to the humble, democratic leader, schooled only in the harness shop, the editorial rooms of a Socialist newspaper and his own little inn, whose body yesterday was escorted with all the pomp of a state funeral through the gateway reserved in imperial days for the use of the kaiser.

The strain of the burial today, following the solemn ceremonies of state which Berlin accorded the president, was too great for Frau Ebert, plain woman of the people, who was his unfailing comrade in the lean days of poverty and the trying years of power.

She swooned as the first shoveful of earth was placed on the coffin of her husband and would have fallen but for Chancellor Luther. The chancellor caught Frau Ebert as she fainted, then assisted her to her carriage.

WOOSTER COLLEGE STUDENTS VOTE, 450 TO 253, IN FAVOR OF DANCING

Movement to Bring About Change in Social Conditions at Presbyterian Institution is Under Way.

WOOSTER, O., March 5.—Students of the college of Wooster, in voting 450 to 253 in favor of authorized dancing at the institution, today had started a movement to bring about a change in the social conditions at the college.

"We have reached a place where Wooster's favorite pastime is 'button, button: who's got the button?'" declared one ardent student in depicting the present status of social gatherings among students.

Those who urged the removal of the dancing ban, declared that churches long ago came to the conclusion that the young folk will dance. In their arguments these students asked if it would not be better to have dances properly restricted and supervised than to have students steal forth in clandestine parties to nearby dancing halls, several of which were mentioned by name during the discussion.

Aubrey Dennis, one of the spokesmen for the pro-dance element, suggested a plan by which there would be four [illegible] each year and in addition each chartered organization in school would be permitted one dance, all chaperoned and supervised by faculty members.

Arguments in Favor of Ban.

Arguments against lifting the ban were [illegible] One was that many students in school here are training for young people's work in institutions where dancing is not permitted and that the lack of the dance here gives impetus to the development of various amusements to take its place, which can be used by these students in the work after leaving college.

Another point made was that many persons who give Wooster financial Wren Brothers Lodged in Bellefontaine Jail on Lunacy Charges.

OFFICERS UNHURT

BELLEFONTAINE, O., Mar. 5.—A battle today marked the termination of the three-day siege and resulted in the capture of Ray Wren, 40, and his brother, Harry Wren, 50, farmers living near Rushsylvania. Harry was shot in a thigh. His injuries are not believed serious. They have been lodged in the jail here, pending trial. They were arrested on lunacy warrants.

Neighbor Prefers Charge.

The Wren brothers were working with a team of horses in a field adjoining their farm home when Sheriff Wooley and about 10 deputies surrounded and began closing in on them. The brothers prepared to fight. One of them started to attack the officers with a pitchfork. In subduing the Wren borthers, the officials fired two shots, one of which hit Ray. None of the officers were hurt.

The lunacy warrants were sworn to by James Chamberlain, a neighboring farmer, who claimed the Wren brothers used shotguns on the highway while threatening him. Other neighbors declared the brothers had acted queerly since the death of their mother some months ago.

When the sheriff sought to arrest the brothers three days ago they barricaded themselves in their home and threatened to harm the officials.

PASTOR GUEST OF KIWANIANS

Rev. H. C. Brillhart, Leetonia, Speaks at Noon Luncheon.

Kiwanis ideals were lauded by Rev. H. C. Brillhart, pastor of the St. Paul's Evangelical Lutheran church of Leetonia, in an address before approximately 50 members of the Kiwanis club and their guests in the Larkins annex, at noon today. His subject was "Why We Believe in Kiwanis?"

"We believe in Kiwanis because of its ideals," he said. "The Kiwanis ideal of fellowship is a unique thing—it is a fellowship of men, who believe in the practice of the golden rule. We believe in Kiwanis because it cherishes the ideal of patriotism—not the kind of patriotism which is displayed only in war time or danger but the kind of patriotism that is practiced 365 days a year.

"Woodrow Wilson in future years will be measured by the great ideals which he believed and fought for—that of a great brotherhood of nations, where men could meet and understand each other thereby averting future warfare."

The attendance prize, a motormeter, furnished by A. E. Harris, was awarded to R. C. Heddleston. President G. E. Lewis presided. Prof. H. F. Laughlin acted as song leader.

Ralph Sayre, chairman of the attendance committee, outlined plans for the attendance contest, which will be launched next Thursday The club members will be divided into two sides and the campaign waged much on the same plan as it was last year.

Frank Jones, chairman of the Intercity relations committee, announced that the East Liverpool club had been invited to attend a meeting of the Leetonia Kiwanians on Tuesday, March 31. The entire program will be in charge of the local club members.

Charles Hendershot, head of the public affairs committee, reported on the proposed public comfort station which the club will install at the traction waiting room. The committee was directed to continue its work pending a meeting of the board of directors next Monday evening.

DR. H. E. BLAZER, FAILING IN SUICIDE ATTEMPT, WILL FACE MURDER CHARGE

Former Salineville Physician Denies Knowledge of Killing Invalid Daughter in Colorado.

Dr. Harold E. Blazer, former Salineville physician, who is alleged to have chloroformed his invalid daughter, Hazel Blazer, 32, and then attempted suicide at their home in Littleton, a suburb of Denver, Colorado, a few days ago, will face a charge of first degree murder when he is able to leave the hospital.

Dr. Blazer, who left Salineville about 15 years ago, is charged with having slain his daughter because he feared the girl would become an object of charity following his death.

R. E. Bishop, his son-in-law, with whom the physician and his daughter made their home, says Dr. Blazer made three attempts to end his life, one by poison, another with chloroform and the third by slashing his throat with a razor.

"The details of that afternoon when my daughter was found dead in bed are not clear," said Dr. Blazer when questioned by District Attorney Stone at the hospital. "I cannot seem to recall any of the happenings that day. If I killed Hazel, I did wrong, but I have no recollection whatever of it."

Subject to Mental Lapses.

"I loved the girl dearly and had no reason for taking her life and if I am responsible for her death, I murdered her in a fit of temprorary insanity."

SUNDAY DANCE BAN FIGHT ON

Ohio Legislators Face Mass of Proposals.

COLUMBUS, Mar. 5. — Legislators today will face final disposition of a mass of varied legislation running from a proposed ban on Sunday dancing in public to important measures in the Republican permanent tax relief program.

The senate is scheduled to confirm Governor Donahey's appointments of trustees of Ohio State university and Kent and Bowling Green state normal schools and after disposing of its long calendar, then recess until Monday night.

A battling equaling in bitterness that which developed over the Buchanan Bible reading is expected in the house if backers push the Gordon bill, prohibiting road house dancing on Sunday, unless consent is obtained by the governing body of the township. The measure is the second of the bills backed by the reform block in the house. Enough supporters are counted upon to pass the b.ll.

Opposition To Bus Bill.

Two measures on the Republican tax program will be up for final passage in the house. One is the Williams bill, permitting the state to accept a franchise tax for 1924 from foreign corporations operating in Ohio, on a basis of the domestic corporation rate and in lieu of personal property taxes for that year. This, it is claimed, will save the state $1,000,000 which would otherwise have been lost because of a decision of the United States supreme court which held unconstitutional the Ohio tax on foreign corporations. The other measure is the Krueger bill limiting the life of bonds, issued to pay for improvements, to the life of the improvements.

The long fight over the Collister City Home Rule Bus bill, now before Gov. Donahey for action, will be renewed at a hearing on the measure ordered by the governor for March 13. Two speeches will be allowed opponents and proponents of the measure. Briefs will be studied by the governor before he acts on the bill. The measure automatically will become a law March 16 unless the governor uses his veto power before that date. It was said today at the governor's office that strong opposition to the bill has been voiced.

Other Bills Await Action.

Van Swearingen interests were reported today to be considering electrification of the Norfolk and Western railroad, under powers to be granted to the state utilities commission by the Davis electrification bill, which will come up in the senate today for second reading. The bill, which passed the house Wednesday, gives the commission authority to prescribe regulations governing electrification of steam railroads.

Salaries of judges and officials of common pleas and superior courts in cities of more than 150,000 population are increased under the Raney bill which is scheduled for second reading and reference to committee in the house today, after passage Wednesday by the senate.

Other bills scheduled for similar action include: By Senator Gillen, Jackson, permitting game wardens to carry concealed weapons; by Garver, Holmes, legalizing Central and Eastern Standard time zones in Ohio as fixed by the Interstate Commerce Commission; by Voreys, a resolution authorizing a joint legislative committee to inquire into advisability of an Ohio building at the Philadelphia Centennial exposition in 1926.

The Davidson re- ing State Queens against pollution, is expected to be sent to the governor today, following final passage by the senate Wednesday.

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, March 5.—The stock market was dull and heavy in the early trading today with prices of active stocks inclined to lower levels, in continuation of the selling movement which concluded yesterday's session. Some of the industrial leaders made a strong stand at the opening with high priced equipment stocks selling 1 to 3 points higher. But selling orders swept into the market and prices gravitated quickly to lower levels.

Speculative interest in the financial district centered around a number of important dividend meetings, including the American Locomotive, American Steel Foundaries, etc., and the stock holders' meeting of the American Car and Founry company, to vote on splitting the stock 2 to 1.

Dr. H. E. Blazer

Since the death of Mrs. Blazer, about two years ago, the care of the crippled daughter, who was neither able to talk nor walk, had rested upon the shoulders of the physician. The girl had been a cripple since birth as the result of a spinal affliction.

According to members of the family, Dr. Blazer recently has been subject to temporary mental lapses and for that reason he was compelled to give up his practice of medicine. He said that during his medical profession he had known persons who would have been better off had they died in their infancy, but that he never felt that way about his own daughter.

EAST END MASS MEET CALLED

Arguments on Mulberry Street Plan Will be Heard.

The street committee of city council and other members of the administration will hear arguments for and against the proposed resurfacing of Mulberry street, at a mass meeting to be held in the East End fire station, Virginia avenue, at 7:30 o'clock tonight.

The meeting was arranged by the street committee, made up of Councilmen N. P. Kerr, Thomas Farrall and Fred Eardley, after a delegation of Mulberry street property holders appeared before the solons last Friday in behalf of a petition opposing the resurfacing program.

Mayor Charles Brown, City Engineer George and possibly Service Director A. G. Ellis will attend.

Opponents of resurfacing argue that the assessments for the construction of the sanitary sewer in East End are due this year, and they are opposed to increasing their financial burden until this debt has been cancelled. Others declare that if the street is not surfaced at this time, the improvement may not be made for several years.

Engineer George has estimated that the plan will cost approximately $3 per running foot, the cost to be divided between the city and the abutting property holders. Council has agreed to call upon the traction company to remove its tracks before the improvement is started.

The solons have taken the stand that they have no desire to legislate for this improvement if the property holders do not want it, explaining that the money can be used on other streets.

The Mulberry street improvement would mean a new low grade road from the Diamond into East End.

Representatives of road and street contracting firms have been asked to attend the meeting tonight.

Kellogg was visibly nervous as he raised his right hand to take the oath and his hand trembled noticeably while Justice Butler was speaking.

As soon as Kellogg had been sworn in, Justice Butler shook hands and congratulated him. Then Mr. Hughes offered his congratulations and walked out of the diplomatic reception room, where the ceremony was held, a private citizen again.

Representative Allen J. Furlough of Rochester, Minn., where Secretary Kellogg began the practice of law, asked for the pen with which Mr. Kellogg and Justice Butler signed the oath of office and Secretary Kellogg handed it to him.

Kellogg had a three quarter of an hour conference with President Coolidge.

MIDLAND ROAD WORK DELAYED

Pennsylvania Seeks Understanding on Division of Expense.

Completion of the improvement of the River Road between the state line and Midland, known as Route 243 is being delayed "because of the time negotiations require for arriving at an agreement with the Pennsylvania Railroad and The Steubenville, East Liverpool & Beaver Valley traction company, relative to the division of costs in making changes in the location of the highway in Smiths Ferry.

This is the information which has been forwarded to the East Liverpool Chamber of Commerce by J. L. Herber, Pennsylvania state highway district engineer, of Pittsburgh, following an inquiry.

"As soon as it is possible to arrive at an understanding as to the cost division, the matter will be presented to the public service commission of this state for their approval after which the work can proceed without delay," the latter concludes.

The road between Beaver and Midland has been completed with the exception of a short stretch through Industry. The distance between Midland and the state line is less than three miles.

Senator Ashurst then obtained the floor.

"Mr. president," he said biting his words off, "I saw in the press this morning certain criticisms attributed to me of the vice president. I rise to a point of personal privilege to say that there are certain parts of the vice president's speech with which I am in accord. My criticism was directed at the unseemly and untimely interruption by the vice president of the ceremonies of the new senators taking the oath of office."

General Dawes stood erect behind his chair and said nothing.

Senator Curtis, the Republican leader, then obtained a recess and the appointment of a committee consisting of himself and Senator Robinson, the Democratic leader, to inform the president that the new senate has organized and is ready for business. A recess was taken until 2 p. m.

Senators Curtis of Kansas and Robinson of Arkansas, the majority and minority leaders, called at the White House at 1 o'clock to advise President Coolidge that the senate had assembled and was ready for business.

What the Well-Dressed Young Girl Will Wear This Spring

Her coat will be masculine, for, like grown-ups' fashions, simplicity, bordering on the masculine is the vogue. Single or double-breasted, fastened with ornamental buttons. Distinguished by youthful collars, smart cuffs and unusual pockets. Some with feminine touches of trimming, others uncompromisingly tailored. In tweeds, plaids and soft woolens in all colors.

Her Frock Will Be Simple and Smart

Fashion permits both, and here she will find all the newest styles for school, calling or party wear. Lovely light colors, bright hues or practical dark shades enlivened with color.

Her Hat Will Have a Saucy French Air.

These Madge Evans hats have been carefully chosen and include the types that the young girl can wear smartly with all sorts of costumes. Small hats with up-turned brims. Mushrooms. And cloches. In felt, silk and straws in spring's own colors.

Her Gloves Will Be Gauntlets

Gauntlet gloves are smartest for Juniors as well as grown-ups. A number of styles are here for dress or tailored wear, interestingly varied in treatment and in smart new colors.

Her Handbag Will Be Colorful

The brighter the handbag, the smarter it is for Spring and the more it will find favor in the eyes of the young Miss. We have an excellent variety of shapes, sizes and colors that will suit her to perfection. Pouch bags, mesh bags, or flat purses in brocade, leather, silk or beads.

Her Hosiery Is a Matter of Taste

She may lean to woolen sports socks or stockings of silk but whichever she has in mind, she will find them in good taste for Spring. There are hosiery for cotton, fibre, silk and mixtures for every color scheme and every occasion. Sturdily made so that she need give them no second thought.

Business Progress

At the end of 1924 nearly everybody was bubbling over with business optimism. The new year started off with a rush. Then in February came a lull and a change of tone. Many people began to look upon the prophecies as false, and wrap themselves in gloom.

There may have been no reason for extravagant optimism; neither was there reason later for extravagant pessimism. There is usually a lull in February. Even so, it has not been anything like a genuine relapse. Figures show that business in general, even while slowing its pace a little, has continued its recovery. Production has expanded. Employment has increased. Wages have advanced. Wholesale prices have moved up. The railroads have reported remarkably heavy loadings for this season of the year. Bank clearings have grown. Though some lines have slackened, the great mass of business has moved ahead.

The trouble seems to have been mainly psychological. People who were expecting too rapid progress mistook moderate progress for retrogression. People in lines not yet caught up with the general business movement saw everything wrong. February is always likely to breed mental depression anyway. With March, the business pace should quicken and there should be widespread recognition of the real gains made.

Parental Public Duty

A news story tells of a Chicago father who caused the arrest of his burglar son because he placed "duty to public above parental love." The culprit is described as a slender boy of 17 years, member of a gang of youthful crooks connected with two definitely known burglaries. The other boys had already been caught. This one fled from the city for a while, but finally came home. After hours of discussion between father and son, it was decided to summon the police.

"I had to do it," the father said. "I might have shielded him, but it wouldn't be right."

The reader naturally wonders where the father's public duty and parental love were when the boy first went wrong and whether it was inevitable that the lad should fall into an evil gang. Less Spartan sternness and more understanding intelligence earlier perhaps might have saved the boy from wrongdoing and disgrace.

But there is a hopeful element in the story. Perhaps in those "hours of discussion" father and son may have reached a better understanding of each other along with their decision about the particular situation. If this is so, it is probably the last time that boy will ever have to "face the music" for committing a crime. Father and son may both be better citizens hereafter.

School Exams for Grown-Ups

Lord Rothermere, brother of the late Lord Northcliffe and heir to his great group of newspapers and magazines, is a hero. Or at least, is a sport. He accepted a challenge, given him by the president of the National Union of Teachers, to take a "general knowledge examination" such as is given to school boys. The challenge was inspired by Lord Rothermere's criticism of the school system on the ground of inefficiency.

There are to be "seven sums and 18 general questions" in the examination. The grown-up pupil who will try to answer them left school 42 years ago, at the age of 14. To make it all the more a sporting venture, he will pay $5,000 to the British Labor party if he fails to get a standing of 75 per cent.

That list of questions will be read with interest in America, and may distract attention from cross-word puzzles for a day or two.

It might be worth while to start something of the sort in this country, and see whether our critical grown-ups in general are really well-educated and well-informed, compared with the present generation of pupils, or just a lot of old bluffers who don't know a good educational system when they see it.

It's queer how the successful man always says he likes to work, and the man who really enjoys work seldom makes money.

Haskin Letter

BY FREDERIC J. HASKIN

THE BOARD OF TAX APPEALS

WASHINGTON, March 5.—The United States board of tax appeals, created by the revenue act of 1924, has now been functioning seven months, and in that time has received 1,900 petitions and actually disposed of about 600 cases. This appears to set a new record for action in such a young organization under the government. It has been said that some of the federal bureaus and commissions did not actually begin functioning for a year or a year and a half after they were created by law.

The tax board, however, takes itself seriously. It realizes how tremendously important it may be in assisting the citizen in unraveling his tax tangle. Prior to its creation a taxpayer who felt that he had been overcharged on his taxes had no redress other than to pay them and then file his claim for a refund. This was a long and tedious performance. If he were granted a refund it sometimes took several years for the matter to be adjusted and for him to obtain it.

In addition, he had the natural feeling that the commissioner of internal revenue would be inclined to decide any doubtful question against the taxpayer. This might be done not from a desire to discriminate against the taxpayer, but from a desire to prove the commissioner's efficiency by collecting as much money for the government as possible.

Under the law which provided for the new board, the commissioner of internal revenue cannot collect any tax if the taxpayer wishes to appeal it. The board must give its decision first. If this decision is in favor of the taxpayer, the commissioner may either abide by it, or if he still feels that he is right, he may sue in the courts to obtain the additional tax.

The taxpayer has the same privilege. If the decision is unfavorable to him, he may pay the tax demanded and then sue in the district court or the court of claims to recover it. However, if the tax has already been paid he cannot petition the board, since it has no jurisdiction to compel the treasury to refund it. He can only sue to collect a refund.

TWELVE MEMBERS APPOINTED

The act provides that the president may appoint 28 members whose terms shall expire on June 2, 1926, and that thereafter the board shall consist of seven members with overlapping terms running up to 10 years. The act was passed June 2, 1924, and early in July the president appointed 12 members.

These appointments were made without reference to politics—there being both Republicans and Democrats on the board. They are for the most part active, energetic men in their early forties. They have all had training and experience which particularly fits them for their positions. Above all they are tremendously enthusiastic about the work of the board and none of them is a "10 o'clock scholar." They all report early and usually may be found in their offices up until 6 or 7 o'clock. It is not uncommon for them to work on Sundays and in the evenings.

Several of them gave up opportunities which guaranteed substantially larger incomes than they receive as compensation as members of the board of tax appeals. They feel, however, that they are participating in a big public service and a personal feeling of satisfaction makes up to them their monetary loss.

Right here might be added that the enthusiasm does not end with the members of the board. The force of clerks and stenographers with which they have surrounded themselves has become imbued with the same spirit and few are 'clock watchers." Four-thirty does not mean a break-neck race for hat and coat in this organization. Perhaps an explanation of this is that every clerk was carefully picked with a view to his particular qualifications. While they come under the same rules and regulations as other civil service employes these rules are administered with as little irksomeness as possible. Each one is intensely interested in the work of the board and anxious to do his bit toward making it a success.

The board is an independent agency, separate and distinct from any other department or bureau. It is responsible to no federal authority other than the president. It is in effect a judicial tribunal of limited jurisdiction. It has power to review determinations of the commissioner of internal revenue with respect to income and profits taxes, estate taxes and the new gift tax. It has no precedents to go upon and judges each case upon the facts and circumstances as laid before it.

GIVES TAXPAYERS A CHANCE

For the first time the taxpayer feels that he has a fair chance when he complains that he has been over-assessed. It has been estimated by the chairman of the board that approximately 50 per cent of the cases in which written decision has been made have been decided in favor of the taxpayer. Certainly this encourages Mr. General Public to feel that he has at last found a friend.

One such decision was in the case of a small grocer down in Tennessee. This man's store and warehouse was simply a small box-like concrete structure without reinforcement, erected upon a sand foundation. It stood within 100 feet of a railroad and 200 feet from a railroad switching yard. He complained to the board that the commissioner of internal revenue would allow him only the same rate of depreciation which would be allowed on a reinforced concrete structure many times the size of his building, and located in the heart of a large city where the vibration would be negligible. The board reviewed the case and decided that the man was right in his contention.

A case where it decided in favor of the commissioner, however, was that of a wealthy woman who purchased a country estate in 1907 and placed thereon many improvements which greatly enhanced its value. A large part of this estate was woodland. A few years ago the section of Massachusetts where this estate was located suffered a severe "ice storm," which is really a heavy rain followed immediately by a freeze. The accompanying high wind blew the tops off all the trees, in some cases nearly a third of the tree being broken.

This woman's claim was that because the trees were broken the value of the estate was lessened by about $3,000 and she wished to take this amount as a loss when filing income tax returns. The board held with the commissioner that since she had not sold the estate she had not actually sustained a loss. It was just another case of the little understood fact that neither a profit nor a loss can be taken until the entire transaction has been completed.

Another case was that of two men who entered into brokerage partnership. They were successful and the profits were so great that a considerable surtax was due on each one's share. In order to circumvent the payment of these surtaxes each man entered into a partnership with his wife, whereby they agreed to share all profits and all losses. These were the only conditions of the contract. The board, however, did not hold with this, and ruled that each man must pay the surtax due on the full amount of profits which he received from the partnership.

Another interesting phase of the work of the board is that many well-known and interesting persons plead their own cases. A short time ago the feminine contingent of the board's staff was thrown into what is sometimes called a "state" by the arrival of Florenz Ziegfeld, A. L. Erlanger and Charles Dillingham. When asked if any human interest feature developed at this hearing, a member of the board said, "The only human interest noted was that of the stenographers who formed a steady parade past the door of the room in which the hearing was held."

When a hitherto rather tight husband begins to ease up a little on the money he gives his wife she thinks it is about time to put a detective on his track, or send for a doctor.—Newark American-Tribune.

Neighborhood News— By Fontaine Fox

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, March 5.—Off the coast of Ireland today we ran into another "bit of wind, sir." Yet our nearness to land gave us courage. We will touch Plymouth, the first port of call, in the morning. Then on to Cherbourg where we disembark.

Palms are beginning to itch. Tipping time has come. The perquisites for a couple crossing the Atlantic amount to about five pounds or $25. This is exclusive of the gouge for the seamen's fund. It seems to me some of this should go to the widows and orphans of American seamen as it is contributed chiefly by Americans.

I understand the most remunerative job on a liner is that of the chief smoking room steward. This comes mostly from his rake off of the auction pool nightly which runs into hundreds of dollars. It is a gambling game in which bets are pooled on the next day's run of the ship.

The salary of a liner captain is about $5,000 a year. Nearly half of this goes to the British government for taxes. Poor pay for a man who in case of disaster must click his heels and go down with his ship.

I have never seen an auction pool on a ship that didn't have the most officious person on board for the auctioneer. It seems to be a job for the professional smart alec—one of those uncouth, underbred persons who are so well known in New York.

This one was no exception, indeed a little worse than most. He was a loud mouthed vulgarian and I was glad to see an American banker and a titled Englishman leave the lounge in disgust. As a matter of fact, I see no good reason for the auction pool. It panders to the lowest taste.

Despite rough seas and a difficult voyage my only catastrophe is of a somewhat impersonal nature. The night before leaving New York my portable typewriter gave a few gasps and expired. I was leaving before stores opened and in my dilemma I was aided by Peter B. Kyne, the novelist, who loaned me his. The casing made me feel quite important as Peter has just circled the globe and it was criss-crossed with bright labels from Hong Kong, Singapore, Bombay, Constantinople and so forth. A lurch of the ship today sent it flying. Springs popped, keys fell out and the ribbon was in a hopeless snarl. It seems altogether useless—which makes it rather hard on the owner.

Only the most urgent necessity will make me cross the Atlantic again during winter months. It is physically exhausting and nerve straining. A double trial for me, for aside from my own discomfort I was obliged to do a certain amount of work each day. The usher will now pass among you with fresh handkerchiefs and all please weep silently.

We were cheered today by the improvement in the little baby on the way to Capetown who is ill with tonsilitis. A ship becomes pretty much like a small town in its neighborliness. There is light gossip and a close knit air of friendliness. And during stormy weather this camaraderie is accentuated.

People are inclined to light reading on liners. Among the books noticed on the promenade deck were "Rugged Waters"—(And why that?) "The Grand Duke's Finances," "Flaming Youth," "Mr. and Mrs. Haddock Abroad," "R. F. D. No. 3" and acres of cross-word puzzle books. "White Light Nights," by a certain author, is in the library, but the librarian told me they had not had a single call for it.

Already sea gulls are darting out from England to welcome us with their piratical and graceful dips. Of all birds, they interest me most. I can watch them for hours.

NEWSY GOSSIP OF BIG CITIES

By ALICE LANGELIER.

PARIS, March 5.—That time is not money in the French capital is very easy to believe from the number of stopped clocks one finds around the city. A certain American has just been wandering about making a note of them and has found there are at least 215 timepieces in public places which do not run and there are undoubtedly many more he did not find.

Some of the clocks have no hands, others have but one. Even many of the watchmakers who have clocks above their windows no longer keep them in order. Perhaps it is to encourage the sale of watches. And what is more amusing is to find that the few clocks that are running report various hours. The same American found that the clocks at all the railway stations showed a different hour, as well as the six clocks he passed from the Place St. Michel to the opera, every one reporting a difference of some minutes.

It is undoubtedly this disregard for the minutes which makes Paris the paradise of American pleasure-seekers and the bugbear of business men. To be 10 or 15 minutes late for an appointment means very little in any Frenchman's life. And if a train is late, why worry? There will be another along in an hour or so.

A French tourist agency for sea voyage has just launched a circular which is not lacking in originality.

"It is Cupid," reads the announcement, "who is the sovereign director of our boats. The proof is in the number of marriages celebrated between the passengers after each one of our cruises. Our voyages are made in tropical latitudes where the breezes are soft and the moon always on hand. Numerous are the opportunities for awakening ideas of marriage among many people."

The same agency also announces that in order to avoid annoying delays of marriage until the return to land two clergymen are always on board and ready for service.

All Frenchmen did not turn in their gold at the beginning of the war when the government sent out its orders. Fifty thousand pieces of it have just been found in an old stove in Paris. Pierre Damet, a journalist, saw the stove at an old iron dealer's, dickered with him and finally arrived at a bargain of ten francs. While he was loading it onto a wheelbarrow to cart it away a piece of the grate fell out, revealing a cachet in which was the sack of gold. The dealer naturally tried to get back the precious stove, but Pierre walked off to estimate the treasure.

Instead of killing lost dogs that reach the Paris pound, there is some talk of selling them. It has just been found that the pound costs the city at least one million francs a year. Dogs of every kind and color find their way there and if not reclaimed by their masters in 48 hours they are put to death. In the year 1916, which was particularly bad for the canine population of the French capital, 21,735 dogs were sent to the "dog house" and 17,027 were asphyxiated. In 1918 19,352 were found, but only 15,404 were done away with. Some were reclaimed, and a large number given over to the laboratories for vivisection purposes. There seems to be no important objection for not selling many of the best dogs at a profit for the city treasury, unless sanitary reasons be considered, and these are not difficult to overcome.

TODAY

BY ARTHUR BRISBANE

(The opinions expressed in this column are strictly those of Mr. Brisbane and not necessarily in consonance with the policies of The Review-Tribune).

WELCOME, MR. PRESIDENT

To Calvin Coolidge, inaugurated yesterday, welcome to the presidency of the United States, on your own hook, with a vote and a plurality bigger than any other president ever got.

The people know that your one desire is to serve them faithfully. They believe that you will be successful in your effort to increase prosperity and opportunity and demonstrate the soundness of the theory underlying this government that the people are able to govern themselves.

TO HIM THAT HATH

To him that hath. This is written at Los Angeles, looking over the city from the top of the Ambassador hotel.

S. W. Straus, who owns the Ambassador there, in New York and in Atlantic City, and has done more than any other American to make up for the building shortage, is a good judge of real estate.

He says:

"California has not even begun to move. Newspapers talk about the second million in Los Angeles' population.

"The second will be here and the third million on the way before the people realize it. A city situated as this grows like a rolling snowball.

"Everything fundamental that a state could need was here from the beginning—climate, location, fertility. The two things needed, population and capital, are pouring in from all parts of the United States."

"To him that hath shall be given."

When you have nearly everything, the rest is given to you. Today the federal government starts spending six and a half millions improving the Los Angeles harbor, which, you are proudly told, already has a traffic second only to New York among the harbors of the United States.

Far more important than anything the government, or the east, could do, are the things that the people of California are now doing for themselves. The Imperial valley this year will produce $13,000,000 worth of long staple cotton as good as any grown in Egypt.

The next step will be to make that cotton into cloth out here, instead of shipping it to eastern mills and eastern workers.

An intense effort is made to build up industry, all sorts of manufactures here. The people of California realize that apart from the prosperous few, the thing that new citizens look for is a chance to make a living.

California's population will increase from 2,000,000 to 20,000,000 long before this century ends, and California is determined to find useful, profitable occupation for the new millions.

BORN IN IT, BURIED IN IT

Ebert, Germany's dead president, will be buried as a Roman Catholic, the rites of the church performed by Fr. Mass, of Heidelberg. Ebert spent his life as a Socialist, he and his fellows being rather hostile to religion as a "power" seeking to make workmen contented and obedient in their miserable condition.

But born in the Catholic church, he will be buried in it. Death, when it comes, is a strange, overwhelming thing, and the average mind turns eagerly to some power that says with confidence, "Leave all to me."

PNEUMOCOCCUS SAYS "COME"

William Andrews Clark, formerly senator from Montana, now dead in his magnificent New York palace, began with nothing in the usual way, and got many millions. He could say to others, "Come and go." They went and came as he bade them.

Thousands worked for him, including many politicians. He had money, and that is power.

But all the money and power, all the doctors, with all their advice, will not free the richest man when the deadly microscopic pneumococcus appears.

That infinitesimal pneumonia germ has no millions of dollars, no bank account. But when it says, "come," the richest man must follow.

Warning to rich and poor; keep up your vitality with sunshine, sleep, wise eating, peace of mind. Only wisdom will fight the germ; money will not do it.

Harry Sinclair knows about oil, and says the supply will not last. The ordinary man, told that 300,000,000 barrels are stored above ground, asks, "Why worry?"

Mr. Sinclair says this country will use up the 300,000,000 barrels in 130 days.

It is fortunate that President Coolidge is interested in oil conservation. Scientists employed by the nation should seek out new oil deposits, to be protected for national use.

Unless vast new deposits are found gasoline will soon climb to 50 cents a gallon and higher, and some other power for engines must be discovered. It is a great opportunity for an inventor to build a light, efficient electric battery.

DINNER STORIES

The habitual inebriate was met at the door by his irate spouse. He had a large swelling on his forehead and bore traces of a recent nose-bleed.

"You drunkard," she said, "you have been fighting again!"

"No, m'dear."

"Don't tell me 'No,' how did you get that bump on your head?"

"I bumped it on the chand'leer."

The self-conscious young man had just selected some striped hosiery. He wished to have a charge made. The salesgirl, incidentally chewing gum, inquired his name.

"Gurls. Will B. Curls," he muttered in philosophical monotone.

"Yes, yes, but your name," insisted the counter Venus.

"But Gur—"

"Never mind the girls. I'm trying to make this charge," she interrupted.

"Will Gurls," he began with a blush.

A certain painter is confined in an asylum. To persons who visit him he says: "Look at this; it is my latest masterpiece."

They look and see nothing but a bare expanse of canvas. They ask: What does it represent?"

"That? Why, that represents the passage of the Israelites through the Red sea."

"Beg pardon, but where is the sea?"

"And where are the Israelites?"

"And the Egyptians?"

"They will be here directly. That's the sort of painting I like—simple and unpretentious."

The small child was very busy teasing the kitten, when her mother remonstrated:

"Phyllis, the next time you hurt that kitten, I am going to do the same thing to you. If you hit or pinch it, I shall hit or pinch you. If you pull its ears, I shall pull yours."

Silence for a moment, then:

BETTER THAN CALOMEL

Thousands Have Discovered Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets Are a Harmless Substitute.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—the substitute for calomel—are a mild but sure laxative, and their effect on the liver is almost instantaneous. These little olive-colored tablets are the result of Dr. Edwards' determination not to treat liver and bowel complaints with calomel.

The pleasant little tablets do the good that calomel does, but have no bad after effects. They don't injure the teeth like strong liquids or calomel. They take hold of the trouble and quickly correct it. Why cure the liver at the expense of the teeth? Calomel sometimes plays havoc with the gums. So do strong liquids. It is best not to take calomel. Let Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets take its place.

Headaches, "dullness" and that lazy feeling come from constipation and a disordered liver. Take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets when you feel "logy" and "heavy." They "clear" clouded brain and "perk up" the spirits. 15c and 30c.

Suffered With Piles For Years

Says Hamadala Has Cured Him

3152 Main St., Buffalo, N. Y.,
August 15, 1924.

Gentlemen — I have been troubled with piles for twelve or thirteen years and although I consulted several of the best recommended physicians, and used verious salves prescribed by them as remedies, I was never able to obtain relief.

Through an acquaintance I was advised to try Hamadala Pile Tablets, which I did. I took just one box. Nearly four months have elapsed since I stopped taking the tablets, and there is no sign of the piles returning. I am therefore writing this letter with the absolute belief that Hamadala Tablets have positively and permanently corrected my trouble.

Yours very truly,

Croup Relieved Without Dosing

Too much dosing is harmful to a child's delicate stomach. Often it lays the foundation for ill health in later life.

The next time a child seems croupy in the evening apply Vicks over throat and chest and cover with a warm flannel cloth. Leave the bedclothing loose about the neck so that the arising vapors may be freely inhaled. This usually prevents a night attack.

If croup comes on without warning an application of Vicks usually brings relief in 15 minutes.

HOWARD M. GORE TAKES OFFICE

New Governor Sworn in Before Large Crowd at Capital.

Howard M. Gore of Clarksburg, who resigned as secretary of agriculture in President Coolidge's cabinet Tuesday took the oath of office as governor of West Virginia yesterday at Charleston in the presence of an audience of 10,000 persons.

A day of cermeonies, beginning with his arrival in Charleston after daybreak, and concluding with the inaugural ball, which lasted until after the midnight hour witnessed the formal transfer of direction of the executive power of the government from the hands of Ephriam F. Morgan into those of Mr. Gore.

It was 1:45 p. m., when President Frank Lively read the constitutional oath: "Do you solemnly swear that you will support the constitution of the United States and the constitution of the state of West Virginia and that you will faithfully discharge the duties of governor to the best of your skill and judgment? so help you God" And Mr. Gore answered: "I do."

Before taking the oath he had read his inaugural address with a general discussion of problems facing the state, and a declaration that his program would be merely applying the rule of "right and reason" to each issue as it arose.

The day broke with the sky overcast with clouds which shut out the sun even at the time the inaugural parade wound its way through the city before the inaugural ceremony, but almost at the time Governor Gore began his adrress the clouds parted the sun shown down on the crowd.

Mr. Gore read his inaugural address from the text he had prepared, but was interrupted from time to time by applause of his auditors. Declarations that he would not brook encroachment upon the functions of the government, his insistence that common sense and justice must be masters at our council tables, and his statement "I have no policy save the rule of right and reason," called forth a response from the witnesses of the ceremonies that required him to pause until he could again be heard.

Just as he concluded taking the oath of office another reminder of his service to the nation came when little Marion Sullivan brought up a large basket of flowers, the gift of his associates in Washington, which was presented to him by Judge Graham, and in response Mr. Gore paid a tribute to the "earnest, consecrated, men and women" serving in the national government.

facts about Child-birth

IT has been proven conclusively that much of the suffering, pain and dread experienced during expectancy, as well as at child-birth is entirely unnecessary.

An eminent physician, Dr. J. H. Holmes, expert in this science, first produced the great remedy "Mother's Friend," which aids the muscles and tissues to expand more easily, during the constant readjustment, month after month, right up to the climax of child-birth.

"Mother's Friend" is applied externally. Three generations of expectant mothers have used it. "Pains disappeared in two days after using 'Mother's Friend,'" writes a user. "I owe my life to 'Mother's Friend,'" declared another. Use "Mother's Friend" as our mothers and grandmothers did, start today and experience the wonderful comfort it will give you.

AIMS TO LIVE 100 YEARS

An Ancient Secret From Europe.

A PITTSBURGH MAN TELLS HIS SECRET

In June, 1913, H. H. Von Schlick, of Pittsburgh, Pa., could be seen any day visiting prominent Pittsburgh business men in their downtown offices. He carried a satchel, and his arrival was always greeted by a smile indicating welcome. These men were his customers. They drank at his "fountain of youth." They accredited him with a new lease of life and the healthy condition of their families.

Where did he get it?

That is the story every reader of this article should memorize.

During the spring of 1899 I became acquainted with Mr. Boris Marokeff, an old native of Bulgaria. I was a very sick man at the time, and Mr. Marokeff stated that he would give me his formula of an herb medicinal tea, used extensively in his native land, which he was sure would at once help me get well.

"I'll make it for you," he told Mr. Von Schlick. "It is composed of leaves, barks, roots, herbs and flowers of different plants intended by the Creator for his sick children. You will note a new feeling. You will begin to be a new man."

I tried this Bulgarian Herb Tea, and today, at near 60, I feel as young as I did at 35. Mr. Von Schlick states that people who have been sick for years tell him that they feel 10 to 30 years younger, after using Bulgarian Herb Tea for only a short time.

The fame of Bulgarian Herb Tea spreads rapidly. Today it is used by millions of people all over the world, fighting off old age weaknesses. They include happy girls, budding into womanhood or women crossing precarious thresholds of life. All praise and recommend it. Men are aided to recover their strength and vitality, the fire and spring of good health returns to those who were in despair.

I want every person who is sick and ailing to try my Bulgarian Herb Tea. I know it will bring back the cheer and sunshine of good health into your life—only try it is all I ask.

See your druggist for a package today—insist on having it—tell him you want Bulgarian Herb Tea; take no imitations or substitutes. Insist on getting the genuine Bulgarian Herb Tea, made by me. That's what you must have. I put it up in three sizes—35c. 75c, $1.25.

Note—Many people live on farms and in small towns, where there is no drug store. They need this great medicine badly, and should have it, so I will send, by mail, my large five months' treatment for $1.25. Address me, H. H. Von Schlick, President, 831 Locust street, Pittsburgh, Pa.

POEMS THAT LIVE

Forget Me Not.

Go, youth beloved, in distant glades,
New friendss, new hopes, new joys to find,
Yet sometimes deign, midst fairer maids,
To think of her thou leav'st behind.
Thy love, thy fate, dear youth, to share,
Must never be my happy lot,
But thou mayst grant this humble prayer,
Forget me not, forget me not!

Yet should the thought of my distress
Too painful to thy feelings be,
Heed not the wish I now express,
Nor ever deign to think on me;
But, oh, if grief thy steps attend,
If want, if sickness be thy lot,
And thou require a soothing friend;
Forget me not, forget me not!

Recent Excavations Sheds Light on Life of Imperial Rome

TRIPOLI—Most interesting light on the life of imperial Rome in Africa has been shed by recent excavations at Leptis Magna.

Professor Paribeni, superintendent of antiquities, at Rome, has recently visited the excavations. He states that the discoveries are important, as the splendid marble buildings and their architectural decorations are in an excellent state of preservation. These excavations establish Leptis Magna as the most important monument to Roman civilization in northern Africa, as they preserve almost intact the imperial characteristics which the Emperor Septimus Severus implanted on his native city.

Uniform Flag Decoration Urged For Holidays By Legion Here

Merchants are Asked to Purchase Flags Which Will be Suspended From 10-foot Pole Drilled Into Curbing.

If a movement, sponsored by East Liverpool Post No. 4, American Legion, and endorsed by the Chamber of Commerce, materializes the down town business district will have a uniform flag decoration for all holidays beginning with Memorial Day.

The flags, suspended from a 10-foot pole, mounted in a socket which will be drilled into the sidewalk curbing. This socket will be fitted with a metal cap to keep out dirt and debris when the flag is not being displayed.

Each merchant has been asked to purchase his own flag and pole. The sockets will be drilled into the street free of charge with every order for a flag which is placed through the Legion.

The proposed uniform flag decoration has already been adopted in many communities as a means of eliminating the draping of the colors in front of business structures where they soon become dirty, ragged and torn. With such a system in effect, the entire business district can be decorated upon short notice, if the need arises.

Snow Awes In Jerusalem.

Snow is so rare in Jerusalem that whenever it falls it is the occasion for dire exclamations and expressions of awe. A real snow fall is so rare in fact that when the elements visit the Holy City in this way the native residents look upon it as nothing short of a disaster.

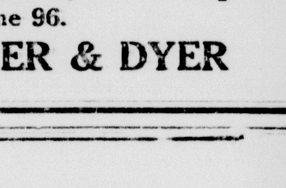
Says---Now Stiff Joints Must Go!

Joint-Ease they call this wonder working substance, for the reason that when ordinary remedies fail to limber up the stiff, inflamed rheumatic joint, or reduce the swelling, Joint-Ease succeeds.

It's a good name for a good, clean, penetrating prescription that in just a few months has proven to a multitude of people that lame, swollen, distorted joints can speedily have the kinks taken out of them and work as smoothly as ever.



But Joint-Ease is for bothersome joints, whether knee, ankle, hip, shoulder, spine or finger, and for that purpose its sale is immense.

For appetizing meals at moderate cost

As a Spread for Bread on the Table

Bread, in one form or another, appears regularly on the American family dining table at every meal. Equally important with the bread is the spread which makes it appetizing and rounds out its food values. The finest spread for bread is fresh, tasteful Jelke GOOD LUCK Margarine. This blended spread is a real contribution to the art of better living. It is made by combining several choice ingredients together. In this way it is possible to secure better flavor, a purer food and sounder food-values than by a less advanced method. The mother, housewife or hostess, called upon to serve tasteful, appetizing meals, can use this table quality margarine to great advantage.

As a Shortening in Baking & Cooking

In food preparation the calls for a shortening are many. Pastry needs plenty of shortening. Roasted fowl calls for a cup and one-half for basting and dressing. And so on. With every call the quantity mounts up, until shortening is a really important item in the kitchen; and the problem is—to have good things to eat and yet keep the cost down. Fresh Jelke GOOD LUCK Margarine is splendidly useful as a shortening, and solves the problem perfectly for the housewife. Cakes, biscuits, dressing and doughnuts, when made with GOOD LUCK, are excellent; and pastry is simply wonderful. GOOD LUCK improves the home menu, and is not expensive.

MASONS' TEMPLE TO BE REOPENED

Grand Lodge Officers of State Will Be Here May 3.

Grand Master Hon. James B. Ruhl, of the Ohio Masonic jurisdiction, and his entire staff, will atend the dedicatory exercises which will mark the reopening of the demodeled temple of New Lisbon lodge No. 65, F. and A. M., of Lisbon, Sunday afternoon, May 3. This will be the first time in history that all officers of the grand lodge of Masons of Ohio will have met in Lisbon.

At a cost of $50,000 New Lisbon lodge of Masons are now completing the remodeling of their temple in East Lincoln way. Work has been in progress almost a year. Edward Sloss, of Hanoverton, has about completed the painting contract, and within the next few weeks the floors will be carpeted and regular meetings of this fraternity will likely be resumed in the new building early in April.

The building has been remodeled from cellar to roof. In the basement is erected the heating plant, this system being the most recent designed. Steam is used in heating the building, and from the boiler a six-inch pipe extends through the basement, and is then reduced to a four inch pipe, which returns the steam to the boiler. Electric motors and master switchboard are also placed in the basement, but in a special room built under the sidewalk.

New furniture will be installed in the lodge room, leather seated opera chairs being selected for this purpose.

The lighting system is of the indirect type, and as a result all of the large rooms are flooded with a mellow glow, and when reflected upon the color scheme presents a most pleasing sight.

In the rear of the building is erected a fire escape after plans approved by the state building inspection bureau. The fire escape is erected on concrete pillars, and is a staunch piece of construction.

Plans for the remodeling were prepared by H. W. Morrow, and the work was performed by Contractor John A. Morrow.

While the remodeling has been in progress, stated meetings of New Lisbon lodge have been infrequent. A special dispensation was granted permitting New Lisbon lodge to convene in Salem, and several meetings have been held there.

However, regular meetings of this Masonic fraternity will very likely be resumed in the new building next month, the date for the first meeting depending upon the furnishing contract.

Officers of New Lisbon lodge No. 65, F. and A. M., are: Master, George C. Porter; senior warden, H. S. Roller; junior warden, James P. Frew; treasurer, F. Jay Moore; secretary, Homer L. Deemer; chaplain, Rev. Peter W. Macaulay; senior deacon, G. A. Hempstead; junior deacon, R. L. Hendricks; senior steward, W. A. Frew; junior steward, C. W. Ball; tyler, William J. Fraser; trustees, C. S. Filson, N. H. Ramsey and W. T. Bennett.

It is probable that at the dedicatory services many members of the Masonic fraternity from all parts of Columbiana county will be guests of New Lisbon lodge.

KNOCKS 'EM OUT QUICK

Toughest of Old Hang On Coughs Go

Why send a boy to do a man's work? Sweet, sugary cough syrups may help a simple cough, but when you are traveling along towards the cemetery with a stubborn tight old cough that lingers on and on with the most persistent devilishness then you need a real cough medicine—and the realest destroyer of tough old coughs is Bronchuline Emulsion.

The cough may be so tantalizing that you can't sleep nights and your days may be filled with racking torture, yet that's just the kind of a cough that Bronchuline likes to tackle and conquer.

Many times a few doses will stop the hacking and loosen things up and you can depend upon half a bottle to make a two months' cough quit cold and disappear.

Life is sweet—it will be much sweeter when you get rid of that old time cough.

Ask Jesse D. Holloway, Carnahan's Drug Stores, East Liverpool and Newell, W. Va., Fifth street, or any wide awake druggist for a bottle of Bronchuline Emulsion. There's no dope in it—or chloroform, and a couple of teaspoonfuls will usually end any ordinary cough.

For every $1 invested the farmers received an average of $1.25 in return. These figures were produced by those who started keeping farm accounts a year ago under Utz's direction on forms devised at Ohio State university.

ARE YOU COMMITTING THIS CRIME AGAINST YOUR HEALTH?

An enormous number of people are weak, nervous and ailing, always complaining and doctoring, simply because they have committed the great American crime against their health—because while indoor life, overwork and improper diet have exhausted the iron from their blood, making it thin, pale and watery, they have made no effort to replace this iron which the blood must have to keep them well and strong.

You can easily determine whether you have been committing this health crime. You can get more iron by eating plenty of spinach, lentils and green vegetables. But doctors always advise people who are anaemic, weak, nervous and run-down to take iron in concentrated form—organic iron. Nuxated Iron is organic iron like the iron in your own blood and like that in spinach and green vegetables. It is entirely different from the mineral iron used in the past, for it is readily assimilated and so acts much more quickly and surely. Besides, it doesn't injure the teeth or disturb the stomach. Nuxated Iron represents organic iron in such concentrated form that one dose is estimated to be equal to eating half a quart of spinach, one quart of green vegetables or half a dozen baked apples. Millions of people have used it to quickly help make rich red blood, and give increased strength, energy and endurance.

Make this convincing test:—Get Nuxated Iron today and take it for only two weeks. You will notice a marvelous improvement in health and strength, or your money will be refunded. Sold under this absolute guarantee by all good druggists.

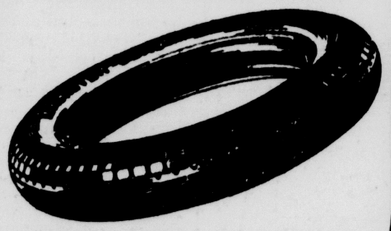
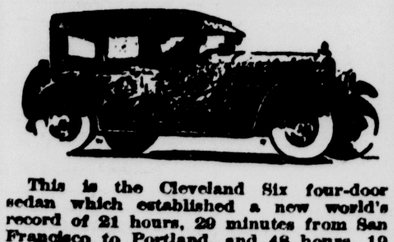
THIS IS THE TIRE



Lancaster Balloon Cords which had previously been driven several thousand miles in hill climbing and speedway tests were used on the Cleveland Six Sedan in the record-breaking dash from San Francisco to Portland and return. And they came through the 1,500 mile grind without attention and ready for several thousand miles more of hard driving.

THIS IS THE CAR



This is the Cleveland Six four-door sedan which established a new world's record of 21 hours, 20 minutes from San Francisco to Portland, and 48 hours, 10 minutes for the round trip. The same car, using the same tires, had previously been used in several hill-climbing tests on Mt. Diablo and track trials at the Fresno speedway.

AND THIS IS THE RUN THEY MADE

The route from San Francisco to Portland runs through all sorts of roads. During the run, heavy rain storms, turning to snow in the mountains, were constantly encountered, while the roads were almost constantly covered with ice or choked with snow and mud.

"....1500 Miles Through Ice, Snow, Mud, Rocks and Every Strain that a Tire Could Be Put To...."

"THE performance of these tires has been so remarkable that it has been a revelation to our sales force that such an excellent product could be manufactured."

So writes Chas. L. Bowman, Sales Manager of the Chandler-Cleveland Motor Car Co., San Francisco, regarding the Lancaster Balloon Tires used on the Cleveland car which set a new world's record on the 1500 mile run from San Francisco to Portland and return. The test was made over all sorts of roads—"through ice, snow, mud, rocks, and every strain that a tire could be put to,"—and the preformance was so outstanding that even the car dealer marvelled!

This is real proof of the stamina you can count upon when you ride on Lancasters. And, after all, it is such reliability plus ever-handy upkeep service that counts in tires. Lancaster upkeep service is certified.

THE DOUBLE HOUSE

By Elizabeth Dejeans

It was Clarice who told her of their plans: "They say that mamma can leave the hospital in a few days now, and father is going to take a house in Santa Monica for the summer. He told me to ask you whether you would like to move back into your own house and let us take this one? He is going to engage a maid and a chaperon for me, and they could stay here. I'd be with mamma and father most of the time, but the days I have to be at the studio I could stay here. Then you would have someone next door to you. He has kept the house guarded all this time, so we haven't worried about your being alone at night. Having us next door will be better than having a night watchman."

Karesia assented readily. How like him to plan for her, look after her comfort! She knew only too well that she was never absent from his mind. It gave her something to do, moving back into her home; the other house had never seemed like home. Suda and the Japanese wife were very busy, and Takimoto came to help. He hung up her Japanese painting for her.

"Very beautiful!" he said. "Kakemonos like these not can be got any more. The man who paint them was a very great artist of Japan."

"They were given me by the imperial family, Taki, in honor of my husband, who wrote many things about the Japanese."

Takimoto bowed. He studied the paintings with grave interest, but Karesia sensed that his thoughts were not with them. Finally he said, "I wish very much Mr. Dascome had never leave this house. I wish nothing had been found out. I have tell Mr. Dascome, so now I tell you that, for long time, I felt sure Mary Bliss was Meta Thail, but the last day before you have find the photograph, I felt more sure she was Mrs. Dascome. All at once, I think, 'It is Mrs. Dascome!' But I did not tell any one—I know not what to do. I think of all the trouble it would bring to him—like it has." He shook his head. "It great pity."

Karesia could say nothing.

"I think he is very sick man," Takimoto said earnestly. "I feel very sorry."

It was wrung from her. "Taki! I don't know what to do!"

Later—it was nearly 10 o'clock—Karesia was sitting with head bowed and eyes dull; before morning she must decide what to do. She started up when she heard steps on the gallery.

It was Rossiter. "I hoped I'd find you up," he said.

He declined a seat, but lighted a cigarette in his quick, nervous way. His eyes were brilliant, his brows drawn, he was profundly stirred—something had happened. Karesia looked at him, wide-eyed with fear; something had happened to Dascome?

"I've just had a talk with Kreppler," he said tersely.

"Rand—she's——"

"No, she's not—she's well—better every day. Dascome has been driven to it at last; he's had to go to Doctor Kreppler about himself, and Kreppler says that he's on the verge of a total breakdown. The man is done, that's all. Yet he went to the hospital tonight, in spite of Kreppler's warning, because Elaine seems to have been worrying all day over something and wanted to see him. Kara, something has got to be done—at once."

"He must come to me," Karesia said.

"I'm glad you think so. Write to him tonight. Clarice is frantic with anxiety, so am I. If he breaks, he's done for. They are my family now. Clarice has held out—she says that she won't marry me until she has made a success. Well, she'll make a success, but she'll marry me first—I'm determined. Kara, you're no weakling—I'm not afraid for you—it's the woman who wills and the man who obeys. Send for him."

Karesia went over to the table and wrote two lines:

"John, we promised each other. I need you—you must come to me now. "KARESIA."

"Will you take it to him?" she asked Rossiter.

XLV

Karesia did not know, that night, when it was that she passed from anxiety into sleep. She slept heavily and dreamed an intangible dream, a vague vision of the hillside. There was only a part of the dream that had any substance: She was climbing upward and upward with Mary Bliss' hand in hers helping her along. The hillside was dotted with spikes of yucca bloom—they looked like tall candles. She told Mary Bliss, "They are the Candles of God." She told her not to be afraid, and Mary Bliss said, "I'm not afraid now—it's pretty up here." Then something light and warm, like soft fingers trailed over her face, waked Karesia; she was wide awake. It was morning, the first faint hint of day. It had been a mild night and the window beside her bed was open; a light breeze was blowing in her face.

She knew that she could not sleep any more. She looked at her watch; it was four o'clock and in the east a thread of vermilion marked the meeting of earth and sky.

The squad, under the benign and kindly eye of a veteran sergeant, were being subjected to visual tests.

In a distant field a party of men were undergoing instruction in entrenching work. To the sergeant commanding the squad they appeared as mere dots, and he decided that here was a very good test.

Singling out a smart young man, the sergeant asked him for the number of men composing the entrenching party.

Immediately came the answer:

"Sixteen men and a sergeant, sir!"

"He's not doing any digging, sir!"

You never can tell. Even when you stand up for your rights someone may sit on them.—Canton (O.) News.

Some guests don't seem to realize that there is a difference between a visit and a visitation.—Bellefontaine (O.) Examiner.

'TALKING AUTO' TO VISIT HERE

Chevrolet, Which Plays Music and Calls Names, Coming.

The "talking Chevrolet," an automobile that not only talks, but which also sees, carries on a conversation, plays music on request, recognizes people, calls them by name and accomplishes other amazing stunts, is coming to East Liverpool for a six-day engagement, according to D. K. Trotter of the Trotter-Chevrolet company, local distributors.

The "talking" car is said to be a regular stock car. It is raised from the floors on jacks and is not connected with wires of any kind. Because of its numerous feats, it has been dubbed as a "human car." More than half a million people are said to have seen this car perform and none has been able to guess the secret of its operation.

The car will be exhibited at the Trotter Chevrolet show rooms in Market street, March 9, 10, 11, 12, 13 and 14.

A Hint for Beginners

The cross-word puzzle diagram is merely a means of concealing words which are synonymous to those listed and which will interlock perfectly and so read equally well crosswise or downwards. Always look for the number of the synonym on the diagram. If horizontal, you must find a word to fit between that number and the first shaded stop to the right; if vertical, you must fit your word between the number and the first shaded stop below.

New Way to Quickly Stop Dangerous Cough

It is almost criminally careless not to properly attend a persistent cough, which by seriously weakening the system lays you open to far more dangerous infections. For by a very simple treatment you can stop the coughing spells almost instantly and often relieve the stubbornest cough in 24 hours.

This simple treatment is based on a remarkable prescription known as Dr. King's New Discovery for Coughs. You simply take a teaspoonful and hold it in your throat for 15 or 20 seconds before swallowing it, without following with water. The prescription has a double action. It not only soothes and heals soreness and irritation, but it quickly loosens and removes the phlegm and congestion which are the direct cause of the coughing. The prompt relief of the heaviest cough seems almost magical.

The prescription is highly recommended for coughs, chest colds, hoarseness and bronchitis, and is wonderful for children's coughs and spasmodic croup—no opiates or other harmful drugs. Economical, too, as the dose is only one teaspoonful. At all good druggists. Ask for

NAMES SOLDIER IN SENSATION

London Woman Tells of Great Sacrifice for Husband.

LONDON, March 5.—The identity of the famous soldier named as "General X" was disclosed today.

Mrs. Dorothy Dennistoun testified that he was General Sir John Cowan, quartermaster general of the British army during the World war. The declaration was as startling to high army and social circles as her original charge against her husband that his promotion was gained from General X at the cost of the greatest sacrifice on the wife's part, with the husband's knowledge and approval.

Mrs. Dennistoun is suing her former husband, who has married again since their divorce, for money she claimed was advanced by her and for alleged breach of agreement that he would pay her a flat sum in lieu of alimony.

Colonel Dennistoun is now the husband of the former Lady Carnarvon, whose first husband started the search of King Tutankahmen's tomb. He is the stepfather of the present Countess Carnarvon, formerly Catherine Wendell of New York.

General Sir John Cown, named by Mrs. Dennistoun as the famous soldier from whom she sought favor for her husband, was responsible for the commissariat of the British army in the World war. He was credited with great service, but was penniless when he died in 1921 and his widow was forced to sell his medals in her efforts to raise funds.

Runyon Says

How Good Is Fuentes?
No One Seems To Know.
Has Lost His Sevengali.
"Windy" Winsor Departs.
Seeks Another Fuentes.

BY DAMON RUNYON.
Copyright, 1925, International Feature Service, Inc.

LOS ANGELES, March 5—Tony Fuentes, the Mexican heavyweight, is a tall, bulky fellow, with a round, olive-tinted face, a soft-looking mouth and gentle friedly eyes, made familiar by Rudolph Valentino.

The writer met him at a local fight one night. Tony was handing out big cigars in honor of the arrival at his house of a baby.

Tony was manifestly happy. He is only twenty. At twenty the first baby little short of a miracle. Tony, has a soft appealing smile, a soft, moist handshake. His voice is soft, and accented.

You would turn to look at him even if you didn't know who he is. He is that type. The Valentino side-burns, his size, his foreign aspect attract the eye. He suggests an opera singer just over from the other side.

He wore light gray trousers of flowing cut, tan shoes, and a loose overcoat the night the writer met him. He looked fat—is IS fat, in fact. He weighed perhaps 200 pounds.

However, he had been in training only a few days. They say he strips down to about 185 pounds, ringside.

He is getting ready for a battle with Eddie Huffman, pride of the Pacific Fleet and All Navy light heavyweight champion, on March 10; at Doyle's Vernon arena.

This is expected to be something of a test of both men. You hear many different opinions in Los Angeles as to the real listic ability of Tony Fuentes

Some say he can't fight a lick This theory can scarcely be true,

He bobs around a gymnasium very well. But you must never accept a gymnasium showing as a line on a fighters ability. Some tremendous gymnasium workers are very poor fighters.

It is generally agreed that Fuentes lost a great asset when he lost the man who made him famous overnight, "Windy" Fred Winsor. They say Winsor seemed to exercise a spell over the Mexican that made him a lion in the ring. Without Winson, what will he be?

Fuentes was known as "Kid" Shine," when he first started his pugilistic career. He was bowled over by several third raters.

Then Winsor, a mighty man on the ballyhoo, took hold of him, calling him by his right name, "Kid Shine" would be a terrific handicap for any fighter.

Under Winsor's management, Fuentes knocked out a number of oponents of no considerable ability. Winsor worked night and day getting publicity for Fuentes He had the Mexicans lining up for hours before the doors opened up to see Fuentes fight. He had the Americans greatly excited.

That is "Windy" Fred Winsor's way. He is a born ballyhoo man. The pity is that he only once had something really worth ballyhooing, then didn't cash in on it. He once managed Jack Dempsey.

For some years past Winsor has been diligently trying to find another Dempsey. Whether he thought he had the man in Fuentes the writer is unable to state. Probably not. Then again Winsor has been known to fool himself. Every man does when it comes to heavyweight fighters.

Wonsor finally brought the tall pallid, long-chinned Fred Fulton to Los Angeles to meet Fuentes. Fulton fell after a few murious swings by Fuentes.

Some say he wasn't hit, that he had taken what is technically described as a "flop." The community yelled "fake" quite vigorously.

The incident caused talk. Fulton, Fuentes, Winsor and Jack Reddy, of St. Paul, who was the last of Fulton's many managers were arrested.

The impression prevails in the east that the charge against them was engaging in a fake. This was not the letter of the charge. They were charged, in substance, with violating the law against prize fighting, in that the contestants were paid money for their services.

At that time boxers were supposed to receive only medals in California.

You can imagine the gaunt Fulton accepting a medal for a pugilistic performance after eleven years of fighting, and 104 fights.

Reddy and Fulton admitted accepting money, were fined, and left the state. Feuntes and Winsor stood trial. The former was acquitted. Winsor was found guilty and fined.

Winsor has departed, leaving Feuntes with Captain Conklin of the Los Angeles fire department who was interested with him in the Mexican from the beginning; in fact, was Fuentes's original manager here.

Boone's Passers to Get Big Sendoff By Student Body Today

Two High School Teams Depart for New Concord on Afternoon Train; Coaches of all Entries Meet Tonight at 9 O'clock for Drawing; Start Play Friday Morning.

East Liverpool and Wellsville high school basketball teams will be contenders in the district scholastic tournament, preliminary to the state games for the Ohio title, Friday and Saturday at Muskingum college, New Concord.

The two squads are scheduled to leave on this afternoon's train to Bridgeport, from whence they will go by bus to New Concord.

O. V. Boone, school athletic director here, this morning announced his squad would be made up of eight players. They are: P. English, Pusey, C. Davis, Liebschner and McConville, the regulars, and Reserves, Bough McGraw and G. Allison.

Pusey and Davis will start at forwards, English at center, and Captain Liebschner and McConville at the guards. Bough can be used as a center or guard; McGraw as center; and Allison as forward of guard. In the event that it is necessary to pull out a forward, Boone plans to send Center English to the scoring post and replace him at center with one of the reserves.

Fifteen district school teams will take part in the tournament. Last year there were only seven entered. According to telegrams received here and in Wellsville this morning, coaches will meet at 9 o'clock tonight in the Muskingum college gymnasium for the drawing, which originally was planned for 9 tomorrow morning.

The Blue and White pasers will put on a short drill this afternoon at 1:30 o'clock. After their workout they will be escorted to the C. & P. station here by the high school band and students. The entire student body will be dismissed at 3:15 in order that they may see the team away.

Zimmerman's Squad Loses Star Forward

On the day of their departure for Muskingum college where they will invade the ranks of Class A high school basketball contenders in the annual district tournament, Wellsville's school squad mourns the loss of their star forward and point maker.

Carl Weekley, who has developed into one of Coach Carl Zimmerman's most dependable performers, is out of the game as a result of two broken bones in his right foot.

Weekley's foot gave way last Tuesday evening during a practice drill in the high school gymnasium. He was unable to go on. A physician discovered broken bones. It is not likely that Weekley will be able to play the remainder of the season, according to Orange and Black athletic authorities.

Coach Carl Zimmerman will take a squad of seven players with him on the 4:10 train from the Third street station this afternoon. The squad will include Gratton, C. and H. Dickey, Scholl, Pignatore, Ross and Campbell. Gratton probably will start at center, with C. and H. Dickey on forwards and Scholl and Pignatore on guards. Pignatore also is capable of handling the center post.

Wellsville passers last year took part in the Class B tournament held at Steubenville.

Since last spring, however, the boys' enrollment in the school has increased to a mark beyond the 150 point, the dividing mark between Class B and Class A contenders.

"UNKNOWN WILL BEAT ME," THINKS DEMPSEY

By COPELAND C. BURG.

LOS ANGELES, March 5—Jack Dempsey believes fighter now unknown will beat him for the title.

"Some boxer no one ever heard of today is probably going through the hard days of preliminary fighting now that will end by knocking me over," declared the champion.

"I don't think Tommy Gibbons, Jack Renault, Harry Wills or any of the contenders today will ever wear the heavyweight crown.

"My reason for saying this is that I certainly will be champion for a while yet and all of the present crop are getting along in age; they cannot be their best in a short time.

Young Fighter.

"The man who wins the title will be a young fighter, probably not yet in his prime, just as I was when I beat Willard."

While a great many typewriters have worked overtime recently telling the world that Dempsey plans to retire, or does not figure on retiring, it's no secret that the champion has tired of the ring and would like to hang up his gloves.

"I surely will not be an active fighter in 1926 if I do not fight this year," said Dempsey. "I could hardly be in much shape without fighting in 1924 and 1925.

Wants To Quit.

"It would not be a very pleasant thing to drop out without defending my crown, but there would be nothing else to do if no promoters were able to get me into the ring before the Spring or Summer of 1926, let us say.

"Of course, I feel I will get one or two chances to fight this Summer, and that means I will probably be arranged for this year and figure I will retain my belt."

The heavyweight champion has started training at his new gymnasium and is working out there four or five times a week.

He is probably 20 or 25 pounds overweight.

Washington and Central Graders Win

Beat Lincoln and Maplewood Teams in Grammar School Games.

Cheered on by a large crowd of grade school students, the Central building basketball squad won from the Lincoln team by the score of 20 to 9, and the Washington passers trimmed the Maplewood quint, 15 to 5 in league engagements yesterday afternoon on the high school court.

The Central passers hopped into the lead at the start of the clash and held it during the remainder of the game. They topped their rivals by the count of 3 to 1 at the end of the quarter and increased it to 7 to 2 at the end of the half.

The Lincoln lads held their own in the third period when the count was 15 to 9. Central found the baskets for five more points in the concluding canto. Small, Congrove and Wotring were the leading performers for the Central five, while Witherow, McConnell and Dyke starred for the Lincolns.

In the Maplewood-Washington battle, the latter squad tripled the score on their rivals. The first period was close with Washington leading, 3 to 2. In the second, however, the Washington lads ran away from their foes, being out in front by the score of 11 to 2 when the period ended. Maplewood had failed to score at all. The Maplewood lads scored three points to their opponents' five in the final half.

Chetwin, Finney and Buxton were the Washington stars, while Archibald, Smith and Wilshaw performed creditably for the losers.

Flying Finn Breaks Two More Records in Last Night's Events

NEW YORK, March 5.—Two new indoor running world records were on the books today, placed there by the incomparable Paavo Nurmi in the 106th infantry games last night.

The Finn smashed the marks for the mile and an eighth and two thousand yard runs, records he himself created since he came to this country. He lopped a 1-5 second off the time for the mile and an eighth covering the distance in 4:55. The two thousand yard distance was negotiated in 4:59 3-5, 1 1-5 seconds better than the old time.

Training Camp Chatter

McGraw Orders Exercise.

SARASOTA, Fla., March 5. — John McGraw has ordered more intensive exercise for his squad of forty "patients" who are here taking Florida sun baths preparatory to the opening of fire works in the big leagues. As a result the boys are getting both morning and afternoon practice. Frank Dwyer, once famous big league pitcher, who was added to the Giants' coaching staff, has taken up his work of getting the young twirlers in condition.

Young Pitchers Developing.

TARPON SPRINGS, Fla., March 5. —With the good graces of Old Sol smiling down on them, the advance guard of the St. Louis Browns in training here have been able to round into good shape. The group of young pitchers, who have been working out since last Thursday, are beginning to show their stuff and when they faced some of the regulars today they were able to put something on the ball.

TAMPA, Fla., March 5.—"Sign one a day," is Griffith's motto, and he went forth and did likewise, signing "Rutch" Reuther the following day after he had come to terms with Walter Johnson. The morale of the Senators seemed to be considerably better today with Johnson and Reuther rejoining the family.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 5.—All of the Yankee pitchers are coming around in fine form. Gehrig, Columbia pitcher, is going especially well. Everett Scott, Steve O'Neil and Wally Schang also are ready.

Cobb Rates Present Hurling Staff Best Detroit's Ever Had

By Davis J. Walsh.

AUGUSTA, Ga., March 5.—Rank heresy though it may be to the old timers who held the late Bill Donovan, George Mullin, Killian, Willett and Summers in such high esteem, Ty Cobb came out on the flat of his feet today and declared the present Tiger pitching staff to be the best Detroit ever knew. The tidings may prompt Detroit citizens to rush out into the night proclaiming the rebirth of liberty, justice and the right to run over the nearest traffic cop. Since 1909, a Detroit pitcher has been like the Dodo—a species long extinct.

It has been the common impression that Mullin, Donovan, et al, took more than a passive part in the winning of three straight pennants between 1907 and 1909, but Cobb dissents.

"We won those pennants because we were a team of hitters," he declared. Donovan was a great pitcher; Mullin was well above the average. But you couldn't call two men a pitching staff. Our hitting carried the other pitchers.

"My present staff, Ripp Collins, Earl Whitehill, George Dauss, Ken Holloway, Sylvester Johnson, Herman Pillette, Lil Stone and Ed Wells, may not boast a Bill Donovan, but it certainly is superior to any staff Detroit has had in my twenty years with the club."

Banks on Substitutes.

The great man then elaborated on his statement of yesterday to the effect that he would play less than a hundred games this season. This decision, he intimated, was influenced as much by the belief that no man can keep going at top speed for a full season as by the fear that he himself is slipping.

"I have a capable substitute for every position and as soon as a regular begins to let down, out he comes," he said. "That goes for me, too. Of course, if I was younger and going the way I was some years ago, I would be in there every day. But I know I can't stand the pace and when I begin to feel it, some one else will be playing center field for Detroit.

"The whole club is built along those lines. I have two shortstops, Tavenor and Rigney. Fred Haney can relieve Jones at third base or O'Rourke at second. Johnny Neun stands ready to relieve Blue at first base. I have two good catchers, Bassler and Woodall, and a half dozen outfielders."

Cobb Likes Carlyle.

Pressed for answer as to the identity of the man he thought capable of supplanting him, Cobb became evasive.

"Manush should have a great year," he remarked with the air of one changing the subject. "He went badly in 1924, but he was just finding himself."

It is no Masonic secret that Cobb is somewhat enamored of young Carlyle, who hit .346 his first session in professional baseball. However, the Georgian is not the one to count unhatched chickens.

"It takes two years to make a ball player," was his cryptic reply to the Carlyle inquiry.

Patterson Foundry And Laughlin Teams Join Indoor League

Two more teams today joined the "Y" industrial indoor baseball league, bringing the circuit roster up to a total of eight.

Laughlin No. 5 and Patterson Foundry are the new entries.

The league teams will start play on the new schedule on next Monday, playing Monday, Wednesday and Friday evenings. There will be one game at 8 o'clock on Monday's and Wednesday's and two games on Friday night.

The eligibility rule which permits only bona fide shop players to take part, will be strictly enforced, league officials asserted.

The new league teams will practice Friday night. Laughlin 5 will take on E. M. Knowles and Patterson Foundry will tackle Liverpool Motors.

While the league will be carried on with eight teams at present, arrangements will be made to increase the roster if other shops want to enter.

Detrick Five On Edge For Title Battle

ALLIANCE, Mar. 5—Mount Union's basketball squad has been unable to schedule any game between the Heidelberg and Wooster matches.

Coach Ray Deitrick's men will have to go into the fateful game with the Presbyterians without the valuable practise another clash would have given them.

The narrow margin by which the Purple won at Heidelberg has shown them what a fight will be needed to pick the championship from the Ohio conference tree.

"Lefty" Miller, captain and center of the Mount Union quintet, is looming up as a very real contender for the position of All-Ohio center.

Mix together equal parts of coolness, of speed and of good generalship; add to these a generous portion of modesty and willingness to sink himself in the good of the team and you have a fair idea of Miller. His long shots have helped Mount out of many a tight place this season.

The six-footer from Canton received honorable mention last year in the All-Ohio honors list.

JERUSALEM — Samson, famous 'strong boy," was to do his stuff here tonight. Every man in the city was expected to be present when the bob-bed-hair giant puts his shoulder against the pillars of the temple and attempts to make good his boast.

Samson will be remembered as the hero of the Battle of the Plains, when he destroyed 10,000 Philistines. He has been in poor physical condition lately, however, and local sportsmen were laying odds of 4 to 1 this afternoon that he will be unable to wreck the temple.

ON BOARD THE ARK — All was well on the Ark today, the sixteenth day of Noah's round-the-world cruise. The flood was still rising, and Weather Bureau officials estimated it would reach a height of 69 feet before subsiding.

A catastrophe was narrowly averted this morning when all the elephants moved over to the starboard side of the ark.

Captain Noah stated in an official communique to reporters this morning that he expects to dock at Hoboken in ten days. If no land is sighted by that time, he said, an extra deck will have to be built for the rabbits.

BOSTON—John J. Sullivan, a local heavyweight, outpointed Battling Beefo here tonight in a ten-round bout. Sullivan hits hard, but swings so wildly that it is doubtful whether he will ever become a first-rate fighter.

Sullivan received 60 per cent of the purse, which amounted to $150. A record crowd of 500 witnessed the bout.

Rickard Will Show Champions in New York Baseball Lot

NEW YORK, March 5.—The appearance of a number of boxing champions in action during the comming summer was generally forecast today as the result of the taking over of the Yankee stadium by Tex Rickard for the purpose of conducting bouts when the ball park is not used for baseball purposes.

Rickard said that the first fight he plans in the stadium will be one between Jack Delaney and Paul Berlenbach for the week of May 22. Delaney holds a knockout decision over Berlenbach, Eddie Martin, bantam champion, Pancho Villa, flyweight titleholder and possibly Jack Dempsey are others that will be featured, the promoter said. He will also make an effort to match Tom Gibbons and Harry Wills for a bout.

The London and North Eastern Railway will build 295 locomotives and 521 passenger and 11,700 freight cars, add four through and nine suburban passenger services, renew lines on 7,000 miles of road and improve stations, the total cost being $30,000,000.

Late President's Father "Listens in" As Chief Speaks

MARION, Ohio, March 4.—Dr. George T. Harding father of the late President Harding yesterday heard President Coolidge's speech by radio at Hotel Harding, where a specially constructed radio outfit was erected.

"I sure would like to have gone to Washington and to have been President Coolidge's guest, but the weather was too cold for an old man to make the trip," Dr. Harding explained.

Men Assailed.

ELYRIA—L. D. Hamlin, Lorain county humane agent, said men have no respect for the laws. He declared that more than 1,000 men abandoned their wives and families here during the past two years. During the same period there were less than 1,650 weddings.

An aluminum box that will hold fire of absorbent wool and paraffin, and may be moved from stove to stove to give heat to rooms for a short time, has been invented.

CHILDLESS HOMES

Read Mrs. Benedict's Letter Praising Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Kewanee, Illinois. — "When I was married about a year and a half I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound because of ill health. I did not have any children. I now have two healthy little girls and I am sure I would not have had them had it not been for your medicine. Last spring and summer I got all run-down, irregular, and I had awful headaches, and my back and side hurt me so that I could stay up only a short time. My limbs would get so tired and ache till I could cry. I started to take the Vegetable Compound again and used the Sanative Wash, and it was not long till I was relieved. Now I do all my own work and help others. I sure praise Lydia E. Pinkham's medicines to any one I meet that is suffering from similar troubles. I think if mothers with girls would give it to them when they come to womanhood it would make them stronger. People who have known me all my life are astonished to see me now as I was always sickly when in my 'teens and until I started taking the Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. MARY R. BENEDICT, 313 Payson Street, Kewanee, Illinois.

Eight Hours' Study Daily Is Advocated For College Students

SYRACUSE, N. Y.—Eight hours' study a day, nine hours' sleep a night, and no lunch, are the salient features of the program of Joseph V. Dempsey, who has crashed through three semesters at the college of law, Syracuse university, for an average of 95 per cent in his scholastic work.

Dempsey is a graduate of Wesleyan university, and the son of a prominent Connecticut lawyer. He is 29 years of age, but in spite of this intense application to study and his several years' seniority over the other law students, he is recognized as a "real fellow."

Dempsey rises at 6 a. m., has a roll and a glass of milk for breakfast and doesn't eat again until 6 p. m., when he has dinner. Instead of lunch he takes a shower bath daily at noon. His study periods are from 8 to 9 a. m., 12 to 5 and 7 to 9 p. m.

Professor T. A. Levy missed a class in quasi contracts recently. Dempsey took the chair and conducted the class to everybody's satisfaction—except a few who thought they were going to have an hour off.

SENATOR ASSAILS VICE PRESIDENT'S ACTION

Smouldering Resentment Upper House Feels Over "Dressing Down" it Received at Hands of Evanston Financier Comes to Surface Few Minutes After Session Opens.

ARIZONA MEMBER LAUNCHES ATTACK WITH "HELL AND MARIA" IN CHAIR

Criticism is Directed, Not at Vice President's Speech in Which he Denounced Rules, But at Illinois Man's Action in Interrupting Swearing in of New Senators.

By GEORGE H. HOLMES

WASHINGTON, March 5.—The smouldering resentment the senate feels over the "dressing down" it received at the hands of Vice President Charles G. Dawes came to the surface today a few minutes after it met.

With General Dawes himself in the chair, Senator Ashurst, Democrat of Arizona, succeeded in getting into the record his opinion of General Dawes' action yesterday as "unseemly and untimely."

Ashurst's criticism was directed, not at the speech of the vice president in which he denounced senate rules, but at the General's action in interrupting the swearing in of new senators to "shoo" everyone out of the chamber for the Coolidge inaugural ceremonies.

Recess Stops Criticism.

Republican leaders succeeded in shutting off any extended criticism of General Dawes by obtaining a recess until 2 p. m. in order to notify President Coolidge that the new senate is in session and ready for business. However, it may only be delayed as several senators, among them Reed, Democrat of Missouri, endeavored to get the floor during the brief opening session.

When the senate convened at noon, Senator Hale, Republican of Maine, and Senator Reed, Democrat of Missouri, both demanded recognition from the chair. After a moment's hesitation, Vice-President Dawes recognized the Maine senator.

Hale said he had noticed in the press certain criticisms of the vice-president for not returning to the senate yesterday after the conclusion of the Coolidge ceremonies, in order to preside. Hale said he took the blame for this and wanted to explain to the senate how it happened.

Senator Hale Explains.

"After the president concluded his speech" said Hale, "the President and Mrs. Coolidge and the Vice President and Mrs. Dawes left the stand and started down toward the car. The vice president said to me, 'I must return to the senate to preside, how do I get there?' I informed him that he was not to return to the senate, but was to go to the White House to review the parade. It was a misunder-

SENATE ELECTS HARMONY SLATE

WASHINGTON, March 5.—A harmony slate, headed by Senator Charles Curtis, of Kansas, as majority floor leader, was elected today at a Republican caucus in the senate.

Other officers named were Senator James E. Watson of Indiana, as assistant leader, and Senator James W. Wadsworth of New York, as secretary of the conference.

The caucus also endorsed Senator George H. Moses, Republican, of New Hampshire, as president pro tem, to succeed Senator Albert Cummins, of Iowa; George Sanderson, of Chicago, as sergeant-at-arms.

FIRE DESTROYS STOLEN AUTO

Mrs. Katherine Alley's Coupe is Found in Ruins.

A Ford coupe, identified as the property of Mrs. Katherine Alley of Moore street, was destroyed by fire on the Salem-Lisbon road, near Eagleton's Glenn, five miles north of Lisbon, shortly before last midnight.

The machine, parked in front of the Alley home, is believed to have been stolen about 9 o'clock. The theft was not discovered until this morning, when county authorities called local police to inform them of the destruction of the car, carrying a license believed to have been issued in East Liverpool. Police were about to launch an investigation when Mrs. Alley notified them of the theft.

A Jewett sedan, belonging to John Manor, Avondale street, which was stolen while parked in front of a Fourth street theatre, Tuesday evening, was recovered near the Patterson foundry, East Sixth street, yesterday afternoon, where it had been abandoned. It was not damaged.

Hughes' Last Act Is Settlement of Amazon River Issue

WASHINGTON, March 5.—The last official act of Charles Evans Hughes as secretary of state was the conclusion of an arbitration agreement between Brazil, Colombia and Peru to settle a long standing boundary controversy between these South American countries at the head waters of the Amazon river.

Announcement of the agreement was made at the state department shortly after Hughes retired as secretary.

$14.25 IS PEAK

Lambs Quoted Higher in Early Session at Chicago.

CHICAGO, March 5. — Despite resistance from packers, the hog market continued its rise today, hitting a top of $13.60. This is an advance of 35 cents over yesterday's top and is the highest paid at the local stock yards in years. There was a sharp demand from shippers, but packers resisted the advance by remaining dormant in the early part of the day.

Good fat steers sold stronger and the plainer kinds were steady. Cows and heifers moved actively and bulls were quoted strong. The calf market was on a firm basis at previous rates. Stockers and feeders sold steady to strong.

Lambs were quoted a little higher in the early session.

Supreme Court Justice Butler Administers Oath of Office.

WASHINGTON, March 5.—Frank B. Kellogg, former United States senator from Minnesota and late ambassador at the Court of St. James, became secretary of state today in succession to Charles Evans Hughes, who retires to private life after four years at the helm of the ship of state under the late President Harding and President Coolidge.

JARDINE ALSO ASSUMES PLACE

WASHINGTON, March 5.—William A. Jardine of Manhattan, Kansas, former president of the Kansas Agricultural college, was sworn in at 10:50 a. m. today as Secretary of Agriculture, succeeding Howard M. Gore, who resigned to become governor of West Virginia.

The oath of office was administered by R. M. Reece, chief clerk of the department of agriculture.

The new secretary of state was sworn in by Associate Justice of the Supreme Court Pierce Butler, in the presence of a few close friends, members of the state department, and the Minnesota delegation in congress.

The utmost simplicity marked the event and within a few moments after Secretary Hughes entered the state department offices with Mr. Kellogg he had transferred to him the responsibility for conducting American foreign affairs and walked out without a care in the world, ready to sail for Bermuda for several weeks of quiet and rest before re-entering the practice of law in New York city.

The two men were in vivid contrast as they stood before Justice Butler—Hughes tall, straight and his far-famed whiskers adding to his commanding and distinguished appearance; Kellogg, small, round-shouldered and lacking in the exuberant vitality

U. S. Attorney Takes Charge of Kansas City Liquor Probe

KANSAS CITY, Mo., March 5.—U. S. District Attorney C. C. Madison today took personal charge of the Kansas City, Mo., liquor scandal with the announcement that he had information that Kansas City was one of the western clearing points for a vast national liquor smuggling ring.

Madison declared today's carload seizure from Biloxi, Miss., was in line with government information that the enforcement forces had made it too hot for the rum fleet off New York and that Biloxi has become the new port of entry for Bermuda, Cuban and Mexican liquor with key shipping points in apportioned territory over the country of which Kansas City is the middle western depot.

The shooting occurred during a family quarrel and was the result of alleged tale-telling by the murdered girl. Stella's husband, Coy Sterchi, and Gladys' mother witnessed the affair.

"My husband has been in jail for some time," the little dwarf told officers. "Stella has been going there telling him tales about men visiting our home and I just killed her, that's all."

Germany s First President Laid to Rest In Heidelberg

Widow Swoons as First Shovelful of Earth is Placed on Coffin of Former Saddle Maker.

BY S. D. WEYER.

HEIDELBERG, Germany, Mar. 5—Friederich Ebert, first President of a republic that rose on the ruins of Empire, was laid to rest today in the old university town where he spent his boyhood days.

Today's ceremony was the simple conclusion of Germany's tribute to the humble, democratic leader, schooled only in the harness shop, the editorial rooms of a Socialist newspaper and his own little inn, whose body yesterday was escorted with all the pomp of a state funeral through the gateway reserved in imperial days for the use of the kaiser.

The strain of the burial today, following the solemn ceremonies of state which Berlin accorded the president, was too great for Frau Ebert, plain woman of the people, who was his unfailing comrade in the lean days of poverty and the trying years of power.

She swooned as the first shoveful of earth was placed on the coffin of her husband and would have fallen but for Chancellor Luther. The chancellor caught Frau Ebert as she fainted, then assisted her to her carriage.

WOOSTER COLLEGE STUDENTS VOTE, 450 TO 253, IN FAVOR OF DANCING

Movement to Bring About Change in Social Conditions at Presbyterian Institution is Under Way.

WOOSTER, O., March 5.—Students of the college of Wooster, in voting 450 to 253 in favor of authorized dancing at the institution, today had started a movement to bring about a change in the social conditions at the college.

"We have reached a place where Wooster's favorite pastime is 'button, button: who's got the button?'" declared one ardent student in depicting the present status of social gatherings among students.

Those who urged the removal of the dancing ban, declared that churches long ago came to the conclusion that the young folk will dance. In their arguments these students asked if it would not be better to have dances properly restricted and supervised than to have students steal forth in clandestine parties to nearby dancing halls, several of which were mentioned by name during the discussion.

Aubrey Dennis, one of the spokesmen for the pro-dance element, suggested a plan by which there would be four school dances each year and in addition each chartered organization in school would be permitted one dance, all chaperoned and supervised by faculty members.

Arguments in Favor of Ban.

Arguments against lifting the ban were [illegible]. One was that many students in school here are training for young people's work in institutions where dancing is not permitted and that the lack of the dance here gives impetus to the development of various amusements to take its place, which can be used by these students in the work after leaving college.

Another point made was that many persons who give Wooster financial Wren Brothers Lodged in Bellefontaine Jail on Lunacy Charges.

OFFICERS UNHURT

BELLEFONTAINE, O., Mar. 5.—A battle today marked the termination of the three-day siege and resulted in the capture of Ray Wren, 40, and his brother, Harry Wren, 50, farmers living near Rushsylvania. Harry was shot in a thigh. His injuries are not believed serious. They have been lodged in the jail here, pending trial. They were arrested on lunacy warrants.

Neighbor Prefers Charge.

The Wren brothers were working with a team of horses in a field adjoining their farm home when Sheriff Wobley and about 10 deputies surrounded and began closing in on them. The brothers prepared to fight. One of them started to attack the officers with a pitchfork. In subduing the Wren borthers, the officials fired two shots, one of which hit Ray. None of the officers were hurt.

The lunacy warrants were sworn to by James Chamberlain, a neighboring farmer, who claimed the Wren brothers used shotguns on the highway while threatening him. Other neighbors declared the brothers had acted queerly since the death of their mother some months ago.

When the sheriff sought to arrest the brothers three days ago they barricaded themselves in their home and threatened to harm the officials.

PASTOR GUEST OF KIWANIANS

Rev. H. C. Brillhart, Leetonia, Speaks at Noon Luncheon.

Kiwanis ideals were lauded by Rev. H. C. Brillhart, pastor of the St. Paul's Evangelical Lutheran church of Leetonia, in an address before approximately 50 members of the Kiwanis club and their guests in the Larkins annex, at noon today. His subject was "Why We Believe in Kiwanis?"

"We believe in Kiwanis because of its ideals," he said. "The Kiwanis ideal of fellowship is a unique thing—it is a fellowship of men, who believe in the practice of the golden rule. We believe in Kiwanis because it cherishes the ideal of patriotism— not the kind of patriotism which is displayed only in war time or danger but the kind of patriotism that is practiced 365 days a year.

"Woodrow Wilson in future years will be measured by the great ideals which he believed and fought for—that of a great brotherhood of nations, where men could meet and understand each other thereby averting future warfare."

The attendance prize, a motormeter, furnished by A. E. Harris, was awarded to R. C. Heddleston. President G. E. Lewis presided. Prof. H. F. Laughlin acted as song leader.

Ralph Sayre, chairman of the attendance committee, outlined plans for the attendance contest, which will be launched next Thursday The club members will be divided into two sides and the campaign waged much on the same plan as it was last year.

Frank Jones, chairman of the Intercity relations committee, announced that the East Liverpool club had been invited to attend a meeting of the Leetonia Kiwanians on Tuesday, March 31. The entire program will be in charge of the local club members.

Charles Hendershot, head of the public affairs committee, reported on the proposed public comfort station which the club will install at the traction waiting room. The committee was directed to continue its work pending a meeting of the board of directors next Monday evening.

DR. H. E. BLAZER, FAILING IN SUICIDE ATTEMPT, WILL FACE MURDER CHARGE

Former Salineville Physician Denies Knowledge of Killing Invalid Daughter in Colorado.

Dr. Harold E. Blazer, former Salineville physician, who is alleged to have chloroformed his invalid daughter, Hazel Blazer, 32, and then attempted suicide at their home in Littleton, a suburb of Denver, Colorado, a few days ago, will face a charge of first degree murder when he is able to leave the hospital.

Dr. Blazer, who left Salineville about 15 years ago, is charged with having slain his daughter because he feared the girl would become an object of charity following his death.

R. E. Bishop, his son-in-law, with whom the physician and his daughter made their home, says Dr. Blazer made three attempts to end his life, one by poison, another with chloroform and the third by slashing his throat with a razor.

"The details of that afternoon when my daughter was found dead in bed are not clear," said Dr. Blazer when questioned by District Attorney Stone at the hospital. "I cannot seem to recall any of the happenings that day. If I killed Hazel, I did wrong, but I have no recollection whatever of it."

Subject to Mental Lapses.

"I loved the girl dearly and had no reason for taking her life and if I am responsible for her death, I murdered her in a fit of temprorary insanity."

Mrs. Katherine Alley's Coupe is Found in Ruins.

A Ford coupe, identified as the property of Mrs. Katherine Alley of Moore street, was destroyed by fire on the Salem-Lisbon road, near Eagleton's Glenn, five miles north of Lisbon, shortly before last midnight.

The machine, parked in front of the Alley home, is believed to have been stolen about 9 o'clock. The theft was not discovered until this morning, when county authorities called local police to inform them of the destruction of the car, carrying a license believed to have been issued in East Liverpool. Police were about to launch an investigation when Mrs. Alley notified them of the theft.

A Jewett sedan, belonging to John Manor, Avondale street, which was stolen while parked in front of a Fourth street theatre, Tuesday evening, was recovered near the Patterson foundry, East Sixth street, yesterday afternoon, where it had been abandoned. It was not damaged.

Good fat steers sold stronger and the plainer kinds were steady. Cows and heifers moved actively and bulls were quoted strong. The calf market was on a firm basis at previous rates. Stockers and feeders sold steady to strong.

The two men were in vivid contrast as they stood before Justice Butler—Hughes tall, straight and his famed whiskers adding to his commanding and distinguished appearance; Kellogg, small, round-shouldered and lacking in the exuberant vitality

KANSAS CITY, Mo., March 5.—U. S. District Attorney C. C. Madison today took personal charge of the Kansas City, Mo., liquor scandal with the announcement that he had information that Kansas City was one of the western clearing points for a vast national liquor smuggling ring.

Madison declared today's carload seizure from Biloxi, Miss., was in line with government information that the enforcement forces had made it too hot for the rum fleet off New York and that Biloxi has become the new port of entry for Bermuda, Cuban and Mexican liquor with key shipping points in apportioned territory over the country of which Kansas City is the middle western depot.

Germany s First President Laid to Rest In Heidelberg

Widow Swoons as First Shovelful of Earth is Placed on Coffin of Former Saddle Maker.

BY S. D. WEYER.

HEIDELBERG, Germany, Mar. 5—Friederich Ebert, first President of a republic that rose on the ruins of Empire, was laid to rest today in the old university town where he spent his boyhood days.

Today's ceremony was the simple conclusion of Germany's tribute to the humble, democratic leader, schooled only in the harness shop, the editorial rooms of a Socialist newspaper and his own little inn, whose body yesterday was escorted with all the pomp of a state funeral through the gateway reserved in imperial days for the use of the kaiser.

The strain of the burial today, following the solemn ceremonies of state which Berlin accorded the president, was too great for Frau Ebert, plain woman of the people, who was his unfailing comrade in the lean days of poverty and the trying years of power.

She swooned as the first shoveful of earth was placed on the coffin of her husband and would have fallen but for Chancellor Luther. The chancellor caught Frau Ebert as she fainted, then assisted her to her carriage.

WOOSTER COLLEGE STUDENTS VOTE, 450 TO 253, IN FAVOR OF DANCING

Movement to Bring About Change in Social Conditions at Presbyterian Institution is Under Way.

WOOSTER, O., March 5.—Students of the college of Wooster, in voting 450 to 253 in favor of authorized dancing at the institution, today had started a movement to bring about a change in the social conditions at the college.

"We have reached a place where Wooster's favorite pastime is 'button, button: who's got the button?'" declared one ardent student in depicting the present status of social gatherings among students.

Those who urged the removal of the dancing ban, declared that churches long ago came to the conclusion that the young folk will dance. In their arguments these students asked if it would not be better to have dances properly restricted and supervised than to have students steal forth in clandestine parties to nearby dancing halls, several of which were mentioned by name during the discussion.

Aubrey Dennis, one of the spokesmen for the pro-dance element, suggested a plan by which there would be four school dances each year and in addition each chartered organization in school would be permitted one dance, all chaperoned and supervised by faculty members.

Arguments in Favor of Ban.

Arguments against lifting the ban were [illegible] One was that many students in school here are training for young people's work in institutions where dancing is not permitted and that the lack of the dance here gives impetus to the development of various amusements to take its place, which can be used by these students in the work after leaving college.

Another point made was that many persons who give Wooster financial

OFFICERS UNHURT

BELLEFONTAINE, O., Mar. 5.—A battle today marked the termination of the three-day siege and resulted in the capture of Ray Wren, 40, and his brother, Harry Wren, 50, farmers living near Rushsylvania. Harry was shot in a thigh. His injuries are not believed serious. They have been lodged in the jail here, pending trial. They were arrested on lunacy warrants.

Neighbor Prefers Charge.

The Wren brothers were working with a team of horses in a field adjoining their farm home when Sheriff Wobley and about 10 deputies surrounded and began closing in on them. The brothers prepared to fight. One of them started to attack the officers with a pitchfork. In subduing the Wren borthers, the officials fired two shots, one of which hit Ray. None of the officers were hurt.

The lunacy warrants were sworn to by James Chamberlain, a neighboring farmer, who claimed the Wren brothers used shotguns on the highway while threatening him. Other neighbors declared the brothers had acted queerly since the death of their mother some months ago.

When the sheriff sought to arrest the brothers three days ago they barricaded themselves in their home and threatened to harm the officials.

PASTOR GUEST OF KIWANIANS

Rev. H. C. Brillhart, Leetonia, Speaks at Noon Luncheon.

Kiwanis ideals were lauded by Rev. H. C. Brillhart, pastor of the St. Paul's Evangelical Lutheran church of Leetonia, in an address before approximately 50 members of the Kiwanis club and their guests in the Larkins annex, at noon today. His subject was "Why We Believe in Kiwanis?"

"We believe in Kiwanis because of its ideals," he said. "The Kiwanis ideal of fellowship is a unique thing—it is a fellowship of men, who believe in the practice of the golden rule. We believe in Kiwanis because it cherishes the ideal of patriotism— not the kind of patriotism which is displayed only in war time or danger but the kind of patriotism that is practiced 365 days a year.

"Woodrow Wilson in future years will be measured by the great ideals which he believed and fought for—that of a great brotherhood of nations, where men could meet and understand each other thereby averting futuro warfare."

The attendance prize, a motormeter, furnished by A. E. Harris, was awarded to R. C. Heddleston. President G. E. Lewis presided. Prof. H. F. Laughlin acted as song leader.

Ralph Sayre, chairman of the attendance committee, outlined plans for the attendance contest, which will be launched next Thursday The club members will be divided into two sides and the campaign waged much on the same plan as it was last year.

DR. H. E. BLAZER, FAILING IN SUICIDE ATTEMPT, WILL FACE MURDER CHARGE

Former Salineville Physician Denies Knowledge of Killing Invalid Daughter in Colorado.

Dr. Harold E. Blazer, former Salineville physician, who is alleged to have chloroformed his invalid daughter, Hazel Blazer, 32, and then attempted suicide at their home in Littleton, a suburb of Denver, Colorado, a few days ago, will face a charge of first degree murder when he is able to leave the hospital.

Dr. Blazer, who left Salineville about 15 years ago, is charged with having slain his daughter because he feared the girl would become an object of charity following his death. R. E. Bishop, his son-in-law, with whom the physician and his daughter made their home, says Dr. Blazer made three attempts to end his life, one by poison, another with chloroform and the third by slashing his throat with a razor.

"The details of that afternoon when my daughter was found dead in bed are not clear," said Dr. Blazer when questioned by District Attorney Stone at the hospital. "I cannot seem to recall any of the happenings that day. If I killed Hazel, I did wrong, but I have no recollection whatever of it."

Subject to Mental Lapses.

"I loved the girl dearly and had no reason for taking her life and if I am responsible for her death, I murdered her in a fit of temprorary insanity."

SUNDAY DANCE BAN FIGHT ON

Ohio Legislators Face Mass of Proposals.

COLUMBUS, Mar. 5. — Legislators today will face final disposition of a mass of varied legislation running from a proposed ban on Sunday dancing in public to important measures in the Republican permanent tax relief program.

The senate is scheduled to confirm Governor Donahey's appointments of trustees of Ohio State university and Kent and Bowling Green state normal schools and after disposing of its long calendar, then recess until Monday night.

A battling equaling in bitterness that which developed over the Buchanan Bible reading is expected in the house if backers push the Gordon bill, prohibiting road house dancing on Sunday, unless consent is obtained by the governing body of the township. The measure is the second of the bills backed by the reform block in the house. Enough supporters are counted upon to pass the bill.

Opposition To Bus Bill.

Two measures on the Republican tax program will be up for final passage in the house. One is the Williams bill, permitting the state to accept a franchise tax for 1924 from foreign corporations operating in Ohio, on a basis of the domestic corporation rate and in lieu of personal property taxes for that year. This, it is claimed, will save the state $1,000,000 which would otherwise have been lost because of a decision of the United States supreme court which held unconstitutional the Ohio tax on foreign corporations. The other measure is the Krueger bill limiting the life of bonds, issued to pay for improvements, to the life of the improvements.

The long fight over the Collister City Home Rule Bus bill, now before Gov. Donahey for action, will be renewed at a hearing on the measure ordered by the governor for March 13. Two speeches will be allowed opponents and proponents of the measure. Briefs will be studied by the governor before he acts on the bill. The measure automatically will become a law March 16 unless the governor uses his veto power before that date. It was said today at the governor's office that strong opposition to the bill has been voiced.

Other Bills Await Action.

Van Swearingen interests were reported today to be considering electrification of the Norfolk and Western railroad, under powers to be granted to the state utilities commission by the Davis electrification bill, which will come up in the senate today for second reading. The bill, which passed the house Wednesday, gives the commission authority to prescribe regulations governing electrification of steam railroads.

Salaries of judges and officials of common pleas and superior courts in cities of more than 150,000 population are increased under the Ramey bill which is scheduled for second reading and reference to committee in the house today, after passage Wednesday by the senate.

Other bills scheduled for similar action include: By Senator Gillen, Jackson, permitting game wardens to carry concealed weapons; by Garver, Holmes, legalizing Central and Eastern Standard time zones in Ohio as fixed by the Interstate Commerce Commission; by Voreys, a resolution authorizing a joint legislative committee to inquire into advisability of an Ohio building at the Philadelphia Centennial exposition in 1926.

The Davidson bill, ... ing state streams against pollution, is expected to be sent to the governor today, following final passage by the senate Wednesday.

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, March 5.—The stock market was dull and heavy in the early trading today with prices of active stocks inclined to lower levels, in continuation of the selling movement which concluded yesterday's session. Some of the industrial leaders made a strong stand at the opening with high priced equipment stocks selling 1 to 3 points higher. But selling orders swept into the market and prices gravitated quickly to lower levels.

Speculative interest in the financial district centered around a number of important dividend meetings, including the American Locomotive, American Steel Foundaries, etc., and the stock holders' meeting of the American Car and Founry company, to vote on splitting the stock 2 to 1.

Since the death of Mrs. Blazer, about two years ago, the care of the crippled daughter, who was neither able to talk nor walk, had rested upon the shoulders of the physician. The girl had been a cripple since birth as the result of a spinal affliction.

According to members of the family, Dr. Blazer recently has been subject to temporary mental lapses and for that reason he was compelled to give up his practice of medicine. He said that during his medical profession he had known persons who would have been better off had they died in their infancy, but that he never felt that way about his own daughter.

EAST END MASS MEET CALLED

Arguments on Mulberry Street Plan Will be Heard.

The street committee of city council and other members of the administration will hear arguments for and against the proposed resurfacing of Mulberry street, at a mass meeting to be held in the East End fire station, Virginia avenue, at 7:30 o'clock tonight.

The meeting was arranged by the street committee, made up of Councilmen N. P. Kerr, Thomas Farrall and Fred Eardley, after a delegation of Mulberry street property holders appeared before the solons last Friday in behalf of a petition opposing the resurfacing program.

Mayor Charles Brown, City Engineer George and possibly Service Director A. G. Ellis will attend.

Opponents of resurfacing argue that the assessments for the construction of the sanitary sewer in East End are due this year, and they are opposed to increasing their financial burden until this debt has been cancelled. Others declare that if the street is not surfaced at this time, the improvement may not be made for several years.

Engineer George has estimated that the plan will cost approximately $3 per running foot, the cost to be divided between the city and the abutting property holders. Council has agreed to call upon the traction company to remove its tracks before the improvement is started.

The solons have taken the stand that they have no desire to legislate for this improvement if the property holders do not want it, explaining that the money can be used on other streets.

The Mulberry street improvement would mean a new low grade road from the Diamond into East End.

Representatives of road and street contracting firms have been asked to attend the meeting tonight.

Secretary Kellogg left immediately for his first conference as Secretary of State with President Coolidge.

Representative Allen J. Furlough of Rochester, Minn., where Secretary Kellogg began the practice of law, asked for the pen with which Mr. Kellogg and Justice Butler signed the oath of office and Secretary Kellogg handed it to him.

Kellogg had a three quarter of an hour conference with President Coolidge.

MIDLAND ROAD WORK DELAYED

Pennsylvania Seeks Understanding on Division of Expense.

Completion of the improvement of the River Road between the state line and Midland, known as Route 243 is being delayed "because of the time negotiations require for arriving at an agreement with the Pennsylvania Railroad and The Steubenville, East Liverpool & Beaver Valley traction company, relative to the division of costs in making changes in the location of the highway in Smiths Ferry.

This is the information which has been forwarded to the East Liverpool Chamber of Commerce by J. L. Herber, Pennsylvania state highway district engineer, of Pittsburgh, following an inquiry.

"As soon as it is possible to arrive at an understanding as to the cost division, the matter will be presented to the public service commission of this state for their approval after which the work can proceed without delay," the latter concludes.

The road between Beaver and Midland has been completed with the exception of a short stretch through Industry. The distance between Midland and the state line is less than three miles.

"Mr. president," he said biting his words off, "I saw in the press this morning certain criticisms attributed to me of the vice president. My criticism was directed at the unseemly and untimely interruption by the vice president of the ceremonies of the new senators taking the oath of office."

Ohio Legislators Face Mass of Proposals.

COLUMBUS, Mar. 5. — Legislators today will face final disposition of a mass of varied legislation running from a proposed ban on Sunday dancing in public to important measures in the Republican permanent tax relief program.

The senate is scheduled to confirm Governor Donahey's appointments of trustees of Ohio State university and Kent and Bowling Green state normal schools and after disposing of its long calendar, then recess until Monday night.

A battling equaling in bitterness that which developed over the Buchanan Bible reading is expected in the house if backers push the Gordon bill, prohibiting road house dancing on Sunday, unless consent is obtained by the governing body of the township. The measure is the second of the bills backed by the reform block in the house. Enough supporters are counted upon to pass the bill.

Opposition To Bus Bill.

Two measures on the Republican tax program will be up for final passage in the house. One is the Williams bill, permitting the state to accept a franchise tax for 1924 from foreign corporations operating in Ohio, on a basis of the domestic corporation rate and in lieu of personal property taxes for that year. This, it is claimed, will save the state $1,000,000 which would otherwise have been lost because of a decision of the United States supreme court which held unconstitutional the Ohio tax on foreign corporations. The other measure is the Krueger bill limiting the life of bonds, issued to pay for improvements, to the life of the improvements.

The long fight over the Collister City Home Rule Bus bill, now before Gov. Donahey for action, will be renewed at a hearing on the measure ordered by the governor for March 13. Two speeches will be allowed opponents and proponents of the measure. Briefs will be studied by the governor before he acts on the bill. The measure automatically will become a law March 16 unless the governor uses his veto power before that date. It was said today at the governor's office that strong opposition to the bill has been voiced.

Other Bills Await Action.

Van Swearingen interests were reported today to be considering electrification of the Norfolk and Western railroad, under powers to be granted to the state utilities commission by the Davis electrification bill, which will come up in the senate today for second reading. The bill, which passed the house Wednesday, gives the commission authority to prescribe regulations governing electrification of steam railroads.

Salaries of judges and officials of common pleas and superior courts in cities of more than 150,000 population are increased under the Ramey bill which is scheduled for second reading and reference to committee in the house today, after passage Wednesday by the senate.

Other bills scheduled for similar action include: By Senator Gillen, Jackson, permitting game wardens to carry concealed weapons; by Garver, Holmes, legalizing Central and Eastern Standard time zones in Ohio as fixed by the Interstate Commerce Commission; by Voreys, a resolution authorizing a joint legislative committee to inquire into advisability of an Ohio building at the Philadelphia Centennial exposition in 1926.

The Davidson [illegible] ing state streams against pollution, is expected to be sent to the governor today, following final passage by the senate Wednesday.

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, March 5.—The stock market was dull and heavy in the early trading today with prices of active stocks inclined to lower levels, in continuation of the selling movement which concluded yesterday's session. But selling orders swept into the market and prices gravitated quickly to lower levels.

Speculative interest in the financial district centered around a number of important dividend meetings, including the American Locomotive, American Steel Foundaries, etc., and the stock holders' meeting of the American Car and Founry company, to vote on splitting the stock 2 to 1.

Since the death of Mrs. Blazer, about two years ago, the care of the crippled daughter, who was neither able to talk nor walk, had rested upon the shoulders of the physician. The girl had been a cripple since birth as the result of a spinal affliction.

According to members of the family, Dr. Blazer recently has been subject to temporary mental lapses and for that reason he was compelled to give up his practice of medicine. He said that during his medical profession he had known persons who would have been better off had they died in their infancy, but that he never felt that way about his own daughter.

MUSICIANS AID IN CHURCH MEET

EAST END MASS MEET CALLED

Arguments on Mulberry Street Plan Will be Heard.

The street committee of city council and other members of the administration will hear arguments for and against the proposed resurfacing of Mulberry street, at a mass meeting to be held in the East End fire station, Virginia avenue, at 7:30 o'clock tonight.

The meeting was arranged by the street committee, made up of Councilmen N. P. Kerr, Thomas Farrall and Fred Eardley, after a delegation of Mulberry street property holders appeared before the solons last Friday in behalf of a petition opposing the resurfacing program.

Mayor Charles Brown, City Engineer George and possibly Service Director A. G. Ellis will attend.

Opponents of resurfacing argue that the assessments for the construction of the sanitary sewer in East End are due this year, and they are opposed to increasing their financial burden until this debt has been cancelled. Others declare that if the street is not surfaced at this time, the improvement may not be made for several years.

Engineer George has estimated that the plan will cost approximately $3 per running foot, the cost to be divided between the city and the abutting property holders. Council has agreed to call upon the traction company to remove its tracks before the improvement is started.

The solons have taken the stand that they have no desire to legislate for this improvement if the property holders do not want it, explaining that the money can be used on other streets.

The Mulberry street improvement would mean a new low grade road from the Diamond into East End.

Representatives of road and street contracting firms have been asked to attend the meeting tonight.

Representative Allen J. Furlough of Rochester, Minn., where Secretary Kellogg began the practice of law, asked for the pen with which Mr. Kellogg and Justice Butler signed the oath of office and Secretary Kellogg handed it to him.

Kellogg had a three quarter of an hour conference with President Coolidge.

"We discussed a lot of things," he said as he left the White House.

Business Progress

At the end of 1924 nearly everybody was bubbling over with business optimism. The new year started off with a rush. Then in February came a lull and a change of tone. Many people began to look upon the prophecies as false, and wrap themselves in gloom.

There may have been no reason for extravagant optimism; neither was there reason later for extravagant pessimism. There is usually a lull in February. Even so, it has not been anything like a genuine relapse. Figures show that business in general, even while slowing its pace a little, has continued its recovery. Production has expanded. Employment has increased. Wages have advanced. Wholesale prices have moved up. The railroads have reported remarkably heavy loadings for this season of the year. Bank clearings have grown. Though some lines have slackened, the great mass of business has moved ahead.

The trouble seems to have been mainly psychological. People who were expecting too rapid progress mistook moderate progress for retrogression. People in lines not yet caught up with the general business movement saw everything wrong. February is always likely to breed mental depression anyway. Parental Public Duty

A news story tells of a Chicago father who caused the arrest of his burglar son because he placed "duty to public above parental love." The culprit is described as a slender boy of 17 years, member of a gang of youthful crooks connected with two definitely known burglaries. The other boys had already been caught. This one fled from the city for a while, but finally came home. After hours of discussion between father and son, it was decided to summon the police.

"I had to do it," the father said. "I might have shielded him, but it wouldn't be right."

The reader naturally wonders where the father's public duty and parental love were when the boy first went wrong and whether it was inevitable that the lad should fall into an evil gang. Less Spartan sternness and more understanding intelligence earlier perhaps might have saved the boy from wrongdoing and disgrace.

But there is a hopeful element in the story. Perhaps in those "hours of discussion" father and son may have reached a better understanding of each other along with their decision about the particular situation. If this is so, it is probably the last time that boy will ever have to "face the music" for committing a crime. Father and son may both be better citizens hereafter.

Lord Rothermere, brother of the late Lord Northcliffe and heir to his great group of newspapers and magazines, is a hero. Or at least, is a sport. The challenge was inspired by Lord Rothermere's criticism of the school system on the ground of inefficiency.

There are to be "seven sums and 18 general questions" in the examination. The grown-up pupil who will try to answer them left school 42 years ago, at the age of 14. To make it all the more a sporting venture, he will pay $5,000 to the British Labor party if he fails to get a standing of 75 per cent.

That list of questions will be read with interest in America, and may distract attention from cross-word puzzles for a day or two.

THE BOARD OF TAX APPEALS

WASHINGTON, March 5.—The United States board of tax appeals, created by the revenue act of 1924, has now been functioning seven months, and in that time has received 1,900 petitions and actually disposed of about 600 cases. This appears to set a new record for action in such a young organization under the government. It has been said that some of the federal bureaus and commissions did not actually begin functioning for a year or a year and a half after they were created by law.

The tax board, however, takes itself seriously. It realizes how tremendously important it may be in assisting the citizen in unraveling his tax tangle. Prior to its creation a taxpayer who felt that he had been overcharged on his taxes had no redress other than to pay them and then file his claim for a refund. This was a long and tedious performance. If he were granted a refund it sometimes took several years for the matter to be adjusted and for him to obtain it.

In addition, he had the natural feeling that the commissioner of internal revenue would be inclined to decide any doubtful question against the taxpayer. This might be done not from a desire to discriminate against the taxpayer, but from a desire to prove the commissioner's efficiency by collecting as much money for the government as possible.

Under the law which provided for the new board, the commissioner of internal revenue cannot collect any tax if the taxpayer wishes to appeal it. The board must give its decision first. If this decision is in favor of the taxpayer, the commissioner may either abide by it, or if he still feels that he is right, he may sue in the courts to obtain the additional tax.

The taxpayer has the same privilege. If the decision is unfavorable to him, he may pay the tax demanded and then sue in the district court or the court of claims to recover it. However, if the tax has already been paid he cannot petition the board, since it has no jurisdiction to compel the treasury to refund it. He can only sue to collect a refund.

TWELVE MEMBERS APPOINTED

The act provides that the president may appoint 28 members whose terms shall expire on June 2, 1926, and that thereafter the board shall consist of seven members with overlapping terms running up to 10 years. The act was passed June 2, 1924, and early in July the president appointed 12 members.

These appointments were made without reference to politics—there being both Republicans and Democrats on the board. They are for the most part active, energetic men in their early forties. They have all had training and experience which particularly fits them for their positions. Above all they are tremendously enthusiastic about the work of the board and none of them is a "10 o'clock scholar." They all report early and usually may be found in their offices up until 6 or 7 o'clock. It is not uncommon for them to work on Sundays and in the evenings.

Several of them gave up opportunities which guaranteed substantially larger incomes than they receive as compensation as members of the board of tax appeals. They feel, however, that they are participating in a big public service and a personal feeling of satisfaction makes up to them their monetary loss.

Right here might be added that the enthusiasm does not end with the members of the board. The force of clerks and stenographers with which they have surrounded themselves has become imbued with the same spirit and few are 'clock watchers." Four-thirty does not mean a break-neck race for hat and coat in this organization. Perhaps an explanation of this is that every clerk was carefully picked with a view to his particular qualifications. While they come under the same rules and regulations as other civil service employes these rules are administered with as little irksomeness as possible. Each one is intensely interested in the work of the board and anxious to do his bit toward making it a success.

The board is an independent agency, separate and distinct from any other department or bureau. It is responsible to no federal authority other than the president. It is in effect a judicial tribunal of limited jurisdiction. It has power to review determinations of the commissioner of internal revenue with respect to income and profits taxes, estate taxes and the new gift tax. It has no precedents to go upon and judges each case upon the facts and circumstances as laid before it.

GIVES TAXPAYERS A CHANCE

For the first time the taxpayer feels that he has a fair chance when he complains that he has been over-assessed. It has been estimated by the chairman of the board that approximately 50 per cent of the cases in which written decision has been made have been decided in favor of the taxpayer. Certainly this encourages Mr. General Public to feel that he has at last found a friend.

One such decision was in the case of a small grocer down in Tennessee. This man's store and warehouse was simply a small box-like concrete structure without reinforcement, erected upon a sand foundation. It stood within 100 feet of a railroad and 200 feet from a railroad switching yard. He complained to the board that the commissioner of internal revenue would allow him only the same rate of depreciation which would be allowed on a reinforced concrete structure many times the size of his building, and located in the heart of a large city where the vibration would be negligible. The board reviewed the case and decided that the man was right in his contention.

A case where it decided in favor of the commissioner, however, was that of a wealthy woman who purchased a country estate in 1907 and placed thereon many improvements which greatly enhanced its value. A large part of this estate was woodland. A few years ago the section of Massachusetts where this estate was located suffered a severe "ice storm," which is really a heavy rain followed immediately by a freeze. The accompanying high wind blew the tops off all the trees, in some cases nearly a third of the tree being broken.

This woman's claim was that because the trees were broken the value of the estate was lessened by about $3,000 and she wished to take this amount as a loss when filing income tax returns. The board held with the commissioner that since she had not sold the estate she had not actually sustained a loss. It was just another case of the little understood fact that neither a profit nor a loss can be taken until the entire transaction has been completed.

Another case was that of two men who entered into brokerage partnership. They were successful and the profits were so great that a considerable surtax was due on each one's share. In order to circumvent the payment of these surtaxes each man entered into a partnership with his wife, whereby they agreed to share all profits and all losses. These were the only conditions of the contract. The board, however, did not hold with this, and ruled that each man must pay the surtax due on the full amount of profits which he received from the partnership.

Another interesting phase of the work of the board is that many well-known and interesting persons plead their own cases. A short time ago the feminine contingent of the board's staff was thrown into what is sometimes called a "state" by the arrival of Florenz Ziegfeld, A. L. Erlanger and Charles Dillingham. When asked if any human interest feature developed at this hearing, a member of the board said, "The only human interest noted was that of the stenographers who formed a steady parade past the door of the room in which the hearing was held."

When a hitherto rather tight husband begins to ease up a little on the money he gives his wife she thinks it is about time to put a detective on his track, or send for a doctor.—Newark American-Tribune.

Neighborhood News— By Fontaine Fox

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, March 5.—Off the coast of Ireland today we ran into another "bit of wind, sir." Yet our nearness to land gave us courage. We will touch Plymouth, the first port of call, in the morning. Then on to Cherbourg where we disembark.

Palms are beginning to itch. Tipping time has come. The perquisites for a couple crossing the Atlantic amount to about five pounds or $25. This is exclusive of the gouge for the seamen's fund. It seems to me some of this should go to the widows and orphans of American seamen as it is contributed chiefly by Americans.

I understand the most remunerative job on a liner is that of the chief smoking room steward. This comes mostly from his rake off of the auction pool nightly which runs into hundreds of dollars. It is a gambling game in which bets are pooled on the next day's run of the ship.

The salary of a liner captain is about $5,000 a year. Nearly half of this goes to the British government for taxes. Poor pay for a man who in case of disaster must click his heels and go down with his ship.

I have never seen an auction pool on a ship that didn't have the most officious person on board for the auctioneer. It seems to be a job for the professional smart alec—one of those uncouth, underbred persons who are so well known in New York.

This one was no exception, indeed a little worse than most. He was a loud mouthed vulgarian and I was glad to see an American banker and a titled Englishman leave the lounge in disgust. As a matter of fact, I see no good reason for the auction pool. It panders to the lowest taste.

Despite rough seas and a difficult voyage my only catastrophe is of a somewhat impersonal nature. The night before leaving New York my portable typewriter gave a few gasps and expired. I was leaving before stores opened and in my dilemma I was aided by Peter B. Kyne, the novelist, who loaned me his. The casing made me feel quite important as Peter has just circled the globe and it was criss-crossed with bright labels from Hong Kong, Singapore, Bombay, Constantinople and so forth. A lurch of the ship today sent it flying. Springs popped, keys fell out and the ribbon was in a hopeless snarl. It seems altogether useless—which makes it rather hard on the owner.

Only the most urgent necessity will make me cross the Atlantic again during winter months. It is physically exhausting and nerve straining. A double trial for me, for aside from my own discomfort I was obliged to do a certain amount of work each day. The usher will now pass among you with fresh handkerchiefs and all please weep silently.

We were cheered today by the improvement in the little baby on the way to Capetown who is ill with tonsilitis. A ship becomes pretty much like a small town in its neighborliness. There is light gossip and a close knit air of friendliness. And during stormy weather this camaraderie is accentuated.

People are inclined to light reading on liners. Among the books noticed on the promenade deck were "Rugged Waters"—(And why that?) "The Grand Duke's Finances," "Flaming Youth," "Mr. and Mrs. Haddock Abroad," "R. F. D. No. 3" and acres of cross-word puzzle books. "White Light Nights," by a certain author, is in the library, but the librarian told me they had not had a single call for it.

Already sea gulls are darting out from England to welcome us with their piraling and graceful dips. Of all birds, they interest me most. I can watch them for hours.

NEWSY GOSSIP OF BIG CITIES

By ALICE LANGELIER.

PARIS, March 5.—That time is not money in the French capital is very easy to believe from the number of stopped clocks one finds around the city. A certain American has just been wandering about making a note of them and has found there are at least 215 timepieces in public places which do not run and there are undoubtedly many more he did not find.

Some of the clocks have no hands, others have but one. Even many of the watchmakers who have clocks above their windows no longer keep them in order. Perhaps it is to encourage the sale of watches. And what is more amusing is to find that the few clocks that are running report various hours. The same American found that the clocks at all the railway stations showed a different hour, as well as the six clocks he passed from the Place St. Michel to the opera, every one reporting a difference of some minutes.

It is undoubtedly this disregard for the minutes which makes Paris the paradise of American pleasure-seekers and the bugbear of business men. To be 10 or 15 minutes late for an appointment means very little in any Frenchman's life. And if a train is late, why worry? There will be another along in an hour or so.

A French tourist agency for sea voyage has just launched a circular which is not lacking in originality.

"It is Cupid," reads the announcement, "who is the sovereign director of our boats. The proof is in the number of marriages celebrated between the passengers after each one of our cruises. Our voyages are made in tropical latitudes where the breezes are soft and the moon always on hand. Numerous are the opportunities for awakening ideas of marriage among many people."

The same agency also announces that in order to avoid annoying delays of marriage until the return to land two clergymen are always on board and ready for service.

All Frenchmen did not turn in their gold at the beginning of the war when the government sent out its orders. Fifty thousand pieces of it have just been found in an old stove in Paris. Pierre Damet, a journalist, saw the stove at an old iron dealer's, dickered with him and finally arrived at a bargain of ten francs. While he was loading it onto a wheelbarrow to cart it away a piece of the grate fell out, revealing a cachet in which was the sack of gold. The dealer naturally tried to get back the precious stove, but Pierre walked off to estimate the treasure.

Instead of killing lost dogs that reach the Paris pound, there is some talk of selling them. It has just been found that the pound costs the city at least one million francs a year. Dogs of every kind and color find their way there and if not reclaimed by their masters in 48 hours they are put to death. In the year 1916, which was particularly bad for the canine population of the French capital, 21,735 dogs were sent to the "dog house" and 17,027 were asphyxiated. In 1918 19,352 were found, but only 15,404 were done away with. Some were reclaimed, and a large number given over to the laboratories for vivisection purposes. There seems to be no important objection for not selling many of the best dogs at a profit for the city treasury, unless sanitary reasons be considered, and these are not difficult to overcome.

TODAY

BY ARTHUR BRISBANE

(The opinions expressed in this column are strictly those of Mr. Brisbane and not necessarily in consonance with the policies of The Review-Tribune).

WELCOME, MR. PRESIDENT

To Calvin Coolidge, inaugurated yesterday, welcome to the presidency of the United States, on your own hook, with a vote and a plurality bigger than any other president ever got.

The people know that your one desire is to serve them faithfully. They believe that you will be successful in your effort to increase prosperity and opportunity and demonstrate the soundness of the theory underlying this government that the people are able to govern themselves.

TO HIM THAT HATH

To him that hath. This is written at Los Angeles, looking over the city from the top of the Ambassador hotel.

S. W. Straus, who owns the Ambassador there, in New York and in Atlantic City, and has done more than any other American to make up for the building shortage, is a good judge of real estate.

He says:

"California has not even begun to move. Newspapers talk about the second million in Los Angeles' population.

"The second will be here and the third million on the way before the people realize it. A city situated as this grows like a rolling snowball.

"Everything fundamental that a state could need was here from the beginning—climate, location, fertility. The two things needed, population and capital, are pouring in from all parts of the United States."

"To him that hath shall be given."

When you have nearly everything, the rest is given to you. Today the federal government starts spending six and a half millions improving the Los Angeles harbor, which, you are proudly told, already has a traffic second only to New York among the harbors of the United States.

Far more important than anything the government, or the east, could do, are the things that the people of California are now doing for themselves. The Imperial valley this year will produce $13,000,000 worth of long staple cotton as good as any grown in Egypt.

The next step will be to make that cotton into cloth out here, instead of shipping it to eastern mills and eastern workers.

An intense effort is made to build up industry, all sorts of manufactures here. The people of California realize that apart from the prosperous few, the thing that new citizens look for is a chance to make a living.

California's population will increase from 2,000,000 to 20,000,000 long before this century ends, and California is determined to find useful, profitable occupation for the new millions.

BORN IN IT, BURIED IN IT

Ebert, Germany's dead president, will be buried as a Roman Catholic, the rites of the church performed by Fr. Mass, of Heidelberg. Ebert spent his life as a Socialist, he and his fellows being rather hostile to religion as a "power" seeking to make workmen contented and obedient in their miserable condition.

But born in the Catholic church, he will be buried in it. Death, when it comes, is a strange, overwhelming thing, and the average mind turns eagerly to some power that says with confidence, "Leave all to me."

PNEUMOCOCCUS SAYS "COME"

William Andrews Clark, formerly senator from Montana, now dead in his magnificent New York palace, began with nothing in the usual way, and got many millions. He could say to others, "Come and go." They went and came as he bade them.

Thousands worked for him, including many politicians. He had money, and that is power.

But all the money and power, all the doctors, with all their advice, will not free the richest man when the deadly microscopic pneumococcus appears.

That infinitesimal pneumonia germ has no millions of dollars, no bank account. But when it says, "come," the richest man must follow.

Warning to rich and poor; keep up your vitality with sunshine, sleep, wise eating, peace of mind. Only wisdom will fight the germ; money will not do it.

Harry Sinclair knows about oil, and says the supply will not last. The ordinary man, told that 300,000,000 barrels are stored above ground, asks, "Why worry?"

Mr. Sinclair says this country will use up the 300,000,000 barrels in 130 days.

It is fortunate that President Coolidge is interested in oil conservation. Scientists employed by the nation should seek out new oil deposits, to be protected for national use.

Unless vast new deposits are found gasoline will soon climb to 50 cents a gallon and higher, and some other power for engines must be discovered. It is a great opportunity for an inventor to build a light, efficient electric battery.

DINNER STORIES

The habitual inebriate was met at the door by his irate spouse. He had a large swelling on his forehead and bore traces of a recent nose-bleed.

"You drunkard," she said, "you have been fighting again!"

"No, m'dear."

"Don't tell me 'No,' how did you get that bump on your head?"

"I bumped it on the chand'leer."

The self-conscious young man had just selected some striped hosiery. He wished to have a charge made. The salesgirl, incidentally chewing gum, inquired his name.

"Gurls. Will B. Curls," he muttered in philosophical monotone.

"Yes, yes, but your name," insisted the counter Venus.

"But Gur'a—"

"Never mind the girls. I'm trying to make this charge," she interrupted.

"Will Gurls," he began with a blush.

A certain painter is confined in an asylum. To persons who visit him he says: "Look at this; it is my latest masterpiece."

They look and see nothing but a bare expanse of canvas. They ask: What does it represent?"

"That? Why, that represents the passage of the Israelites through the Red sea."

"Beg pardon, but where is the sea?"

"And where are the Israelites?"

"And the Egyptians?"

"They will be here directly. That's the sort of painting I like—simple and unpretentious."

The small child was very busy teasing the kitten, when her mother remonstrated:

"Phyllis, the next time you hurt that kitten, I am going to do the same thing to you. If you hit or pinch it, I shall hit or pinch you. If you pull its ears, I shall pull yours."

Silence for a moment, then:

Business Progress

At the end of 1924 nearly everybody was bubbling over with business optimism. The new year started off with a rush. Then in February came a lull and a change of tone. Many people began to look upon the prophecies as false, and wrap themselves in gloom.

There may have been no reason for extravagant optimism; neither was there reason later for extravagant pessimism. There is usually a lull in February. Even so, it has not been anything like a genuine relapse. Figures show that business in general, even while slowing its pace a little, has continued its recovery. Production has expanded. Employment has increased. Wages have advanced. Wholesale prices have moved up. The railroads have reported remarkably heavy loadings for this season of the year. Bank clearings have grown. Though some lines have slackened, the great mass of business has moved ahead.

The trouble seems to have been mainly psychological. People who were expecting too rapid progress mistook moderate progress for retrogression. People in lines not yet caught up with the general business movement saw everything wrong. February is always likely to breed mental depression anyway. With March, the business pace should quicken and there should be widespread recognition of the real gains made.

It has been estimated by the chairman of the board that approximately 50 per cent of the cases in which written decision has been made have been decided in favor of the taxpayer. Certainly this encourages Mr. General Public to feel that he has at last found a friend.

One such decision was in the case of a small grocer down in Tennessee. This man's store and warehouse was simply a small box-like concrete structure without reinforcement, erected upon a sand foundation. It stood within 100 feet of a railroad and 200 feet from a railroad switching yard. He complained to the board that the commissioner of internal revenue would allow him only the same rate of depreciation which would be allowed on a reinforced concrete structure many times the size of his building, and located in the heart of a large city where the vibration would be negligible. The board reviewed the case and decided that the man was right in his contention.

A case where it decided in favor of the commissioner, however, was that of a wealthy woman who purchased a country estate in 1907 and placed thereon many improvements which greatly enhanced its value. A large part of this estate was woodland. A few years ago the section of Massachusetts where this estate was located suffered a severe "ice storm," which is really a heavy rain followed immediately by a freeze. The accompanying high wind blew the tops off all the trees, in some cases nearly a third of the tree being broken.

This woman's claim was that because the trees were broken the value of the estate was lessened by about $3,000 and she wished to take this amount as a loss when filing income tax returns. The board held with the commissioner that since she had not sold the estate she had not actually sustained a loss. It was just another case of the little understood fact that neither a profit nor a loss can be taken until the entire transaction has been completed.

Another case was that of two men who entered into brokerage partnership. They were successful and the profits were so great that a considerable surtax was due on each one's share. In order to circumvent the payment of these surtaxes each man entered into a partnership with his wife, whereby they agreed to share all profits and all losses. These were the only conditions of the contract. The board, however, did not hold with this, and ruled that each man must pay the surtax due on the full amount of profits which he received from the partnership.

Another interesting phase of the work of the board is that many well-known and interesting persons plead their own cases. A short time ago the feminine contingent of the board's staff was thrown into what is sometimes called a "state" by the arrival of Florenz Ziegfeld, A. L. Erlanger and Charles Dillingham. When asked if any human interest feature developed at this hearing, a member of the board said, "The only human interest noted was that of the stenographers who formed a steady parade past the door of the room in which the hearing was held."

When a hitherto rather tight husband begins to ease up a little on the money he gives his wife she thinks it is about time to put a detective on his track, or send for a doctor.—Newark American-Tribune.

Neighborhood News— By Fontaine Fox

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, March 5.—Off the coast of Ireland today we ran, into another "bit of wind, sir." Yet our nearness to land gave us courage. We will touch Plymouth, the first port of call, in the morning. Then on to Cherbourg where we disembark.

Palms are beginning to itch. Tipping time has come. The perquisites for a couple crossing the Atlantic amount to about five pounds or $25. This is exclusive of the gouge for the seamen's fund. It seems to me some of this should go to the widows and orphans of American seamen as it is contributed chiefly by Americans.

I understand the most remunerative job on a liner is that of the chief smoking room steward. This comes mostly from his rake off of the auction pool nightly which runs into hundreds of dollars. It is a gambling game in which bets are pooled on the next day's run of the ship.

The salary of a liner captain is about $5,000 a year. Nearly half of this goes to the British government for taxes. Poor pay for a man who in case of disaster must click his heels and go down with his ship.

I have never seen an auction pool on a ship that didn't have the most officious person on board for the auctioneer. It seems to be a job for the professional smart alec—one of those uncouth, underbred persons who are so well known in New York.

This one was no exception, indeed a little worse than most. He was a loud mouthed vulgarian and I was glad to see an American banker and a titled Englishman leave the lounge in disgust. As a matter of fact, I see no good reason for the auction pool. It panders to the lowest taste.

Despite rough seas and a difficult voyage my only catastrophe is of a somewhat impersonal nature. The night before leaving New York my portable typewriter gave a few gasps and expired. I was leaving before stores opened and in my dilemma I was aided by Peter B. Kyne, the novelist, who loaned me his. The casing made me feel quite important as Peter has just circled the globe and it was criss-crossed with bright labels from Hong Kong, Singapore, Bombay, Constantinople and so forth. A lurch of the ship today sent it flying. Springs popped, keys fell out and the ribbon was in a hopeless snarl. It seems altogether useless—which makes it rather hard on the owner.

Only the most urgent necessity will make me cross the Atlantic again during winter months. It is physically exhausting and nerve straining. A double trial for me, for aside from my own discomfort I was obliged to do a certain amount of work each day. The usher will now pass among you with fresh handkerchiefs and all please weep silently.

We were cheered today by the improvement in the little baby on the way to Capetown who is ill with tonsilitis. A ship becomes pretty much like a small town in its neighborliness. There is light gossip and a close knit air of friendliness. And during stormy weather this camaraderie is accentuated.

People are inclined to light reading on liners. Among the books noticed on the promenade deck were "Rugged Waters"—(And why that?) "The Grand Duke's Finances," "Flaming Youth," "Mr. and Mrs. Haddock Abroad," "R. F. D. No. 3" and acres of cross-word puzzle books. "White Light Nights," by a certain author, is in the library, but the librarian told me they had not had a single call for it.

Already sea gulls are darting out from England to welcome us with their piraling and graceful dips. Of all birds, they interest me most. I can watch them for hours.

NEWSY GO SIP OF BIG CITIES

By ALICE LANGELIER.

PARIS, March 5.—That time is not money in the French capital is very easy to believe from the number of stopped clocks one finds around the city. A certain American has just been wandering about making a note of them and has found there are at least 215 timepieces in public places which do not run and there are undoubtedly many more he did not find.

Some of the clocks have no hands, others have but one. Even many of the watchmakers who have clocks above their windows no longer keep them in order. Perhaps it is to encourage the sale of watches. And what is more amusing is to find that the few clocks that are running report various hours. The same American found that the clocks at all the railway stations showed a different hour, as well as the six clocks he passed from the Place St. Michel to the opera, every one reporting a difference of some minutes.

It is undoubtedly this disregard for the minutes which makes Paris the paradise of American pleasure-seekers and the bugbear of business men. To be 10 or 15 minutes late for an appointment means very little in any Frenchman's life. And if a train is late, why worry? There will be another along in an hour or so.

A French tourist agency for sea voyage has just launched a circular which is not lacking in originality.

"It is Cupid," reads the announcement, "who is the sovereign director of our boats. The proof is in the number of marriages celebrated between the passengers after each one of our cruises. Our voyages are made in tropical latitudes where the breezes are soft and the moon always on hand. Numerous are the opportunities for awakening ideas of marriage among many people."

The same agency also announces that in order to avoid annoying delays of marriage until the return to land two clergymen are always on board and ready for service.

All Frenchmen did not turn in their gold at the beginning of the war when the government sent out its orders. Fifty thousand pieces of it have just been found in an old stove in Paris. Pierre Damet, a journalist, saw the stove at an old iron dealer's, dickered with him and finally arrived at a bargain of ten francs. While he was loading it onto a wheelbarrow to cart it away a piece of the grate fell out, revealing a cachet in which was the sack of gold. The dealer naturally tried to get back the precious stove, but Pierre walked off to estimate the treasure.

Instead of killing lost dogs that reach the Paris pound, there is some talk of selling them. It has just been found that the pound costs the city at least one million francs a year. Dogs of every kind and color find their way there and if not reclaimed by their masters in 48 hours they are put to death. In the year 1916, which was particularly bad for the canine population of the French capital, 21,735 dogs were sent to the "dog house" and 17,027 were asphyxiated. In 1918 19,352 were found, but only 15,404 were done away with. Some were reclaimed, and a large number given over to the laboratories for vivisection purposes. There seems to be no important objection for not selling many of the best dogs at a profit for the city treasury, unless sanitary reasons be considered, and these are not difficult to overcome.

TODAY

BY ARTHUR BRISBANE

(The opinions expressed in this column are strictly those of Mr. Brisbane and not necessarily in consonance with the policies of The Review-Tribune).

WELCOME, MR. PRESIDENT

To Calvin Coolidge, inaugurated yesterday, welcome to the presidency of the United States, on your own hook, with a vote and a plurality bigger than any other president ever got.

The people know that your one desire is to serve them faithfully. They believe that you will be successful in your effort to increase prosperity and opportunity and demonstrate the soundness of the theory underlying this government that the people are able to govern themselves.

TO HIM THAT HATH

To him that hath. This is written at Los Angeles, looking over the city from the top of the Ambassador hotel.

S. W. Straus, who owns the Ambassador there, in New York and in Atlantic City, and has done more than any other American to make up for the building shortage, is a good judge of real estate.

He says:

"California has not even begun to move. Newspapers talk about the second million in Los Angeles' population.

"The second will be here and the third million on the way before the people realize it. A city situated as this grows like a rolling snowball.

"Everything fundamental that a state could need was here from the beginning—climate, location, fertility. The two things needed, population and capital, are pouring in from all parts of the United States."

"To him that hath shall be given."

When you have nearly everything, the rest is given to you. Today the federal government starts spending six and a half millions improving the Los Angeles harbor, which, you are proudly told, already has a traffic second only to New York among the harbors of the United States.

Far more important than anything the government, or the east, could do, are the things that the people of California are now doing for themselves. The Imperial valley this year will produce $13,000,000 worth of long staple cotton as good as any grown in Egypt.

The next step will be to make that cotton into cloth out here, instead of shipping it to eastern mills and eastern workers.

An intense effort is made to build up industry, all sorts of manufactures here. The people of California realize that apart from the prosperous few, the thing that new citizens look for is a chance to make a living.

California's population will increase from 2,000,000 to 20,000,000 long before this century ends, and California is determined to find useful, profitable occupation for the new millions.

BORN IN IT, BURIED IN IT

Ebert, Germany's dead president, will be buried as a Roman Catholic, the rites of the church performed by Fr. Mass, of Heidelberg. Ebert spent his life as a Socialist, he and his fellows being rather hostile to religion as a "power" seeking to make workmen contented and obedient in their miserable condition.

But born in the Catholic church, he will be buried in it. Death, when it comes, is a strange, overwhelming thing, and the average mind turns eagerly to some power that says with confidence, "Leave all to me."

PNEUMOCOCCUS SAYS "COME"

William Andrews Clark, formerly senator from Montana, now dead in his magnificent New York palace, began with nothing in the usual way, and got many millions. He could say to others, "Come and go." They went and came as he bade them.

Thousands worked for him, including many politicians. He had money, and that is power.

But all the money and power, all the doctors, with all their advice, will not free the richest man when the deadly microscopic pneumococcus appears.

That infinitesimal pneumonia germ has no millions of dollars, no bank account. But when it says, "come," the richest man must follow.

Warning to rich and poor; keep up your vitality with sunshine, sleep, wise eating, peace of mind. Only wisdom will fight the germ; money will not do it.

Harry Sinclair knows about oil, and says the supply will not last. The ordinary man, told that 300,000,000 barrels are stored above ground, asks, "Why worry?"

Mr. Sinclair says this country will use up the 300,000,000 barrels in 130 days.

It is fortunate that President Coolidge is interested in oil conservation. Scientists employed by the nation should seek out new oil deposits, to be protected for national use.

Unless vast new deposits are found gasoline will soon climb to 50 cents a gallon and higher, and some other power for engines must be discovered. It is a great opportunity for an inventor to build a light, efficient electric battery.

DINNER STORIES

The habitual inebriate was met at the door by his irate spouse. He had a large swelling on his forehead and bore traces of a recent nose-bleed.

"You drunkard," she said, "you have been fighting again!"

"No, m'dear."

"Don't tell me 'No,' how did you get that bump on your head?"

"I bumped it on the chand'leer."

The self-conscious young man had just selected some striped hosiery. He wished to have a charge made. The salesgirl, incidentally chewing gum, inquired his name.

"Gurls. Will B. Curls," he muttered in philosophical monotone.

"Yes, yes, but your name," insisted the counter Venus.

"But Gur's—"

"Never mind the girls. I'm trying to make this charge," she interrupted.

"Will Gurls," he began with a blush.

A certain painter is confined in an asylum. To persons who visit him he says: "Look at this; it is my latest masterpiece."

They look and see nothing but a bare expanse of canvas. They ask: What does it represent?"

"That? Why, that represents the passage of the Israelites through the Red sea."

"Beg pardon, but where is the sea?"

"And where are the Israelites?"

"And the Egyptians?"

"They will be here directly. That's the sort of painting I like—simple and unpretentious."

The small child was very busy teasing the kitten, when her mother remonstrated:

"Phyllis, the next time you hurt that kitten, I am going to do the same thing to you. If you hit or pinch it, I shall hit or pinch you. If you pull its ears, I shall pull yours."

Silence for a moment, then:

Thousands Have Discovered Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets Are a Harmless Substitute.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—the substitute for calomel—are a mild but sure laxative, and their effect on the liver is almost instantaneous. These little olive-colored tablets are the result of Dr. Edwards' determination not to treat liver and bowel complaints with calomel.

The pleasant little tablets do the good that calomel does, but have no bad after effects. They don't injure the teeth like strong liquids or calomel. They take hold of the trouble and quickly correct it. Why cure the liver at the expense of the teeth? Calomel sometimes plays havoc with the gums. So do strong liquids. It is best not to take calomel. Let Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets take its place.

Headaches, "dullness" and that lazy feeling come from constipation and a disordered liver. Take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets when you feel "logy" and "heavy." They "clear" clouded brain and "perk up" the spirits. 15c and 30c.

Suffered With Piles For Years

Says Hamadala Has Cured Him

3152 Main St., Buffalo, N. Y.,
August 15, 1924.

Gentlemen — I have been troubled with piles for twelve or thirteen years and although I consulted several of the best recommended physicians, and used various salves prescribed by them as remedies, I was never able to obtain relief.

Through an acquaintance I was advised to try Hamadala Pile Tablets, which I did. I took just one box. Nearly four months have elapsed since I stopped taking the tablets, and there is no sign of the piles returning. I am therefore writing this letter with the absolute belief that Hamadala Tablets have positively and permanently corrected my trouble.

Yours very truly,
JOHN A. McALLISTER.

Hamadala is an internal constitutional treatment for blind, bleeding or protruding piles. It is dispensed under refund guarantee by C. G. Anderson, Carnahan's drug store, Jesse D. Holloway and all good druggists. Out of town sufferers can obtain by mail. Price $1.00.

"Just Rub It On"

Croup Relieved Without Dosing

Too much dosing is harmful to a child's delicate stomach. Often it lays the foundation for ill health in later life.

The next time a child seems croupy in the evening apply Vicks over throat and chest and cover with a warm flannel cloth. Leave the bedclothing loose about the neck so that the arising vapors may be freely inhaled. This usually prevents a night attack.

If croup comes on without warning an application of Vicks usually brings relief in 15 minutes.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—the substitute for calomel—are a mild but sure laxative, and their effect on the liver is almost instantaneous. These little olive-colored tablets are the result of Dr. Edwards' determination not to treat liver and bowel complaints with calomel.

The pleasant little tablets do the good that calomel does, but have no bad after effects. They don't injure the teeth like strong liquids or calomel. They take hold of the trouble and quickly correct it. Why cure the liver at the expense of the teeth? Calomel sometimes plays havoc with the gums. So do strong liquids. It is best not to take calomel. Let Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets take its place.

Headaches, "dullness" and that lazy feeling come from constipation and a disordered liver. Take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets when you feel "logy" and "heavy." They "clear" clouded brain and "perk up" the spirits. 15c and 30c.

Suffered With Piles For Years

3152 Main St., Buffalo, N. Y., August 15, 1924.

Gentlemen — I have been troubled with piles for twelve or thirteen years and although I consulted several of the best recommended physicians, and used various salves prescribed by them as remedies, I was never able to obtain relief.

Through an acquaintance I was advised to try Hamadala Pile Tablets, which I did. I took just one box. Nearly four months have elapsed since I stopped taking the tablets, and there is no sign of the piles returning. I am therefore writing this letter with the absolute belief that Hamadala Tablets have positively and permanently corrected my trouble.

Yours very truly,
JOHN A. McALLISTER.

Hamadala is an internal constitutional treatment for blind, bleeding or protruding piles. It is dispensed under refund guarantee by C. G. Anderson, Carnahan's drug store, Jesse D. Holloway and all good druggists. Out of town sufferers can obtain by mail. Price $1.00.

Croup Relieved Without Dosing

Too much dosing is harmful to a child's delicate stomach. Often it lays the foundation for ill health in later life.

The next time a child seems croupy in the evening apply Vicks over throat and chest and cover with a warm flannel cloth. Leave the bedclothing loose about the neck so that the arising vapors may be freely inhaled. This usually prevents a night attack.

If croup comes on without warning an application of Vicks usually brings relief in 15 minutes.

HOWARD M. GORE TAKES OFFICE

New Governor Sworn in Before Large Crowd at Capital.

Howard M. Gore of Clarksburg, who resigned as secretary of agriculture in President Coolidge's cabinet Tuesday took the oath of office as governor of West Virginia yesterday at Charleston in the presence of an audience of 10,000 persons.

A day of ceremonies, beginning with his arrival in Charleston after daybreak, and concluding with the inaugural ball, which lasted until after the midnight hour witnessed the formal transfer of direction of the executive power of the government from the hands of Ephriam F. Morgan into those of Mr. Gore.

It was 1:45 p. m., when President Frank Lively read the constitutional oath: "Do you solemnly swear that you will support the constitution of the United States and the constitution of the state of West Virginia and that you will faithfully discharge the duties of governor to the best of your skill and judgment? so help you God" And Mr. Gore answered: "I do."

Before taking the oath he had read his inaugural address with a general discussion of problems facing the state, and a declaration that his program would be merely applying the rule of "right and reason" to each issue as it arose.

The day broke with the sky overcast with clouds which shut out the sun even at the time the inaugural parade wound its way through the city before the inaugural ceremony, but almost at the time Governor Gore began his adrress the clouds parted the sun shown down on the crowd.

Mr. Gore read his inaugural address from the text he had prepared, but was interrupted from time to time by applause of his auditors. Declarations that he would not brook encroachment upon the functions of the government, his insistence that common sense and justice must be masters at our council tables, and his statement "I have no policy save the rule of right and reason," called forth a response from the witnesses of the ceremonies that required him to pause until he could again be heard.

Just as he concluded taking the oath of office another reminder of his service to the nation came when little Marion Sullivan brought up a large basket of flowers, the gift of his associates in Washington, which was presented to him by Judge Graham, and in response Mr. Gore paid a tribute to the "earnest, consecrated, men and women" serving in the national government.

facts about Child-birth

IT has been proven conclusively that much of the suffering, pain and dread experienced during expectancy, as well as at child-birth is entirely unnecessary.

An eminent physician, Dr. J. H. Holmes, expert in this science, first produced the great remedy "Mother's Friend," which aids the muscles and tissues to expand more easily, during the constant readjustment, month after month, right up to the climax of child-birth.

"Mother's Friend" is applied externally. Three generations of expectant mothers have used it. "Pains disappeared in two days after using 'Mother's Friend,'" writes a user. "I owe my life to 'Mother's Friend,'" declared another. Use "Mother's Friend" as our mothers and grandmothers did, start today and experience the wonderful comfort it will give you.

AIMS TO LIVE 100 YEARS

An Ancient Secret From Europe.

A PITTSBURGH MAN TELLS HIS SECRET

In June, 1913, H. H. Von Schlick, of Pittsburgh, Pa., could be seen any day visiting prominent Pittsburgh business men in their downtown offices. He carried a satchel, and his arrival was always greeted by a smile indicating welcome. These men were his customers. They drank at his "fountain of youth." They accredited him with a new lease of life and the healthy condition of their families.

Where did he get it?

That is the story every reader of this article should memorize.

During the spring of 1899 I became acquainted with Mr. Boris Marokeff, an old native of Bulgaria. I was a very sick man at the time, and Mr. Marokeff stated that he would give me his formula of an herb medicinal tea, used extensively in his native land, which he was sure would at once help me get well.

"I'll make it for you," he told Mr. Von Schlick. "It is composed of leaves, barks, roots, herbs and flowers of different plants intended by the Creator for his sick children. You will note a new feeling. You will begin to be a new man."

I tried this Bulgarian Herb Tea, and today, at near 60, I feel as young as I did at 35, Mr. Von Schlick states that people who have been sick for years tell him that they feel 10 to 30 years younger, after using Bulgarian Herb Tea for only a short time.

The fame of Bulgarian Herb Tea spreads rapidly. Today it is used by millions of people all over the world, fighting off old age weaknesses. They include happy girls, budding into womanhood or women crossing precarious thresholds of life. All praise and recommend it. Men are aided to recover their strength and vitality, the fire and spring of good health returns to those who were in despair.

I want every person who is sick and ailing to try my Bulgarian Herb Tea. I know it will bring back the cheer and sunshine of good health into your life—only try it is all I ask.

See your druggist for a package today—insist on having it—tell him you want Bulgarian Herb Tea; take no imitations or substitutes. Insist on getting the genuine Bulgarian Herb Tea, made by me. That's what you must have. I put it up in three sizes—35c. 75c, $1.25.

Note—Many people live on farms and in small towns, where there is no drug store. They need this great medicine badly, and should have it, so I will send, by mail, my large five months' treatment for $1.25. Address me, H. H. Von Schlick, President, 831 Locust street, Pittsburgh, Pa.

HOWARD M. GORE TAKES OFFICE

New Governor Sworn in Before Large Crowd at Capital.

Howard M. Gore of Clarksburg, who resigned as secretary of agriculture in President Coolidge's cabinet Tuesday took the oath of office as governor of West Virginia yesterday at Charleston in the presence of an audience of 10,000 persons.

A day of ceremonies, beginning with his arrival in Charleston after daybreak, and concluding with the inaugural ball, which lasted until after the midnight hour witnessed the formal transfer of direction of the executive power of the government from the hands of Ephriam F. Morgan into those of Mr. Gore.

It was 1:45 p. m., when President Frank Lively read the constitutional oath: "Do you solemnly swear that you will support the constitution of the United States and the constitution of the state of West Virginia and that you will faithfully discharge the duties of governor to the best of your skill and judgment? so help you God" And Mr. Gore answered: "I do."

Before taking the oath he had read his inaugural address with a general discussion of problems facing the state, and a declaration that his program would be merely applying the rule of "right and reason" to each issue as it arose.

The day broke with the sky overcast with clouds which shut out the sun even at the time the inaugural parade wound its way through the city before the inaugural ceremony, but almost at the time Governor Gore began his adrress the clouds parted the sun shown down on the crowd.

Mr. Gore read his inaugural address from the text he had prepared, but was interrupted from time to time by applause of his auditors. Declarations that he would not brook encroachment upon the functions of the government, his insistence that common sense and justice must be masters at our council tables, and his statement "I have no policy save the rule of right and reason," called forth a response from the witnesses of the ceremonies that required him to pause until he could again be heard.

Just as he concluded taking the oath of office another reminder of his service to the nation came when little Marion Sullivan brought up a large basket of flowers, the gift of his associates in Washington, which was presented to him by Judge Graham, and in response Mr. Gore paid a tribute to the "earnest, consecrated, men and women" serving in the national government.

facts about Child-birth

IT has been proven conclusively that much of the suffering, pain and dread experienced during expectancy, as well as at child-birth is entirely unnecessary.

An eminent physician, Dr. J. H. Holmes, expert in this science, first produced the great remedy "Mother's Friend," which aids the muscles and tissues to expand more easily, during the constant readjustment, month after month, right up to the climax of child-birth.

"Mother's Friend" is applied externally. Three generations of expectant mothers have used it. "Pains disappeared in two days after using 'Mother's Friend,'" writes a user. "I owe my life to 'Mother's Friend,'" declared another. Use "Mother's Friend" as our mothers and grandmothers did, start today and experience the wonderful comfort it will give you.

AIMS TO LIVE 100 YEARS

An Ancient Secret From Europe.

A PITTSBURGH MAN TELLS HIS SECRET

In June, 1913, H. H. Von Schlick, of Pittsburgh, Pa., could be seen any day visiting prominent Pittsburgh business men in their downtown offices. He carried a satchel, and his arrival was always greeted by a smile indicating welcome. These men were his customers. They drank at his "fountain of youth." They accredited him with a new lease of life and the healthy condition of their families.

Where did he get it?

That is the story every reader of this article should memorize.

During the spring of 1899 I became acquainted with Mr. Boris Marokeff, an old native of Bulgaria. I was a very sick man at the time, and Mr. Marokeff stated that he would give me his formula of an herb medicinal tea, used extensively in his native land, which he was sure would at once help me get well.

"I'll make it for you," he told Mr. Von Schlick. "It is composed of leaves, barks, roots, herbs and flowers of different plants intended by the Creator for his sick children. You will note a new feeling. You will begin to be a new man."

I tried this Bulgarian Herb Tea, and today, at near 60, I feel as young as I did at 35, Mr. Von Schlick states that people who have been sick for years tell him that they feel 10 to 30 years younger, after using Bulgarian Herb Tea for only a short time.

The fame of Bulgarian Herb Tea spreads rapidly. Today it is used by millions of people all over the world, fighting off old age weaknesses. They include happy girls, budding into womanhood or women crossing precarious thresholds of life. All praise and recommend it. Men are aided to recover their strength and vitality, the fire and spring of good health returns to those who were in despair.

I want every person who is sick and ailing to try my Bulgarian Herb Tea. I know it will bring back the cheer and sunshine of good health into your life—only try it is all I ask.

See your druggist for a package today—insist on having it—tell him you want Bulgarian Herb Tea; take no imitations or substitutes. Insist on getting the genuine Bulgarian Herb Tea, made by me. That's what you must have. I put it up in three sizes—35c. 75c, $1.25.

Note—Many people live on farms and in small towns, where there is no drug store. They need this great medicine badly, and should have it, so I will send, by mail, my large five months' treatment for $1.25. Address me, H. H. Von Schlick, President, 831 Locust street, Pittsburgh, Pa.

As a Spread for Bread on the Table

Bread, in one form or another, appears regularly on the American family dining table at every meal. Equally important with the bread is the spread which makes it appetizing and rounds out its food values. The finest spread for bread is fresh, tasteful Jelke GOOD LUCK Margarine. This blended spread is a real contribution to the art of better living. It is made by combining several choice ingredients together. In this way it is possible to secure better flavor, a purer food and sounder food-values than by a less advanced method. The mother, housewife or hostess, called upon to serve tasteful, appetizing meals, can use this table quality margarine to great advantage.

As a Shortening in Baking & Cooking

In food preparation the calls for a shortening are many. Pastry needs plenty of shortening. Roasted fowl calls for a cup and one-half for basting and dressing. And so on. With every call the quantity mounts up, until shortening is a really important item in the kitchen; and the problem is—to have good things to eat and yet keep the cost down. Fresh Jelke GOOD LUCK Margarine is splendidly useful as a shortening, and solves the problem perfectly for the housewife. Cakes, biscuits, dressing and doughnuts, when made with GOOD LUCK, are excellent; and pastry is simply wonderful. GOOD LUCK improves the home menu, and is not expensive.

MASONS' TEMPLE TO BE REOPENED

Grand Lodge Officers of State Will Be Here May 3.

Grand Master Hon. James B. Ruhl, of the Ohio Masonic jurisdiction, and his entire staff, will atend the dedicatory exercises which will mark the reopening of the demodeled temple of New Lisbon lodge No. 65, F. and A. M., of Lisbon, Sunday afternoon, May 3. This will be the first time in history that all officers of the grand lodge of Masons of Ohio will have met in Lisbon.

At a cost of $50,000 New Lisbon lodge of Masons are now completing the remodeling of their temple in East Lincoln way. Work has been in progress almost a year. Edward Sloss, of Hanoverton, has about completed the painting contract, and within the next few weeks the floors will be carpeted and regular meetings of this fraternity will likely be resumed in the new building early in April.

The building has been remodeled from cellar to roof. In the basement is erected the heating plant, this system being the most recent designed. Steam is used in heating the building, and from the boiler a six-inch pipe extends through the basement, and is then reduced to a four inch pipe, which returns the steam to the boiler. Electric motors and master switchboard are also placed in the basement, but in a special room built under the sidewalk.

New furniture will be installed in the lodge room, leather seated opera chairs being selected for this purpose.

The lighting system is of the indirect type, and as a result all of the large rooms are flooded with a mellow glow, and when reflected upon the color scheme presents a most pleasing sight.

In the rear of the building is erected a fire escape after plans approved by the state building inspection bureau. The fire escape is erected on concrete pillars, and is a staunch piece of construction.

Plans for the remodeling were prepared by H. W. Morrow, and the work was performed by Contractor John A. Morrow.

While the remodeling has been in progress, stated meetings of New Lisbon lodge have been infrequent. A special dispensation was granted permitting New Lisbon lodge to convene in Salem, and several meetings have been held there.

However, regular meetings of this Masonic fraternity will very likely be resumed in the new building next month, the date for the first meeting depending upon the furnishing contract.

Officers of New Lisbon lodge No. 65, F. and A. M., are: Master, George C. Porter; senior warden, H. S. Roller; junior warden, James P. Frew; treasurer, F. Jay Moore; secretary, Homer L. Deemer; chaplain, Rev. Peter W. Macaulay; senior deacon, G. A. Hempstead; junior deacon, R. L. Hendricks; senior steward, W. A. Frew; junior steward, C. W. Ball; tyler, William J. Fraser; trustees, C. S. Filson, N. H. Ramsey and W. T. Bennett.

It is probable that at the dedicatory services many members of the Masonic fraternity from all parts of Columbiana county will be guests of New Lisbon lodge.

Very few readers have been found in the 17 townships where the retest was made. A complete report will be filed with County Farm Agent Floyd Lowers within the next few weeks.

WOOL GRADING DEMONSTRATION

A wool grading demonstration will be conducted in this county Friday morning at the farm of Edward Huffman, Elkton, at 9:30 o'clock in the morning, and also another at 1:30 o'clock in the afternoon at the farm of Floyd Hull at Millport. This demonstration will be in charge of J. F. walker, secretary of the Ohio Sheep and Wool Growers' association.

Friday evening Mr. Walker will speak at a meeting of the Franklin township farm bureau on sheep raising. This meeting will be open to all who are interested in sheep raising.

Woman Given Divorce.

To Fill Jury Wheel.

Judge James G. Moore has issued an order providing that 700 names to selected for jurors for the next fiscal year. These names will be selected by the jury commission, which will meet in the law library in the court house in May.

Case Settled.

The case of the Motors Mortgage company against W. L. Rayl, which was filed in common pleas court recently to recover $1,848.01, has been settled and the costs paid, the record of common pleas court shows.

Road Hearing Scheduled

A public hearing will be held by the County Commissioners at their office in Lisbon at 10 O'clock the morning of March 16, which will have to do with the improvement of a section of the East Palestine-Negley road, known as the "Crum's hill job."

Many In County Home

There are 113 inmates in the county home, according to the records of Supt. John Neill, as presented Clerk L. H. Johnson of the board of county commissioners this week. The report shows 36 of this number are women. Only one death during the month of February was reported.

KNOCKS 'EM OUT QUICK

Toughest of Old Hang On Coughs Go

Why send a boy to do a man's work? Sweet, sugary cough syrups may help a simple cough, but when you are traveling along towards the cemetery with a stubborn tight old cough that lingers on and on with the most persistent devilishness then you need a real cough medicine—and the realest destroyer of tough old coughs is Bronchuline Emulsion.

The cough may be so tantalizing that you can't sleep nights and your days may be filled with racking torture, yet that's just the kind of a cough that Bronchuline likes to tackle and conquer.

Many times a few doses will stop the hacking and loosen things up and you can depend upon half a bottle to make a two months' cough quit cold and disappear.

Life is sweet—it will be much sweeter when you get rid of that old time cough.

Ask Jesse D. Holloway, Carnahan's Drug Stores, East Liverpool and Newell, W. Va., Fifth street, or any wide awake druggist for a bottle of Bronchuline Emulsion. There's no dope in it—or chloroform, and a couple of teaspoonfuls will usually end any ordinary cough.

All now know that higher price can buy no smoother performance than Hudson's. It cannot buy more brilliant results in pick-up, power or speed. It cannot buy greater reliability or endurance. At today's prices need you own a lesser car? Can a costlier car satisfy you more?

MASONS' TEMPLE TO BE REOPENED

Grand Master Hon. James B. Ruhl, of the Ohio Masonic jurisdiction, and his entire staff, will atend the dedicatory exercises which will mark the reopening of the demodeled temple of New Lisbon lodge No. 65, F. and A. M., of Lisbon, Sunday afternoon, May 3. This will be the first time in history that all officers of the grand lodge of Masons of Ohio will have met in Lisbon.

At a cost of $50,000 New Lisbon lodge of Masons are now completing the remodeling of their temple in East Lincoln way. Work has been in progress almost a year. Edward Sloss, of Hanoverton, has about completed the painting contract, and within the next few weeks the floors will be carpeted and regular meetings of this fraternity will likely be resumed in the new building early in April.

The building has been remodeled from cellar to roof. In the basement is erected the heating plant, this system being the most recent designed. Steam is used in heating the building, and from the boiler a six-inch pipe extends through the basement, and is then reduced to a four inch pipe, which returns the steam to the boiler. Electric motors and master switchboard are also placed in the basement, but in a special room built under the sidewalk.

New furniture will be installed in the lodge room, leather seated opera chairs being selected for this purpose.

The lighting system is of the indirect type, and as a result all of the large rooms are flooded with a mellow glow, and when reflected upon the color scheme presents a most pleasing sight.

In the rear of the building is erected a fire escape after plans approved by the state building inspection bureau. The fire escape is erected on concrete pillars, and is a staunch piece of construction.

Plans for the remodeling were prepared by H. W. Morrow, and the work was performed by Contractor John A. Morrow.

While the remodeling has been in progress, stated meetings of New Lisbon lodge have been infrequent. A special dispensation was granted permitting New Lisbon lodge to convene in Salem, and several meetings have been held there.

However, regular meetings of this Masonic fraternity will very likely be resumed in the new building next month, the date for the first meeting depending upon the furnishing contract.

Officers of New Lisbon lodge No. 65, F. and A. M., are: Master, George C. Porter; senior warden, H. S. Roller; junior warden, James P. Frew; treasurer, F. Jay Moore; secretary, Homer L. Deemer; chaplain, Rev. Peter W. Macaulay; senior deacon, G. A. Hempstead; junior deacon, R. L. Hendricks; senior steward, W. A. Frew; junior steward, C. W. Ball; tyler, William J. Fraser; trustees, C. S. Filson, N. H. Ramsey and W. T. Bennett.

It is probable that at the dedicatory services many members of the Masonic fraternity from all parts of Columbiana county will be guests of New Lisbon lodge.

CATTLE SURVEY MADE IN COUNTY

Dr. Greenig, of Barnesville, who with Dr. Stoner, of Salem, have been making a survey of all cattle in Columbiana county for the purpose of locating reactors, following the tuberculin test campaign in this county last fall, has closed his work and returned to Belmont county.

Liverpool township is the only one in the county that has not been included in this survey, but this work will be done by Dr. Stoner as soon as the roads in that township are in passable condition.

Very few readers have been found in the 17 townships where the recent was made. A complete report will be filed with County Farm Agent Floyd Lowers within the next few weeks.

WOOL GRADING DEMONSTRATION

A wool grading demonstration will be conducted in this county Friday morning at the farm of Edward Huffman, Elkton, at 9:30 o'clock in the morning, and also another at 1:30 o'clock in the afternoon at the farm of Floyd Hull at Millport. This demonstration will be in charge of J. F. walker, secretary of the Ohio Sheep and Wool Growers' association.

Friday evening Mr. Walker will speak at a meeting of the Franklin township farm bureau on sheep raising. This meeting will be open to all who are interested in sheep raising.

To Draw Jurors.

A venire of 45 names been ordered drawn from the jury wheel for the April term of court which begins April 6. The first 15 names drawn from the wheel will compose the April grand jury, and the remaining names will be used as petit jury.

Woman Given Divorce.

To Fill Jury Wheel.

Judge James G. Moore has issued an order providing that 700 names be selected for jurors for the next fiscal year. These names will be selected by the jury commission, which will meet in the law library in the court house in May.

Case Settled.

The case of the Motors Mortgage company against W. L. Rayl, which was filed in common pleas court recently to recover $1,848.01, has been settled and the costs paid, the record of common pleas court shows.

Road Hearing Scheduled

A public hearing will be held by the County Commissioners at their office in Lisbon at 10 O'clock the morning of March 16, which will have to do with the improvement of a section of the East Palestine-Negley road, known as the "Crum's hill job."

Many In County Home

There are 113 inmates in the county home, according to the records of Supt. John Neill, as presented Clerk L. H. Johnson of the board of county commissioners this week. The report shows 36 of this number are women. Only one death during the month of February was reported.

Concerts Arranged

The Presbyterian band of Lisbon has arranged to give three Sunday afternoon concerts in the Lisbon theatre, during March, April and May. The first of these concerts will be given next Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock. The band is directed by Samuel Krauss.

Sale Confirmed

In the case of High McCready against Loris C. Shaffer and others, a sale of property has been confirmed in a foreclosure proceeding, the amount involved being placed at $365. A distribution has also been ordered by the court.

Sweet, sugary cough syrups may help a simple cough, but when you are traveling along towards the cemetery with a stubborn tight old cough that lingers on and on with the most persistent devilishness then you need a real cough medicine—and the realest destroyer of tough old coughs is Bronchuline Emulsion.

The cough may be so tantalizing that you can't sleep nights and your days may be filled with racking torture, yet that's just the kind of a cough that Bronchuline likes to tackle and conquer.

Many times a few doses will stop the hacking and loosen things up and you can depend upon half a bottle to make a two months' cough quit cold and disappear.

Life is sweet—it will be much sweeter when you get rid of that old time cough.

Ask Jesse D. Holloway, Carnahan's Drug Stores, East Liverpool and Newell, W. Va., Fifth street, or any wide awake druggist for a bottle of Bronchuline Emulsion. There's no dope in it—or chloroform, and a couple of teaspoonfuls will usually end any ordinary cough.

Members of the volunteer fire department will hold a benefit ball Wednesday evening, March 11, in the Eagles' hall, East Liverpool. It was originally planned to hold the affair in the Rauh building, but on account of the heavy ticket sale it was decided to transfer it to a more spacious floor.

Ceramic Class Meeting.

Farm Census Near Completion.

Work of taking the farm census in Hancock county is nearing completion, according to reports filed in the office of the director in Pittsburgh. Data gathered by enumerators will be forwarded to the department of agriculture in Washington.

Plan to Attend Tournament.

Several local basketball fans plan to attend the annual tournament which opens at Bethany college tomorrow afternoon. None of the Hancock county teams will compete. Follansbee, which has been making a great record at the expense of teams in this section, is conceded to have a good chance to carry off honors.

Crowds Attend Revivals.

Large crowds continue to attend revival services in the First Christian and Nazarene churches. Rev. Harry G. Kaye of New Castle, Pa., and Rev. Bona Fleming of Ashland, Ky., are preaching the sermons.

Big Money for Farmers.

ST. CLAIRSVILLE—Belmon county farmers reported to E. J. Utz, farm accounts specialist, that their average income during 1924 was $2,205. The average amount received for their labor was $1,645, which is considered above what the average city worker makes by reason of exclusion of expense for rent or food. For every $1 invested the farmers received an average of $1.25 in return. These figures were produced by those who started keeping farm accounts a year ago under Utz's direction on forms devised at Ohio State university.

The Stark county commissioners recently announced the appointment of Mrs. Harry Lutes, of Alliance, as a member of the board to fill out the unexpired term of the late Charles Y. Kay of Alliance, Gray will complete his fourth year as a member of the board in June.

The Columbiana county members of the board are: H. J. Frazier, East Palestine, named to succeed Joseph Crist, of Homeworth, who resigned because of ill health, and Fred W. Weidmayer, of Leetonia.

The trustees entered into a contract with an Alliance milk distributing concern to furnish milk for the home until a new [illegible] cattle is purchased [illegible]etoins, main [illegible]ently ordered killed after they had been found to be suffering from tuberculosis.

So seriously do the Chinese observe their New Year that for several weeks just before the time, which was late in January, business slowed down.

Flock of Crows Best Eagle.

When a flock of crows and an eagle battled on a farm near Nevers, France, the eagle was the first to call "enough," seeking refuge on the roof of a farm house, only subsequently to be killed. The crows apparently attacked without due cause.

ARE YOU COMMITTING THIS CRIME AGAINST YOUR HEALTH?

An enormous number of people are weak, nervous and ailing, always complaining and doctoring, simply because they have committed the great American crime against their health—because while indoor life, overwork and improper diet have exhausted the iron from their blood, making it thin, pale and watery, they have made no effort to replace this iron which the blood must have to keep them well and strong.

You can easily determine whether you have been committing this health crime. You can get more iron by eating plenty of spinach, lentils and green vegetables. But doctors always advise people who are anaemic, weak, nervous and run-down to take iron in concentrated form—organic iron. Nuxated Iron is organic iron like the iron in your own blood and like that in spinach and green vegetables. It is entirely different from the mineral iron used in the past, for it is readily assimilated and so acts much more quickly and surely. Besides, it doesn't injure the teeth or disturb the stomach. Nuxated Iron represents organic iron in such concentrated form that one dose is estimated to be equal to eating half a quart of spinach, one quart of green vegetables or half a dozen baked apples. Millions of people have used it to quickly help make rich red blood, and give increased strength, energy and endurance.

Make this convincing test:—Get Nuxated Iron today and take it for only two weeks. You will notice a marvelous improvement in health and strength, or your money will be refunded. Sold under this absolute guarantee by all good druggists.

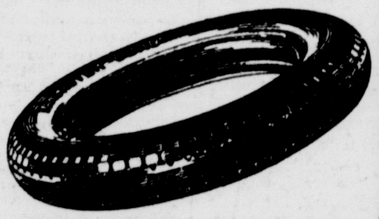
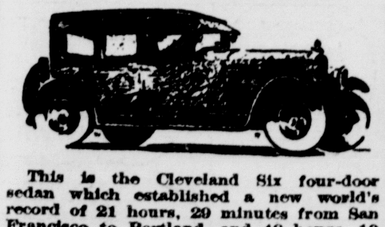
THIS IS THE TIRE



Lancaster Balloon Cords which had previously been driven several thousand miles in hill climbing and speedway tests were used on the Cleveland Six Sedan in the record-breaking dash from San Francisco to Portland and return. And they came through the 1,500 mile grind without attention and ready for several thousand miles more of hard driving.

THIS IS THE CAR



This is the Cleveland Six four-door sedan which established a new world's record of 21 hours, 29 minutes from San Francisco to Portland, and 48 hours, 19 minutes for the round trip. The same car, using the same tires, had previously been used in several hill-climbing tests on Mt. Diablo and track trials at the Fresno speedway.

AND THIS IS THE RUN THEY MADE

The route from San Francisco to Portland runs through all sorts of roads. During the run, heavy rain storms, turning to snow in the mountains, were constantly encountered, while the roads were almost constantly covered with ice or choked with snow and mud.

"THE performance of these tires has been so remarkable that it has been a revelation to our sales force that such an excellent product could be manufactured."

So writes Chas. L. Bowman, Sales Manager of the Chandler-Cleveland Motor Car Co., San Francisco, regarding the Lancaster Balloon Tires used on the Cleveland car which set a new world's record on the 1500 mile run from San Francisco to Portland and return. The test was made over all sorts of roads—"through ice, snow, mud, rocks, and every strain that a tire could be put to,"—and the preformance was so outstanding that even the car dealer marvelled!

This is real proof of the stamina you can count upon when you ride on Lancasters. And, after all, it is such reliability plus ever-handy upkeep service that counts in tires. Lancaster upkeep service is certified.

THE DOUBLE HOUSE

By Elizabeth Dejeans

It was Clarice who told her of their plans: "They say that mamma can leave the hospital in a few days now, and father is going to take a house in Santa Monica for the summer. He told me to ask you whether you would like to move back into your own house and let us take this one? He is going to engage a maid and a chaperon for me, and they could stay here. I'd be with mamma and father most of the time, but the days I have to be at the studio I could stay here. Then you would have someone next door to you. He has kept the house guarded all this time, so we haven't worried about your being alone at night. Having us next door will be better than having a night watchman."

Karesia assented readily. How like him to plan for her, look after her comfort! She knew only too well that she was never absent from his mind. It gave her something to do, moving back into her home; the other house had never seemed like home. Suda and the Japanese wife were very busy, and Takimoto came to help. He hung up her Japanese painting for her.

"Very beautiful!" he said. "Kakemonos like these not can be got any more. The man who paint them was a very great artist of Japan."

"They were given me by the imperial family, Taki, in honor of my husband, who wrote many things about the Japanese."

Takimoto bowed. He studied the paintings with grave interest, but Karesia sensed that his thoughts were not with them. Finally he said, "I wish very much Mr. Dascome had never leave this house. I wish nothing had been found out. I have tell Mr. Dascome, so now I tell you that, for long time, I felt sure Mary Bliss was Meta Thail, but the last day before you have find the photograph, I felt more sure she was Mrs. Dascome. All at once, I think, 'It is Mrs. Dascome!' But I did not tell any one—I know not what to do. I think of all the trouble it would bring to him—like it has." He shook his head. "It great pity."

Karesia could say nothing.

"I think he is very sick man," Takimoto said earnestly. "I feel very sorry."

It was wrung from her. "Taki! I don't know what to do!"

Later—it was nearly 10 o'clock—Karesia was sitting with head bowed and eyes dull; before morning she must decide what to do. She started up when she heard steps on the gallery.

It was Rossiter. "I hoped I'd find you up," he said.

He declined a seat, but lighted a cigarette in his quick, nervous way. His eyes were brilliant, his brows drawn, he was profundly stirred—something had happened. Karesia looked at him, wide-eyed with fear; something had happened to Dascome?

"I've just had a talk with Kreppler," he said tersely.

"Rand—she's——"

"No, she's not—she's well—better every day. Dascome has been driven to it at last; he's had to go to Doctor Kreppler about himself, and Kreppler says that he's on the verge of a total breakdown. The man is done, that's all. Yet he went to the hospital tonight, in spite of Kreppler's warning, because Elaine seems to have been worrying all day over something and wanted to see him. Kara, something has got to be done—at once."

"He must come to me," Karesia said.

"I'm glad you think so. Write to him tonight. Clarice is frantic with anxiety, so am I. If he breaks, he's done for. They are my family now. Clarice has held out—she says that she won't marry me until she has made a success. Well, she'll make a success, but she'll marry me first—I'm determined. Kara, you're no weakling—I'm not afraid for you—it's the woman who wills and the man who obeys. Send for him."

Karesia went over to the table and wrote two lines:

"John, we promised each other. I need you—you must come to me now. "KARESIA."

"Will you take it to him?" she asked Rossiter.

XLV

Karesia did not know, that night, when it was that she passed from anxiety into sleep. She slept heavily and dreamed an intangible dream, a vague vision of the hillside. There was only a part of the dream that had any substance: She was climbing upward and upward with Mary Bliss' hand in hers, helping her along. The hillside was dotted with spikes of yucca bloom—they looked like tall candles. She told Mary Bliss, "They are the Candles of God." She told her not to be afraid, and Mary Bliss said, "I'm not afraid now—it's pretty up here." Then something light and warm, like soft fingers trailed over her face, waked Karesia; she was wide awake. It was morning, the first faint hint of day. It had been a mild night and the window beside her bed was open; a light breeze was blowing in her face.

She knew that she could not sleep any more. She looked at her watch; it was four o'clock and in the east a thread of vermilion marked the meeting of earth and sky.

The squad, under the benign and kindly eye of a veteran sergeant, were being subjected to visual tests.

In a distant field a party of men were undergoing instruction in entrenching work. To the sergeant commanding the squad they appeared as mere dots, and he decided that here was a very good test.

Singling out a smart young man, the sergeant asked him for the number of men composing the entrenching party.

Immediately came the answer:

"Sixteen men and a sergeant, sir!"

"He's not doing any digging, sir!"

THE DOUBLE HOUSE

By Elizabeth Dejeans

It was Clarice who told her of their plans: "They say that mamma can leave the hospital in a few days now, and father is going to take a house in Santa Monica for the summer. He told me to ask you whether you would like to move back into your own house and let us take this one? He is going to engage a maid and a chaperon for me, and they could stay here. I'd be with mamma and father most of the time, but the days I have to be at the studio I could stay here. Then you would have someone next door to you. He has kept the house guarded all this time, so we haven't worried about your being alone at night. Having us next door will be better than having a night watchman."

Karesia assented readily. How like him to plan for her, look after her comfort! She knew only too well that she was never absent from his mind. It gave her something to do, moving back into her home; the other house had never seemed like home. Suda and the Japanese wife were very busy, and Takimoto came to help. He hung up her Japanese painting for her.

"Very beautiful!" he said. "Kakemonos like these not can be got any more. The man who paint them was a very great artist of Japan."

"They were given me by the imperial family, Taki, in honor of my husband, who wrote many things about the Japanese."

Takimoto bowed. He studied the paintings with grave interest, but Karesia sensed that his thoughts were not with them. Finally he said, "I wish very much Mr. Dascome had never leave this house. I wish nothing had been found out. I have tell Mr. Dascome, so now I tell you that, for long time, I felt sure Mary Bliss was Meta Thail, but the last day before you have find the photograph, I felt more sure she was Mrs. Dascome. All at once, I think, 'It is Mrs. Dascome!' But I did not tell any one—I know not what to do. I think of all the trouble it would bring to him—like it has." He shook his head. "It great pity."

Karesia could say nothing.

"I think he is very sick man," Takimoto said earnestly. "I feel very sorry."

It was wrung from her. "Taki! I don't know what to do!"

Later—it was nearly 10 o'clock—Karesia was sitting with head bowed and eyes dull; before morning she must decide what to do. She started up when she heard steps on the gallery.

It was Rossiter. "I hoped I'd find you up," he said.

He declined a seat, but lighted a cigarette in his quick, nervous way. His eyes were brilliant, his brows drawn, he was profundly stirred—something had happened. Karesia looked at him, wide-eyed with fear; something had happened to Dascome?

"I've just had a talk with Kreppler," he said tersely.

"Rand—she's——"

"No, she's not—she's well—better every day. Dascome has been driven to it at last; he's had to go to Doctor Kreppler about himself, and Kreppler says that he's on the verge of a total breakdown. The man is done, that's all. Yet he went to the hospital tonight, in spite of Kreppler's warning, because Elaine seems to have been worrying all day over something and wanted to see him. Kara, something has got to be done—at once."

"He must come to me," Karesia said.

"I'm glad you think so. Write to him tonight. Clarice is frantic with anxiety, so am I. If he breaks, he's done for. They are my family now. Clarice has held out—she says that she won't marry me until she has made a success. Well, she'll make a success, but she'll marry me first—I'm determined. Kara, you're no weakling—I'm not afraid for you—it's the woman who wills and the man who obeys. Send for him."

Karesia went over to the table and wrote two lines:

"Joha, we promised each other. I need you—you must come to me now. "KARESIA."

"Will you take it to him?" she asked Rossiter.

XLV

Karesia did not know, that night, when it was that she passed from anxiety into sleep. She slept heavily and dreamed an intangible dream, a vague vision of the hillside. There was only a part of the dream that had any substance: She was climbing upward and upward with Mary Bliss' hand in hers, helping her along. The hillside was dotted with spikes of yucca bloom—they looked like tall candles. She told Mary Bliss, "They are the Candles of God." She told her not to be afraid, and Mary Bliss said, "I'm not afraid now—it's pretty up here." Then something light and warm, like soft fingers trailed over her face, waked Karesia; she was wide awake. It was morning, the first faint hint of day. It had been a mild night and the window beside her bed was open; a light breeze was blowing in her face.

She knew that she could not sleep any more. She looked at her watch; it was four o'clock and in the east a thread of vermilion marked the meeting of earth and sky.

The squad, under the benign and kindly eye of a veteran sergeant, were being subjected to visual tests.

In a distant field a party of men were undergoing instruction in entrenching work. To the sergeant commanding the squad they appeared as mere dots, and he decided that here was a very good test.

Singling out a smart young man, the sergeant asked him for the number of men composing the entrenching party.

Immediately came the answer:

"Sixteen men and a sergeant, sir!"

"He's not doing any digging, sir!"

You never can tell. Even when you stand up for your rights someone may sit on them.—Canton (O.) News.

Chevrolet, Which Plays Music and Calls Names, Coming.

The "talking Chevrolet," an automobile that not only talks, but which also sees, carries on a conversation, plays music on request, recognizes people, calls them by name and accomplishes other amazing stunts, is coming to East Liverpool for a six-day engagement, according to D. K. Trotter of the Trotter-Chevrolet company, local distributors.

The "talking" car is said to be a regular stock car. It is raised from the floors on jacks and is not connected with wires of any kind. Because of its numerous feats, it has been dubbed as a "human car." More than half a million people are said to have seen this car perform and none has been able to guess the secret of its operation.

The car will be exhibited at the Trotter Chevrolet show rooms in Market street, March 9, 10, 11, 12, 13 and 14.

New Way to Quickly Stop Dangerous Cough

It is almost criminally careless not to properly attend a persistent cough, which by seriously weakening the system lays you open to far more dangerous infections. For by a very simple treatment you can stop the coughing spells almost instantly and often relieve the stubbornest cough in 24 hours.

This simple treatment is based on a remarkable prescription known as Dr. King's New Discovery for Coughs. You simply take a teaspoonful and hold it in your throat for 15 or 20 seconds before swallowing it, without following with water. The prescription has a double action. It not only soothes and heals soreness and irritation, but it quickly loosens and removes the phlegm and congestion which are the direct cause of the coughing. The prompt relief of the heaviest cough seems almost magical.

The prescription is highly recommended for coughs, chest colds, hoarseness and bronchitis, and is wonderful for children's coughs and spasmodic croup—no opiates or other harmful drugs. Economical, too, as the dose is only one teaspoonful. At all good druggists. Ask for

LONDON, March 5.—The identity of the famous soldier named as "General X" was disclosed today.

Mrs. Dorothy Dennistoun testified that he was General Sir John Cowan, quartermaster general of the British army during the World war. The declaration was as startling to high army and social circles as her original charge against her husband that his promotion was gained from General X at the cost of the greatest sacrifice on the wife's part, with the husband's knowledge and approval.

Mrs. Dennistoun is suing her former husband, who has married again since their divorce, for money she claimed was advanced by her and for alleged breach of agreement that he would pay her a flat sum in lieu of alimony.

Colonel Dennistoun is now the husband of the former Lady Carnarvon, whose first husband started the search of King Tutankahmen's tomb. He is the stepfather of the present Countess Carnarvon, formerly Catherine Wendell of New York.

General Sir John Cown, named by Mrs. Dennistoun as the famous soldier from whom she sought favor for her husband, was responsible for the commissariat of the British army in the World war. He was credited with great service, but was penniless when he died in 1921 and his widow was forced to sell his medals in her efforts to raise funds.

CONSTIPATION means MELANCHOLY and DISEASE

Melancholy for the Mother, disease for the Child! The responsibility of the mother does not end with properly clothing and feeding the baby. Her own health is directly reflected in the little one, and the poisons bottled up in her body by constipation transfer themselves to the innocent child and too often result in serious sickness. Mother's bowels should act at least twice a day, and baby's bowels more frequently. Physicians agree on this subject.

Dr Caldwell's SYRUP PEPSIN

The Family Laxative

—relieves constipation. It is a pure, harmless, gentle combination of Egyptian senna, pepsin and aromatics in liquid form that opens up the bowels, and promotes and encourages Nature to perform her proper functions. Runyon Says

How Good Is Fuentes?
Has Lost His Sevengali.
"Windy" Winsor Departs.
Seeks Another Fuentes.

BY DAMON RUNYON.
Copyright, 1925, International Feature Service, Inc.

LOS ANGELES, March 5—TONY FUENTES, the Mexican heavyweight, is a tall, bulky fellow, with a round, olive-tinted face, a soft-looking mouth and gentle friedly eyes, made familiar by Rudolph Valentino.

The writer met him at a local fight one night. Tony was handing out big cigars in honor of the arrival at his house of a baby.

Tony was manifestly happy. He is only twenty. At twenty the first baby little short of a miracle. Tony, has a soft appealing smile, a soft, moist handshake. His voice is soft, and accented.

You would turn to look at him even if you didn't know who he is. He is that type. The Valentino side-burns, his size, his foreign aspect attract the eye. He suggests an opera singer just over from the other side.

He wore light gray trousers of flowing cut, tan shoes, and a loose overcoat the night the writer met him. He looked fat—is IS fat, in fact. He weighed perhaps 200 pounds.

However, he had been in training only a few days. They say he strips down to about 185 pounds, ringside.

He is getting ready for a battle with Eddie Huffman, pride of the Pacific Fleet and All Navy light heavyweight champion, on March 10; at Doyle's Vernon arena.

This is expected to be something of a test of both men. You hear many different opinions in Los Angeles as to the real fistic ability of Tony Fuentes.

Some say he can't fight a lick This theory can scarcely be true,

He bobs around a gymnasium very well. But you must never accept a gymnasium showing as a line on a fighters ability. Some tremendous gymnasium workers are very poor fighters.

It is generally agreed that Fuentes lost a great asset when he lost the man who made him famous over-night, "Windy" Fred Winsor. They say Winsor seemed to exercise a spell over the Mexican that made him a lion in the ring. Without Winson, what will he be?

Fuentes was known as "Kid" Shine," when he first started his pugilistic career. He was bowled over by several third raters.

Then Winsor, a mighty man on the ballyhoo, took hold of him, calling him by his right name, "Kid Shine" would be a terrific handicap for any fighter.

Under Winsor's management, Fuentes knocked out a number of oponents of no considerable ability. Winsor worked night and day getting publicity for Fuentes. He had the Mexicans lining up for hours before the doors opened up to see Fuentes fight. He had the Americans greatly excited.

That is 'Windy" Fred Winsor's way. He is a born ballyhoo man. The pity is that he only once had something really worth ballyhooing, then didn't cash in on it. He once managed Jack Dempsey.

For some years past Winsor has been diligently trying to find another Dempsey. Whether he thought he had the man in Fuentes the writer is unable to state. Probably not. Then again Winsor has been known to fool himself. Every man does when it comes to heavyweight fighters.

Wonsor finally brought the tall pallid, long-chinned Fred Fulton to Los Angeles to meet Fuentes. Fulton fell after a few murious swings by Fuentes.

Some say he wasn't hit, that he had taken what is technically described as a "flop." The community yelled "fake" quite vigorously.

The incident caused talk. Fulton, Fuentes, Winsor and Jack Reddy, of St. Paul, who was the last of Fulton's many managers were arrested.

The impression prevails in the east that the charge against them was engaging in a fake. This was not the letter of the charge. They were charged, in substance, with violating the law against prize fighting, in that the contestants were paid money for their services.

At that time boxers were supposed to receive only medals in California.

You can imagine the gaunt Fulton accepting a medal for a pugilistic performance after eleven years of fighting, and 104 fights.

Reddy and Fulton admitted accepting money, were fined, and left the state. Feuntes and Winsor stood trial. The former was acquitted. Winsor was found guilty and fined.

Winsor has departed, leaving Feuntes with Captain Conklin of the Los Angeles fire department who was interested with him in the Mexican from the beginning; in fact, was Fuentes's original manager here.

Fisher to Coach Harvard.

Boone's Passers to Get Big Sendoff By Student Body Today

Two High School Teams Depart for New Concord on Afternoon Train; Coaches of all Entries Meet Tonight at 9 O'clock for Drawing; Start Play Friday Morning.

East Liverpool and Wellsville high school basketball teams will be contenders in the district scholastic tournament, preliminary to the state games for the Ohio title, Friday and Saturday at Muskingum college, New Concord.

The two squads are scheduled to leave on this afternoon's train to Bridgeport, from whence they will go by bus to New Concord.

O. V. Boone, school athletic director here, this morning announced his squad would be made up of eight players. They are: P. English, Pusey, C. Davis, Liebschner and McConville, the regulars, and Reserves, Bough McGraw and G. Allison.

Pusey and Davis will start at forwards, English at center, and Captain Liebschner and McConville at the guards. Bough can be used as a center or guard; McGraw as center; and Allison as forward of guard. In the event that it is necessary to pull out a forward, Boone plans to send Center English to the scoring post and replace him at center with one of the reserves.

Fifteen district school teams will take part in the tournament. Last year there were only seven entered. According to telegrams received here and in Wellsville this morning, coaches will meet at 9 o'clock tonight in the Muskingum college gymnasium for the drawing, which originally was planned for 9 tomorrow morning.

The Blue and White pasers will put on a short drill this afternoon at 1:30 o'clock. After their workout they will be escorted to the C. & P. station here by the high school band and students. The entire student body will be dismissed at 3:15 in order that they may see the team away.

Zimmerman's Squad Loses Star Forward

On the day of their departure for Muskingum college where they will invade the ranks of Class A high school basketball contenders in the annual district tournament, Wellsville's school squad mourns the loss of their star forward and point maker.

Carl Weekley, who has developed into one of Coach Carl Zimmerman's most dependable performers, is out of the game as a result of two broken bones in his right foot.

Weekley's foot gave way last Tuesday evening during a practice drill in the high school gymnasium. He was unable to go on. A physician discovered broken bones. It is not likely that Weekley will be able to play the remainder of the season, according to Orange and Black athletic authorities.

Coach Carl Zimmerman will take a squad of seven players with him on the 4:10 train from the Third street station this afternoon. The squad will include Grafton, C. and H. Dickey, Scholl, Pignatore, Ross and Campbell. Grafton probably will start at center, with C. and H. Dickey on forwards and Scholl and Pignatore on guards. Pignatore also is capable of handling the center post.

Since last spring, however, the boys' enrollment in the school has increased to a mark beyond the 150 point, the dividing mark between Class B and Class A contenders.

"UNKNOWN WILL BEAT ME," THINKS DEMPSEY

By COPELAND C. BURC.

LOS ANGELES, March 5—Jack Dempsey believes fighter now unknown will beat him for the title.

"Some boxer no one ever heard of today is probably going through the hard days of preliminary fighting now that will end by knocking me over," declared the champion.

"I don't think Tommy Gibbons, Jack Renault, Harry Wills or any of the contenders today will ever wear the heavyweight crown.

"My reason for saying this is that I certainly will be champion for a while yet and all of the present crop are getting along in age; they cannot be their best in a short time.

Young Fighter.

"The man who wins the title will be a young fighter, probably not yet in his prime, just as I was when I beat Willard."

While a great many typewriters have worked overtime recently telling the world that Dempsey plans to retire, or does not figure on retiring, it's no secret that the champion has tired of the ring and would like to hang up his gloves.

"I surely will not be an active fighter in 1926 if I do not fight this year," said Dempsey. "I could hardly be in much shape without fighting in 1924 and 1925.

Wants To Quit.

"It would not be a very pleasant thing to drop out without defending my crown, but there would be nothing else to do if no promoters were able to get me into the ring before the Spring or Summer of 1926, let us say.

"Of course, I feel I will get one or two chances to fight this Summer, and that means I will probably be arranged for this year and figure I will retain my belt."

The heavyweight champion has started training at his new gymnasium and is working out there four or five times a week.

He is probably 20 or 25 pounds overweight.

Washington and Central Graders Win

Beat Lincoln and Maplewood Teams in Grammar School Games.

Cheered on by a large crowd of grade school students, the Central building basketball squad won from the Lincoln team by the score of 20 to 9, and the Washington passers trimmed the Maplewood quint, 15 to 5 in league engagements yesterday afternoon on the high school court.

The Central passers hopped into the lead at the start of the clash and held it during the remainder of the game. They topped their rivals by the count of 3 to 1 at the end of the quarter and increased it to 7 to 2 at the end of the half.

The Lincoln lads held their own in the third period when the count was 15 to 9. Central found the baskets for five more points in the concluding canto. Small, Congrove and Wotring were the leading performers for the Central five, while Witherow, McConnell and Dyke starred for the Lincolns.

In the Maplewood-Washington battle, the latter squad tripled the score on their rivals. The first period was close with Washington leading, 3 to 2. In the second, however, the Washington lads ran away from their foes, being out in front by the score of 11 to 2 when the period ended. Maplewood had failed to score at all. The Maplewood lads scored three points to their opponents' five in the final half.

Chetwin, Finney and Buxton were the Washington stars, while Archibald, Smith and Willshaw performed creditably for the losers.

Flying Finn Breaks Two More Records in Last Night's Events

NEW YORK, March 5.—Two new indoor running world records were on the books today, placed there by the incomparable Paavo Nurmi in the 106th infantry games last night.

The Finn smashed the marks for the mile and an eighth and two thousand yard runs, records he himself created since he came to this country. He lopped a 1-5 second off the time for the mile and an eighth covering the distance in 4:55. The two thousand yard distance was negotiated in 4:59 3-5, 1 1-5 seconds better than the old time.

TRAINING CAMP CHATTER

McGraw Orders Exercise.

SARASOTA, Fla., March 5. — John McGraw has ordered more intensive exercise for his squad of forty "patients" who are here taking Florida sun baths preparatory to the opening of fire works in the big leagues. As a result the boys are getting both morning and afternoon practice. Frank Dwyer, once famous big league pitcher, who was added to the Giants' coaching staff, has taken up his work of getting the young twirlers in condition.

Young Pitchers Developing.

TARPON SPRINGS, Fla., March 5. —With the good graces of Old Sol smiling down on them, the advance guard of the St. Louis Browns in training here have been able to round into good shape. The group of young pitchers, who have been working out since last Thursday, are beginning to show their stuff and when they faced some of the regulars today they were able to put something on the ball.

TAMPA, Fla., March 5.—"Sign one a day," is Griffith's motto, and he went forth and did likewise, signing "Rutch" Reuther the following day after he had come to terms with Walter Johnson. The morale of the Senators seemed to be considerably better today with Johnson and Reuther rejoining the family.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 5.—All of the Yankee pitchers are coming around in fine form. Gehrig, Columbia pitcher, is going especially well. Everett Scott, Steve O'Neil and Wally Schang also are ready.

Cobb Rates Present Hurling Staff Best Detroit's Ever Had

By Davis J. Walsh.

AUGUSTA, Ga., March 5.—Rank heresy though it may be to the old timers who held the late Bill Donovan, George Mullin, Killian, Willett and Summers in such high esteem, Ty Cobb came out on the flat of his feet today and declared the present Tiger pitching staff to be the best Detroit ever knew. The tidings may prompt Detroit citizens to rush out into the night proclaiming the rebirth of liberty, justice and the right to run over the nearest traffic cop. Since 1909, a Detroit pitcher has been like the Dodo—a species long extinct.

It has been the common impression that Mullin, Donovan, et al, took more than a passive part in the winning of three straight pennants between 1907 and 1909, but Cobb dissents.

"We won those pennants because we were a team of hitters," he declared. Donovan was a great pitcher; Mullin was well above the average. But you couldn't call two men a pitching staff. Our hitting carried the other pitchers.

"My present staff, Ripp Collins, Earl Whitehill, George Dauss, Ken Holloway, Sylvester Johnson, Herman Pillette, Lil Stone and Ed Wells, may not boast a Bill Donovan, but it certainly is superior to any staff Detroit has had in my twenty years with the club."

Banks on Substitutes.

The great man then elaborated on his statement of yesterday to the effect that he would play less than a hundred games this season. This decision, he intimated, was influenced as much by the belief that no man can keep going at top speed for a full season as by the fear that he himself is slipping.

"I have a capable substitute for every position and as soon as a regular begins to let down, out he comes," he said. "That goes for me, too. Of course, if I was younger and going the way I was some years ago, I would be in there every day. But I know I can't stand the pace and when I begin to feel it, some one else will be playing center field for Detroit.

"The whole club is built along those lines. I have two shortstops, Tavenor and Rigney. Fred Haney can relieve Jones at third base or O'Rourke at second. Johnny Neun stands ready to relieve Blue at first base. I have two good catchers, Bassler and Woodall, and a half dozen outfielders."

Cobb Likes Carlyle.

Pressed for answer as to the identity of the man he thought capable of supplanting him, Cobb became evasive.

"Manush should have a great year," he remarked with the air of one changing the subject. "He went badly in 1924, but he was just finding himself."

It is no Masonic secret that Cobb is somewhat enamored of young Carlyle, who hit .346 his first session in professional baseball. However, the Georgian is not the one to count unhatched chickens.

"It takes two years to make a ball player," was his cryptic reply to the Carlyle inquiry.

Patterson Foundry And Laughlin Teams Join Indoor League

Two more teams today joined the "Y" industrial indoor baseball league, bringing the circuit roster up to a total of eight.

Laughlin No. 5 and Patterson Foundry are the new entries.

The league teams will start play on the new schedule on next Monday, playing Monday, Wednesday and Friday evenings. There will be one game at 8 o'clock on Monday's and Wednesday's and two games on Friday night.

The eligibility rule which permits only bona fide shop players to take part, will be strictly enforced, league officials asserted.

The new league teams will practice Friday night. Laughlin 5 will take on E. M. Knowles and Patterson Foundry will tackle Liverpool Motors.

While the league will be carried on with eight teams at present, arrangements will be made to increase the roster if other shops want to enter.

Detrick Five On Edge For Title Battle

ALLIANCE, Mar. 5—Mount Union's basketball squad has been unable to schedule any game between the Heidelberg and Wooster matches.

Coach Ray Deitrick's men will have to go into the fateful game with the Presbyterians without the valuable practise another clash would have given them.

The narrow margin by which the Purple won at Heidelberg has shown them what a fight will be needed to pick the championship from the Ohio conference tree.

"Lefty" Miller, captain and center of the Mount Union quintet, is looming up as a very real contender for the position of All-Ohio center.

Mix together equal parts of coolness, of speed and of good generalship; add to these a generous portion of modesty and willingness to sink himself in the good of the team and you have a fair idea of Miller. His long shots have helped Mount out of many a tight place this season.

The six-footer from Canton received honorable mention last year in the All-Ohio honors list.

Flying Finn Breaks Two More Records in Last Night's Events

NEW YORK, March 5.—Two new indoor running world records were on the books today, placed there by the incomparable Paavo Nurmi in the 106th infantry games last night.

The Finn smashed the marks for the mile and an eighth and two thousand yard runs, records he himself created since he came to this country. He lopped a 1-5 second off the time for the mile and an eighth covering the distance in 4:55. The two thousand yard distance was negotiated in 4:59 3-5, 1 1-5 seconds better than the old time.

TRAINING CAMP CHATTER

McGraw Orders Exercise.

SARASOTA, Fla., March 5.—John McGraw has ordered more intensive exercise for his squad of forty "patients" who are here taking Florida sun baths preparatory to the opening of fire works in the big leagues. As a result the boys are getting both morning and afternoon practice. Frank Dwyer, once famous big league pitcher, who was added to the Giants' coaching staff, has taken up his work of getting the young twirlers in condition.

Young Pitchers Developing.

TARPON SPRINGS, Fla., March 5.—With the good graces of Old Sol smiling down on them, the advance guard of the St. Louis Browns in training here have been able to round into good shape. The group of young pitchers, who have been working out since last Thursday, are beginning to show their stuff and when they faced some of the regulars today they were able to put something on the ball.

TAMPA, Fla., March 5.—"Sign one a day," is Griffith's motto, and he went forth and did likewise, signing "Rutch" Reuther the following day after he had come to terms with Walter Johnson. The morale of the Senators seemed to be considerably better today with Johnson and Reuther rejoining the family.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 5.—All of the Yankee pitchers are coming around in fine form. Gehrig, Columbia pitcher, is going especially well. Everett Scott, Steve O'Neil and Wally Schang also are ready.

Cobb Rates Present Hurling Staff Best Detroit's Ever Had

By Davis J. Walsh.

AUGUSTA, Ga., March 5.—Rank heresy though it may be to the old timers who held the late Bill Donovan, George Mullin, Killian, Willett and Summers in such high esteem, Ty Cobb came out on the flat of his feet today and declared the present Tiger pitching staff to be the best Detroit ever knew. The tidings may prompt Detroit citizens to rush out into the night proclaiming the rebirth of liberty, justice and the right to run over the nearest traffic cop. Since 1909, a Detroit pitcher has been like the Dodo—a species long extinct.

It has been the common impression that Mullin, Donovan, et al, took more than a passive part in the winning of three straight pennants between 1907 and 1909, but Cobb dissents.

"We won those pennants because we were a team of hitters," he declared. Donovan was a great pitcher; Mullin was well above the average. But you couldn't call two men a pitching staff. Our hitting carried the other pitchers.

"My present staff, Ripp Collins, Earl Whitehill, George Dauss, Ken Holloway, Sylvester Johnson, Herman Pillette, Lil Stone and Ed Wells, may not boast a Bill Donovan, but it certainly is superior to any staff Detroit has had in my twenty years with the club."

Banks on Substitutes.

The great man then elaborated on his statement of yesterday to the effect that he would play less than a hundred games this season. This decision, he intimated, was influenced as much by the belief that no man can keep going at top speed for a full season as by the fear that he himself is slipping.

"I have a capable substitute for every position and as soon as a regular begins to let down, out he comes," he said. "That goes for me, too. Of course, if I was younger and going the way I was some years ago, I would be in there every day. But I know I can't stand the pace and when I begin to feel it, some one else will be playing center field for Detroit.

"The whole club is built along those lines. I have two shortstops, Tavenor and Rigney. Fred Haney can relieve Jones at third base or O'Rourke at second. Johnny Neun stands ready to relieve Blue at first base. I have two good catchers, Bassler and Woodall, and a half dozen outfielders."

Cobb Likes Carlyle.

Pressed for answer as to the identity of the man he thought capable of supplanting him, Cobb became evasive.

"Manush should have a great year," he remarked with the air of one changing the subject. "He went badly in 1924, but he was just finding himself."

It is no Masonic secret that Cobb is somewhat enamored of young Carlyle, who hit .346 his first session in professional baseball. However, the Georgian is not the one to count unhatched chickens.

"It takes two years to make a ball player," was his cryptic reply to the Carlyle inquiry.

Patterson Foundry And Laughlin Teams Join Indoor League

Two more teams today joined the "Y" industrial indoor baseball league, bringing the circuit roster up to a total of eight.

Laughlin No. 5 and Patterson Foundry are the new entries.

The league teams will start play on the new schedule on next Monday, playing Monday, Wednesday and Friday evenings. There will be one game at 8 o'clock on Monday's and Wednesday's and two games on Friday night.

The eligibility rule which permits only bona fide shop players to take part, will be strictly enforced, league officials asserted.

The new league teams will practice Friday night. Laughlin 5 will take on E. M. Knowles and Patterson Foundry will tackle Liverpool Motors.

While the league will be carried on with eight teams at present, arrangements will be made to increase the roster if other shops want to enter.

Detrick Five On Edge For Title Battle

ALLIANCE, Mar. 5—Mount Union's basketball squad has been unable to schedule any game between the Heidelberg and Wooster matches.

Coach Ray Deitrick's men will have to go into the fateful game with the Presbyterians without the valuable practise another clash would have given them.

The narrow margin by which the Purple won at Heidelberg has shown them what a fight will be needed to pick the championship from the Ohio conference tree.

"Lefty" Miller, captain and center of the Mount Union quintet, is looming up as a very real contender for the position of All-Ohio center.

Mix together equal parts of coolness, of speed and of good generalship; add to these a generous portion of modesty and willingness to sink himself in the good of the team and you have a fair idea of Miller. His long shots have helped Mount out of many a tight place this season.

The six-footer from Canton received honorable mention last year in the All-Ohio honors list.

A MAN alone in a city flat, a group by the farm-house lamp—these, and a million other listeners, held spell-bound by the far-flung voice of Radio.

Amazing, the way Radio is sweeping the country. Almost without parallel — yet not entirely.

Such popularity must be deserved

SPORT SPARKS

Today in Sport History.

JERUSALEM — Samson, famous "strong boy," was to do his stuff here tonight. Every man in the city was expected to be present when the bob-bed-hair giant puts his shoulder against the pillars of the temple and attempts to make good his boast.

Samson will be remembered as the hero of the Battle of the Plains, when he destroyed 10,000 Philistines. He has been in poor physical condition lately, however, and local sportsmen were laying odds of 4 to 1 this afternoon that he will be unable to wreck the temple.

ON BOARD THE ARK — All was well on the Ark today, the sixteenth day of Noah's round-the-world cruise. The flood was still rising, and Weather Bureau officials estimated it would reach a height of 69 feet before subsiding.

A catastrophe was narrowly averted this morning when all the elephants moved over to the starboard side of the ark.

Captain Noah stated in an official communique to reporters this morning that he expects to dock at Hoboken in ten days. If no land is sighted by that time, he said, an extra deck will have to be built for the rabbits.

BOSTON—John J. Sullivan, a local heavyweight, outpointed Battling Beefo here tonight in a ten-round bout. Sullivan hits hard, but swings so wildly that it is doubtful whether he will ever become a first-rate fighter.

Sullivan received 60 per cent of the purse, which amounted to $150. A record crowd of 500 witnessed the bout.

Rickard Will Show Champions in New York Baseball Lot

NEW YORK, March 5.—The appearance of a number of boxing champions in action during the comming summer was generally forecast today as the result of the taking over of the Yankee stadium by Tex Rickard for the purpose of conducting bouts when the ball park is not used for baseball purposes.

Rickard said that the first fight he plans in the stadium will be one between Jack Delaney and Paul Berlenbach for the week of May 22. Delaney holds a knockout decision over Berlenbach, Eddie Martin, bantam champion, Pancho Villa, flyweight titleholder and possibly Jack Dempsey are others that will be featured, the promoter said. He will also make an effort to match Tom Gibbons and Harry Wills for a bout.

The London and North Eastern Railway will build 295 locomotives and 521 passenger and 11,700 freight cars, add four through and nine suburban passenger services, renew lines on 7,000 miles of road and improve stations, the total cost being $30,000,000.

Late President's Father "Listens in" As Chief Speaks

MARION, Ohio, March 4.—Dr. George T. Harding father of the late President Harding yesterday heard President Coolidge's speech by radio at Hotel Harding, where a specially constructed radio outfit was erected.

"I sure would like to have gone to Washington and to have been President Coolidge's guest, but the weather was too cold for an old man to make the trip," Dr. Harding explained.

Men Assailed.

ELYRIA—L. D. Hamlin, Lorain county humane agent, said men have no respect for the laws. He declared that more than 1,000 men abandoned their wives and families here during the past two years. During the same period there were less than 1,650 weddings.

An aluminum box that will hold fire of absorbent wool and paraffin, and may be moved from stove to stove to give heat to rooms for a short time, has been invented.

Today in Sport History.

JERUSALEM — Samson, famous "strong boy," was to do his stuff here tonight. Every man in the city was expected to be present when the bobbed-hair giant puts his shoulder against the pillars of the temple and attempts to make good his boast.

Samson will be remembered as the hero of the Battle of the Plains, when he destroyed 10,000 Philistines. He has been in poor physical condition lately, however, and local sportsmen were laying odds of 4 to 1 this afternoon that he will be unable to wreck the temple.

ON BOARD THE ARK — All was well on the Ark today, the sixteenth day of Noah's round-the-world cruise. The flood was still rising, and Weather Bureau officials estimated it would reach a height of 69 feet before subsiding.

A catastrophe was narrowly averted this morning when all the elephants moved over to the starboard side of the ark.

Captain Noah stated in an official communique to reporters this morning that he expects to dock at Hoboken in ten days. If no land is sighted by that time, he said, an extra deck will have to be built for the rabbits.

BOSTON—John J. Sullivan, a local heavyweight, outpointed Battling Beefo here tonight in a ten-round bout. Sullivan hits hard, but swings so wildly that it is doubtful whether he will ever become a first-rate fighter.

Sullivan received 60 per cent of the purse, which amounted to $150. A record crowd of 500 witnessed the bout.

Rickard Will Show Champions in New York Baseball Lot

NEW YORK, March 5.—The appearance of a number of boxing champions in action during the comming summer was generally forecast today as the result of the taking over of the Yankee stadium by Tex Rickard for the purpose of conducting bouts when the ball park is not used for baseball purposes.

Rickard said that the first fight he plans in the stadium will be one between Jack Delaney and Paul Berlenbach for the week of May 22. Delaney holds a knockout decision over Berlenbach, Eddie Martin, bantam champion, Pancho Villa, flyweight titleholder and possibly Jack Dempsey are others that will be featured, the promoter said. He will also make an effort to match Tom Gibbons and Harry Wills for a bout.

The London and North Eastern Railway will build 295 locomotives and 521 passenger and 11,700 freight cars, add four through and nine suburban passenger services, renew lines on 7,000 miles of road and improve stations, the total cost being $30,000,000.

Late President's Father "Listens in" As Chief Speaks

MARION, Ohio, March 4.—Dr. George T. Harding father of the late President Harding yesterday heard President Coolidge's speech by radio at Hotel Harding, where a specially constructed radio outfit was erected.

"I sure would like to have gone to Washington and to have been President Coolidge's guest, but the weather was too cold for an old man to make the trip," Dr. Harding explained.

Men Assailed.

ELYRIA—L. D. Hamlin, Lorain county humane agent, said men have no respect for the laws. He declared that more than 1,000 men abandoned their wives and families here during the past two years. During the same period there were less than 1,650 weddings.

An aluminum box that will hold fire of absorbent wool and paraffin, and may be moved from stove to stove to give heat to rooms for a short time, has been invented.

CHILDLESS HOMES

Kewanee, Illinois. — "When I was married about a year and a half I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound because of ill health. I did not have any children. I now have two healthy little girls and I am sure I would not have had them had it not been for your medicine. Last spring and summer I got all run-down, irregular, and I had awful headaches, and my back and side hurt me so that I could stay up only a short time. My limbs would get so tired and ache till I could cry. I started to take the Vegetable Compound again and used the Sanative Wash, and it was not long till I was relieved. Now I do all my own work and help others. I sure praise Lydia E. Pinkham's medicines to any one I meet that is suffering from similar troubles. I think if mothers with girls would give it to them when they come to womanhood it would make them stronger. People who have known me all my life are astonished to see me now as I was always sickly when in my 'teens and until I started taking the Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. MARY R. BENEDICT, 313 Payson Street, Kewanee, Illinois.

Eight Hours' Study Daily Is Advocated For College Students

SYRACUSE, N. Y.—Eight hours' study a day, nine hours' sleep a night, and no lunch, are the salient features of the program of Joseph V. Dempsey, who has crashed through three semesters at the college of law, Syracuse university, for an average of 95 per cent in his scholastic work.

Dempsey is a graduate of Wesleyan university, and the son of a prominent Connecticut lawyer. He is 29 years of age, but in spite of this intense application to study and his several years' seniority over the other law students, he is recognized as a "real fellow."

Dempsey rises at 6 a. m., has a roll and a glass of milk for breakfast and doesn't eat again until 6 p. m., when he has dinner. Instead of lunch he takes a shower bath daily at noon. His study periods are from 8 to 9 a. m., 12 to 5 and 7 to 9 p. m.

Professor T. A. Levy missed a class in quasi contracts recently. Dempsey took the chair and conducted the class to everybody's satisfaction—except a few who thought they were going to have an hour off.
